Steel For Cars, Other Goods Cut 20 Per Cent

Slash Ordered By Government Starting April 1

Further Cutbacks Due Later In Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The National Production Authority today announced a cutback on steel that may lead to smaller autos and dwindling supplies of radio and television sets, refrigerators and other household appliances.

The agency said that beginning April 1, steel for passenger automobiles and other goods will be slashed 20 per cent below the average level of the first half of 1950.

NPA Chief Manly Fleischmann said the program is designed to save about 1,000,000 tons of steel for defense production.

NPA officials said a 30 per cent cut may be necessary in the third quarter of this year, beginning July 1.

Fleischmann told reporters that the auto industry will be free to make as many cars as it can with the steel it gets. He said some manufacturers may choose to make smaller, less expensive cars.

Copper, Aluminum Use Cut

In Detroit, industry sources predicted that almost as many cars will be built in the first half of this year as in the same period last year.

Despite the cutback, Fleischmann said it will be possible to continue the production of consumer goods at high levels—"in most instances at levels never attained before 1949 and 1950."

Keyed with the steel cut, NPA announced a 25 per cent reduction in copper and a 35 per cent cut in aluminum below the average level during the first half of 1950. These will apply to products affected by the steel cutback.

Elsewhere on the mobilization front:

1. The three labor members of the Wage Stabilization Board, who quit in a huff last week over the administration's proposed wage-control policy, issued a statement blasting the government's anti-inflation program.

Labor Leaders, Johnston Confer

The labor men declared:

"The basic causes of inflation have not yet been seriously attacked. Prices are still rising rapidly, although allegedly frozen; profits, although fantastically high, are being guaranteed; an equitable tax program x x x has not been adopted."

2. Labor union leaders representing nearly 16,000,000 workers talked at length with Eric Johnston, economic mobilization chief, on their multiple complaints about the mobilization program.

Their chief protests have been that "big business" has dominated the program, with labor left out in the cold, and that a proposed federal wage ceiling is unfair to labor.

Johnston met with public members of the wage board, as well as labor union men, and told reporters later he was "trying to find the basis for complete labor support" of a wage ceiling formula.

3-Way Pacific Pact Discussed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States is considering a formal defense alliance with Australia and New Zealand as a start toward a broad Pacific pact modeled after the North Atlantic defense treaty.

Britain, France and Portugal would be excluded, however, under present planning because of their "colonial' background.

A triangular defense arrangement with Australia and New Zealand is now being discussed, it was learned, by John Foster Dulles Secretary of State Acheson's Republican foreign policy advisor.

Dulles, who is now touring the Pacific, already has talked this possibility over with Gen. MacArthur and Prime Minister Yoshida in Japan and with the Australian and New Zealand foreign ministers in a joint meeting at Canberra, Australia. He is expected to stop off in New Zealand shortly to discuss the broad problems of security in the Pacific and the Japanese peace treaty with New Zealand Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland.

"U. R. Swindled's" Check For $3.50 Goes A Long Way

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 20 (AP)—Nobody knew the $3.50 check was phony until it showed up at the bank for payment. Then it was found the signature read: "U. R. Swindled."

Ralph Volm, assistant cashier of the Illinois National Bank of Quincy, today told this story:

A Quincy wholesale grocer firm got the check from a Macon, Mo., grocer and deposited it in the Quincy bank. It was drawn on a Macon bank.

It went through the Quincy clearing house and the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis before it finally reached the Macon bank.

Then the signature was noticed and the check marked "no such account." The Macon grocer can't recall who gave him the check.

RFC "Influence" Hearing Ordered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—E. Marl Young, who in 10 years rose from a $1,080-a-year assistant messenger boy to a $28,000-a-year executive, gets his chance tomorrow to say whether he ever claimed he could influence million-dollar government loans.

The Senate Banking subcommittee today ordered a full hearing on charges of political influence in Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loans.

Also due to testify tomorrow: Young's accuser, Ross Bohannon of Dallas, lawyer for the Texmass Petroleum Co.

On Feb. 2 the subcommittee, in a bitter report on the RFC entitled "Favoritism And Influence," had a special section set aside for Texmass.

It said Bohannon had testified that Young had offered to help Texmass get a loan from RFC.

Young's price tag on his influence, according to Bohannon, was $85,000.

Bohannon said he told RFC Chairman Harley Hise about the offer, that Hise said no such influence was needed and that Young never was hired.

In May, 1950, Texmass got a $10,100,000 loan from RFC. The company reorganized an went into receivership after getting the money.

Tydings Charges "Lies" Beat Him In Last Election

Sen. Butler Labels Attacks Unjustified

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Millard Tydings, for 24 years a Democratic senator from Maryland, said today that "lies" beat him in the last election. But the man who defeated him, Sen. Butler (R-Md), said Tydings is resorting to "reckless and unjustified attacks upon me."

These two views were presented to a Senate Elections subcommittee. It's studying the Maryland election, won by Butler by 43,000 votes.

Tydings said he hopes the committee will recommend criminal libel action against those who spread the "lies."

"Fishing Expedition"—Butler

Butler said the investigation is a "fishing expedition." He asked what grounds the committee had for continuing it since, he said, the proper Maryland authorities had certified his election.

Thus the investigation began on the same note on which the campaign ended — with harsh name-calling.

Nor was the end likely to come soon. The committee put off cross-examining Tydings until mid-March. It will meet again Tuesday, but it was not disclosed who the witnesses would be.

Tydings brought in a copy of a four-page tabloid called "From The Record," which was circulated during the campaign.

He said this "scurrilous literature" contained a "faked photograph" showing him with Earl Browder, former Communist Party secretary.

Tydings Accuses Pair

Tydings said the tabloid was "conceived, printed and circulated in moral squalor by the dishonorable conspiratogs and perpetrators, who knew in advance it was a tissue of lies from beginning to end."

Tydings said those responsible for "From The Record" were Frank Smith, former editorial writer for the Washington Times Herald and now administrative assistant to Butler, and Jon M. Jonkel, Chicago

U. S. Officer In Korea Tells Of Experiencing "Miracle"

ATLANTA, Feb. 20 (AP) — Little Carolyn Purcell's escape from blindness or death was a "miracle" half way around the world, on a frozen battlefield of Korea.

A battle-hardened officer wrote of experiencing the "miracle" as he prayed for Carolyn and "the tears froze on my face."

His letter was delivered today to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, who once feared their four-year-old daughter might lose her sight or life from cancer. A later diagnosis, however, was inflamation of the eye and Carolyn is now recovering.

The letter to the Purcells was signed Lt. John F. Phillips, APO 301, Care of Postmaster, San Francisco. It recounted that he read the story of Carolyn's affliction in Time magazine and it "stopped me cold."

"It was unbearable, even to think of it," the letter continued. "And then for the first time since I have been in Korea I started praying.

"Even as the tears froze on my face a soldier handed me a late issue of 'Stars and Stripes.'

"The first headline I saw was 'doomed child found to be free of cancer.' x x x

"I want you to know that x x x faraway x x x an American soldier rejoiced with you and little Carolyn."

U. S. Proposes Big 4 Meeting In Washington

Note Blames USSR For World Tension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States has proposed to Russia that a Big Four foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions be held in Washington provided a "mutually acceptable basis" for it can be agreed upon.

The American note, made public tonight, was delivered in Moscow last night to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Parallel notes were delivered by Great Britain and France.

The U. S. note declared that the primary cause of the tense world situation is the "general attitude" of the Soviet Union.

Preliminary Talks In Paris

It suggested that a preliminary meeting of representatives of the four powers be held in Paris March 5, on condition that Russia agree to talk about the real causes of international troubles.

Russia has accused the Western Allies of seeking to build up aggressive forces in Western Germany and has said this is a prime cause of tension. But the U. S. note denied this charge as "totally without foundation."

"The U. S. government wishes to emphasize, moreover," the note said, "that in Western Germany there do not exist any German military forces, or any German war industry and that the only 'fait accompli' (thing accomplished) in this field in Europe, is the existence of the huge armaments maintained by the Soviet bloc which include forces raised in East Germany.

Yes Or No Answer Due

"In short, the serious tension which exists at present arises in the first instance from the general attitude adopted by the government of the U. S. S. R. since the end of the war."

The U. S., British and French notes were worded in such a way as to get the Soviet government to give a yes or no answer to the western conditions for holding the preliminary Paris talks. The Russians have wanted to discuss only Germany but have said it was possible for other subjects to come up.

Laborites Defeat Censure Motion

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Labor government defeated a Conservative motion of censure by a vote of 302 to 295 tonight on the issue of its peanut-growing scheme in Africa.

The motion in the House of Commons was the fifth try this month by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to overthrow Prime Minister Attlee's government.

Churchill demanded that the House of Commons reject a government bill to write off a loss of £36,500,000 ($102,000,000) in a venture by the government's overseas corporation to raise peanuts on a gigantic scale in Tanganyika.

The government bill proposed to spend £6,000,000 ($16,800,000) more, but on experimental projects alone, and turn the scheme over to the Colonial Ministry. The Food Ministry had supervision of the original plan to clear thousands of acres in Tanganyika to grow peanuts for food fats.

Police Officer Denies Gambler's Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — George F. Richardson, Philadelphia's deputy police superintendent, indignantly denied before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that he had ever accepted gifts and hospitality from a big-time gambler.

The gray-haired policeman rushed down from Philadelphia to challenge the testimony of Harry (Nig) Rosen, once the city's numbers racket boss, that he had showered Richardson with expensive gifts and entertained him at fancy night spots.

"He couldn't get near me with a million dollars," Richardson shouted. He referred to Rosen as "a yellow cur," and "a bum."

U. S. Army Plans To Release Guardsmen And Reservists As Federal Duty Completed

No More Divisions Will Be Called Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Regular Army divisions will form the backbone of the Army under plans which call for the release of about 233,800 National Guardsmen and reservists when they have completed their current federal duty.

The Army's chief of training and planning, Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, disclosed this today. He also said that no more National Guard divisions than the six now in service will be called unless the world situation forces more complete military mobilization.

There was no immediate explanation of the effect of today's announcement on the possible use of guard divisions overseas.

Exact Number Withheld

However, one army official said later he would not assume that this precludes possible assignment of at least some of the divisions to overseas duty.

Gen. Taylor said that 98,000 guardsmen in units ranging from small detachments to divisions were on duty at the beginning of this year. This total did not include about 19,800 guard officers and men who entered federal service Jan. 16 with the 31st and 47th National Guard Divisions.

The Army has declined for security reasons, to disclose the exact number of guard and reserve personnel on active duty today.

Gen. Taylor asserted that the Army was now conferring with National Guard and state administrations to solve the problem of what to do with the six guard divisions when they have completed their statutory service. Existing regulations provide that guardsmen and reservists serve 21 months. The universal military service law now being debated in Congress seeks to extend this service to 24 or 27 months.

Laws Provide Return

Present laws also provide the return of National Guard divisions as a whole to the states when they have completed their federal service.

Gen. Taylor said that for historical and for state pride reasons it would probably be best to return the names of the divisions to the states when they came. The Army would hold the framework of their trained strength, however, by giving new regular army designations to the non-guard officers and men now training with the divisions.

Price Of Sunday Sun Increased Five Cents

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Baltimore Sunpapers announced today it is increasing the price of the Sunday Sun five cents because of "severe and continuing increases in the cost of operation."

The new prices become effective with next Sunday's editions.

The newspaper delivered by carrier or purchased from dealers or on the street on Sundays will cost 15 cents. The price has been 10 cents.

Purchased from dealers or on the street Saturday evenings, the newspaper will cost 20 cents. It has been 15 cents.

Epidemic Deaths Rise

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 20 (AP)—Deaths from Calcutta's raging smallpox epidemic broke all known records to total 462 for the week ending Feb. 17, it was reported today. This was an increase of 145 over the previous week.

Italian Catholic Action Reports Communism Declining In Europe

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP)—Communism is losing ground throughout Europe, the press office of Italian Catholic Action reported today.

The office, which works under the presidency of the organization, made its findings available after conducting a series of inquiries in Catholic Action circles of other countries.

In France alone, it said, the Communist Party has lost 120,000 members during the past two years.

The office did not estimate the status of the Italian Communist Party, second largest outside the iron curtain. Last month it still claimed 2,500,000 members.

Truman's Troop Stand 'Puzzling'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Former Sen. Hawkes (R-NJ) said today Americans following the Great Debate on foreign policy wonder why President Truman wants to act on his own authority in the troops-for-Europe issue.

Hawkes, one-time president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said he has recently talked with great numbers of Americans on an 8,000-mile trip, and he told a Senate hearing:

"They are all wondering why the President does not crave congressional authorization and approval of such a momentous question as sending hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of our boys into foreign countries to engage in a possible World War III."

Hawkes testified at a hearing on the troops-for-Europe issue before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. He said:

Earlier, Calvin B. Baldwin, secretary of the left-wing Progressive Party, had told the senators that the administration's policy toward Russia is an "utter failure" and is leading this country to war.

Rep. Smith (R-Wis), another witness, declared he would vote against any proposal to send U. S. ground troops to Europe, but said he would be willing to send big air and naval forces there.

Private Bill Gave Vaughan Secretary U. S. Citizenship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The White House confirmed today that a pretty 41-year-old Australian brunette, who became a permanent resident of the United States under special legislation passed by Congress, is acting as secretary to President Truman's Army aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

The secretary is Mrs. Veronica Jolly, a $4,600-a-year civilian employe of the Army. She served with a long series of high-ranking American officers in the Pacific during World War II.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told a news conference that Mrs. Jolly was assigned to the White House on Dec. 1.

Cholly Knickerbocker, columnist for the New York Journal-American, wrote in the newspaper yesterday that "a former Australian who got her United States citizenship in no time at all" had set the capital "buzzing."

The column went on to say that the White House was "whispering about Harry Vaughan's beautiful private secretary who was rushed into her American citizenship and is now firmly established in the White House."

When a reporter asked whether it was a policy to offer a national of another country a job inside the White House, Short replied:

"She was engaged as secretary for generals during a critical war handling much more confidential matters than she is handling in the White House."

Plot To Deliver Inferior Meats To Army Bared

Packing Firm, Two Soldiers Accused

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20 (AP) — A meat packing firm and two soldiers today were charged with a $1,000,000 conspiracy to deliver inferior meats to the Army.

The group was indicted by a federal grand jury and accused of "a scheme to defraud the government."

Acting U. S. Attorney Grover Richman estimated the amount of the alleged conspiracy at $1,000,000.

"Corrupted" Inspectors

Ben Grunstein and Sons Co., of Hoboken, N. J., the Justice Department said, had "corrupted the Army inspectors" by gifts of money and payments in order to have them approve for "delivery to the Army large quantities of inferior meat."

In addition, those named in the indictment were the firm's vice president and secretary, William Grunstein, 37; former Army Capt. John F. Jones, 29, Easton, Md., and Army Sgt. Samuel A. Auman, 35, Dothan, Ala.

A spokesman at the firm's office declined comment.

These were the general allegations contained in the indictment, the Justice Department said:

Jones Accepted $600

Jones and Auman were assigned to inspect Army conrtact meats at the Grunstein plant at various times between April 1, 1947 and May 1, 1950.

Auman received between $50 and $100 a week from company officials, and Jones accepted $600 from the company to finish paying for an automobile.

If convicted under the indictment, the company could be fined up to $30,000; Grunstein would be subject to $30,000 in fines and 20 years imprisonment; and each of the Army men would be subject to $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

"World's Smallest Woman" Is Expectant

LOUISIANA, Mo., Feb. 20 (AP) — The woman who claims she is the "smallest woman in the world" is expectant.

She is Mrs. Lavonda Evans, 31, years old and about 24 inches tall.

Allies Erase Dent In Central Front

TOKYO, Wednesday, Feb. 21 (AP)—A day-long bombardment by the battleship Missouri 170 miles north of the 38th parallel was announced today as the Allies carried the fight to the Reds in Korea by land, air and sea.

A quick rundown of the three-way initiative:

Naval—The 45,000-ton "Big Mo" Tuesday blasted bridges and other targets at Tanchon on the northeast coast. To the south, other warships shelled the big east coast port of Wonsan for the seventh straight day.

Planes Fly 875 Sorties

Air—Allied warplanes flew 875 sorties Tuesday and spotted more enemy tanks than they have seen since mid-December. They knocked out six and damaged three.

Allied troops in the Chechon area erased a deep dent in the front.

North Korean troops broke and ran in the face of a tank-and-artillery-powered U. S. task force which hammered out the dent, once 10 miles deep.

The task force then captured Chuchon, 10 miles north of Chechon. The North Koreans in their push had closely menaced Chechon, road and rail key to any enemy advance into South Korea.

A U. S. Tenth Corps briefing officer said the enemy was pulling out of positions around Chuchon which is 18 miles east southeast of pivotal Wonju in the mountains.

Reds Sighted Moving North

Air observers reported sighting 20 Communist groups ranging from 200 to 300 men moving northward throughout the day up snow-crusted mountain trails.

On the west central front Associated Press War Correspondent Tom Bradshaw said strong reconnaissance patrols pushed five miles northeast of Chipyong before smashing into Chinese rear guards covering the main Chinese route of withdrawal toward the 38th parallel.

On the western front American, British and Turkish troops brought their lines up tight against the icy Han River in a continuous line all the way from Central Korea to Seoul and the Yellow Sea.

These frontline developments gave dramatic emphasis to Gen. MacArthur's personal order to field commanders to resume the offensive against the Communists.

MacArthur's order was given during his 11th visit to the Korean war front Tuesday for a first hand inspection of the central sector.

Two "Unidentified" Planes Bomb Allies

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Feb. 21 (Wednesday) (INS)—Army authorities disclosed today that two "unidentified" twin-engine bombers dropped an undetermined number of bombs Tuesday night in the Chuchon area on the Korean central front near Chechon.

"All About Eve" Wins Film Writers Award

Prize-winners were Joseph Mankiewicz and Mary Orr for "All About Eve"; Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder and D. M. Marshman Jr. for "Sunset Boulevard"; Michael Blankfort and Elliott Arnold for "Broken Arrow," best written western; and Carl Foreman for "The Man," which captured the Screen Writers' Guild's top trophy, the Robert Meltzer award for the picture which "best depicts the American scene."

U. S. Proposes Big 4 Meeting In Washington

Note Blames USSR For World Tension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States has proposed to Russia that a Big Four foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions be held in Washington provided a "mutually acceptable basis" for it can be agreed upon.

The American note, made public tonight, was delivered in Moscow last night to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Parallel notes were delivered by Great Britain and France.

The U. S. note declared that the primary cause of the tense world situation is the "general attitude" of the Soviet Union.

Preliminary Talks In Paris

It suggested that a preliminary meeting of representatives of the four powers be held in Paris March 5, on condition that Russia agree to talk about the real causes of international troubles.

Russia has accused the Western Allies of seeking to build up aggressive forces in Western Germany and has said this is a prime cause of tension. But the U. S. note denied this charge as "totally without foundation."

"The U. S. government wishes to emphasize, moreover," the note said, "that in Western Germany there do not exist any German military forces, or any German war industry and that the only 'fait accompli' (thing accomplished) in this field in Europe, is the existence of the huge armaments maintained by the Soviet bloc which include forces raised in East Germany.

Yes Or No Answer Due

"In short, the serious tension which exists at present arises in the first instance from the general attitude adopted by the government of the U. S. S. R. since the end of the war."

The U. S., British and French notes were worded in such a way as to get the Soviet government to give a yes or no answer to the western conditions for holding the preliminary Paris talks. The Russians have wanted to discuss only Germany but have said it was possible for other subjects to come up.

Laborites Defeat Censure Motion

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Labor government defeated a Conservative motion of censure by a vote of 302 to 295 tonight on the issue of its peanut-growing scheme in Africa.

The motion in the House of Commons was the fifth try this month by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to overthrow Prime Minister Attlee's government.

Churchill demanded that the House of Commons reject a government bill to write off a loss of £36,500,000 ($102,000,000) in a venture by the government's overseas corporation to raise peanuts on a gigantic scale in Tanganyika.

The government bill proposed to spend £6,000,000 ($16,800,000) more, but on experimental projects alone, and turn the scheme over to the Colonial Ministry. The Food Ministry had supervision of the original plan to clear thousands of acres in Tanganyika to grow peanuts for food fats.

Police Officer Denies Gambler's Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — George F. Richardson, Philadelphia's deputy police superintendent, indignantly denied before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that he had ever accepted gifts and hospitality from a big-time gambler.

The gray-haired policeman rushed down from Philadelphia to challenge the testimony of Harry (Nig) Rosen, once the city's numbers racket boss, that he had showered Richardson with expensive gifts and entertained him at fancy night spots.

"He couldn't get near me with a million dollars," Richardson shouted. He referred to Rosen as "a yellow cur," and "a bum."

U. S. Destroyer Struck Twice By Red Shells

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The U. S. destroyer Ozbourn was hit twice by Communist shore battery shells February 18 off Wonsan, Korea, the Navy disclosed today.

A spokesman said two men were slightly injured but were able to return to duty. One gun director was knocked out by shells believed to be of 75 mm caliber, he said.

U. S. Army Plans To Release Guardsmen And Reservists As Federal Duty Completed

No More Divisions Will Be Called Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Regular Army divisions will form the backbone of the Army under plans which call for the release of about 233,800 National Guardsmen and reservists when they have completed their current federal duty.

The Army's chief of training and planning, Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, disclosed this today. He also said that no more National Guard divisions than the six now in service will be called unless the world situation forces more complete military mobilization.

There was no immediate explanation of the effect of today's announcement on the possible use of guard divisions overseas.

Exact Number Withheld

However, one army official said later he would not assume that this precludes possible assignment of at least some of the divisions to overseas duty.

Gen. Taylor said that 98,000 guardsmen in units ranging from small detachments to divisions were on duty at the beginning of this year. This total did not include about 19,800 guard officers and men who entered federal service Jan. 16 with the 31st and 47th National Guard Divisions.

The Army has declined for security reasons, to disclose the exact number of guard and reserve personnel on active duty today.

Gen. Taylor asserted that the Army was now conferring with National Guard and state administrations to solve the problem of what to do with the six guard divisions when they have completed their statutory service. Existing regulations provide that guardsmen and reservists serve 21 months. The universal military service law now being debated in Congress seeks to extend this service to 24 or 27 months.

Laws Provide Return

Present laws also provide the return of National Guard divisions as a whole to the states when they have completed their federal service.

Gen. Taylor said that for historical and for state pride reasons it would probably be best to return the names of the divisions to the states when they came. The Army would hold the framework of their trained strength, however, by giving new regular army designations to the non-guard officers and men now training with the divisions.

Price Of Sunday Sun Increased Five Cents

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers announced today it is increasing the price of the Sunday Sun five cents because of "severe and continuing increases in the cost of operation."

The new prices become effective with next Sunday's editions.

The newspaper delivered by carrier or purchased from dealers or on the street on Sundays will cost 15 cents. The price has been 10 cents.

Purchased from dealers or on the street Saturday evenings, the newspaper will cost 20 cents. It has been 15 cents.

Epidemic Deaths Rise

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 20 (AP)—Deaths from Calcutta's raging smallpox epidemic broke all known records to total 462 for the week ending Feb. 17, it was reported today. This was an increase of 145 over the previous week.

Italian Catholic Action Reports Communism Declining In Europe

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP)—Communism is losing ground throughout Europe, the press office of Italian Catholic Action reported today.

The office, which works under the presidency of the organization, made its findings available after conducting a series of inquiries in Catholic Action circles of other countries.

In France alone, it said, the Communist Party has lost 120,000 members during the past two years.

The office did not estimate the status of the Italian Communist Party, second largest outside the iron curtain. Last month it still claimed 2,500,000 members.

Truman's Troop Stand 'Puzzling'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Former Sen. Hawkes (R-NJ) said today Americans following the Great Debate on foreign policy wonder why President Truman wants to act on his own authority in the troops-for-Europe issue.

Hawkes, one-time president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said he has recently talked with great numbers of Americans on an 8,000-mile trip, and he told a Senate hearing:

"They are all wondering why the President does not crave congressional authorization and approval of such a momentous question as sending hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of our boys into foreign countries to engage in a possible World War III."

Hawkes testified at a hearing on the troops-for-Europe issue before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. He said:

Earlier, Calvin B. Baldwin, secretary of the left-wing Progressive Party, had told the senators that the administration's policy toward Russia is an "utter failure" and is leading this country to war.

Rep. Smith (R-Wis), another witness, declared he would vote against any proposal to send U. S. ground troops to Europe, but said he would be willing to send big air and naval forces there.

Plot To Deliver Inferior Meats To Army Bared

Packing Firm, Two Soldiers Accused

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20 (AP) — A meat packing firm and two soldiers today were charged with a $1,000,000 conspiracy to deliver inferior meats to the Army.

The group was indicted by a federal grand jury and accused of "a scheme to defraud the government."

"Corrupted" Inspectors

Ben Grunstein and Sons Co., of Hoboken, N. J., the Justice Department said, had "corrupted the Army inspectors" by gifts of money and payments in order to have them approve for "delivery to the Army large quantities of inferior meat."

In addition, those named in the indictment were the firm's vice president and secretary, William Grunstein, 37; former Army Capt. John F. Jones, 29, Easton, Md., and Army Sgt. Samuel A. Auman, 35, Dothan, Ala.

A spokesman at the firm's office declined comment.

These were the general allegations contained in the indictment, the Justice Department said:

Jones Accepted $600

Jones and Auman were assigned to inspect Army conrtact meats at the Grunstein plant at various times between April 1, 1947 and May 1, 1950.

Auman received between $50 and $100 a week from company officials, and Jones accepted $600 from the company to finish paying for an automobile.

If convicted under the indictment, the company could be fined up to $30,000; Grunstein would be subject to $30,000 in fines and 20 years imprisonment; and each of the Army men would be subject to $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

"World's Smallest Woman" Is Expectant

LOUISIANA, Mo., Feb. 20 (AP) — The woman who claims she is the "smallest woman in the world" is expectant.

She is Mrs. Lavonda Evans, 31, years old and about 24 inches tall.

Private Bill Gave Vaughan Secretary U. S. Citizenship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The White House confirmed today that a pretty 41-year-old Australian brunette, who became a permanent resident of the United States under special legislation passed by Congress, is acting as secretary to President Truman's Army aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

The secretary is Mrs. Veronica Jolly, a $4,600-a-year civilian employe of the Army. She served with a long series of high-ranking American officers in the Pacific during World War II.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told a news conference that Mrs. Jolly was assigned to the White House on Dec. 1.

Cholly Knickerbocker, columnist for the New York Journal-American, wrote in the newspaper yesterday that "a former Australian who got her United States citizenship in no time at all" had set the capital "buzzing."

The column went on to say that the White House was "whispering about Harry Vaughan's beautiful private secretary who was rushed into her American citizenship and is now firmly established in the White House."

When a reporter asked whether it was a policy to offer a national of another country a job inside the White House, Short replied:

"She was engaged as secretary for generals during a critical war handling much more confidential matters than she is handling in the White House."

Targets North Of 38th Blasted By 'Mighty Mo'

Allies Erase Dent In Central Front

TOKYO, Wednesday, Feb. 21 (AP)—A day-long bombardment by the battleship Missouri 170 miles north of the 38th parallel was announced today as the Allies carried the fight to the Reds in Korea by land, air and sea.

A quick rundown of the three-way initiative:

Naval—The 45,000-ton "Big Mo" Tuesday blasted bridges and other targets at Tanchon on the northeast coast. To the south, other warships shelled the big east coast port of Wonsan for the seventh straight day.

Two "Unidentified" Planes Bomb Allies

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Feb. 21 (Wednesday) (INS)—Army authorities disclosed today that two "unidentified" twin-engine bombers dropped an undetermined number of bombs Tuesday night in the Chuchon area on the Korean central front near Chechon.

Planes Fly 875 Sorties

Air—Allied warplanes flew 875 sorties Tuesday and spotted more enemy tanks than they have seen since mid-December. They knocked out six and damaged three.

Allied troops in the Chechon area erased a deep dent in the front.

North Korean troops broke and ran in the face of a tank-and-artillery-powered U. S. task force which hammered out the dent, once 10 miles deep.

The task force then captured Chuchon, 10 miles north of Chechon. The North Koreans in their push had closely menaced Chechon, road and rail key to any enemy advance into South Korea.

A U. S. Tenth Corps briefing officer said the enemy was pulling out of positions around Chuchon which is 18 miles east southeast of pivotal Wonju in the mountains.

Reds Sighted Moving North

Air observers reported sighting 20 Communist groups ranging from 200 to 300 men moving northward throughout the day up snow-crusted mountain trails.

On the west central front Associated Press War Correspondent Tom Bradshaw said strong reconnaissance patrols pushed five miles northeast of Chipyong before smashing into Chinese rear guards covering the main Chinese route of withdrawal toward the 38th parallel.

On the western front American, British and Turkish troops brought their lines up tight against the icy Han River in a continuous line all the way from Central Korea to Seoul and the Yellow Sea.

These frontline developments gave dramatic emphasis to Gen. MacArthur's personal order to field commanders to resume the offensive against the Communists.

MacArthur's order was given during his 11th visit to the Korean war front Tuesday for a first hand inspection of the central sector.

"All About Eve" Wins Film Writers Award

Prize-winners were Joseph Mankiewicz and Mary Orr for "All About Eve"; Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder and D. M. Marshman Jr. for "Sunset Boulevard"; Michael Blankfort and Elliott Arnold for "Broken Arrow," best written western; and Carl Foreman for "The Man," which captured the Screen Writers' Guild's top trophy, the Robert Meltzer award for the picture which "best depicts the American scene."

Compromise UMST Bill Is Made Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — A compromise universal military service bill, providing for the drafting of youths at 18½ and lengthening the active service from 21 to 27 months, was made public today by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee.

Witness At Tax Hearing Quizzed About Loyalty

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — A labor union witness advocating reduced taxes for low income groups ran into questions from the House Ways and Means Committee today about his loyalty to the U. S.

Russ Nixon, Washington representative of the United Electrical Workers Union, denied that he is a Communist but protested answering further questions about whether he had ever been one.

Nixon was in the midst of a statement on President Truman's request for $16,500,000,000 new taxes when he was interrupted by Rep. Harrison (D-Va). Nixon had been advocating considerably higher tax exemptions for lower income groups.

Harrison said he thought it was important to determine whether Nixon was primarily interested in the well-being of this country or some other country. Nixon said he didn't understand the question, so Harrison asked:

"Are you a member of the Communist Party?"

"No Sir," Nixon replied.

"Well, have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?"

"I think my answer was adequate. I told you that I am not a member. I'm not going into a whole train of discussion on that."

Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa.) supported Nixon's contention that he should not be asked about political connections, but should be allowed to resume his tax recommendations. But Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he wouldn't attempt to curb the questioning.

Nixon's union was driven out of the CIO on grounds that its leadership was pro-Communist, a point raised by several committee members. Nixon, however, said the union "is a loyal group of American citizens, and so am I."

Several committee members suggested that Nixon be invited to leave the witness stand without concluding his testimony, but Chairman Doughton let him finish.

State Office Building Bill Strikes Constitutional Snag

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — A bill to locate part of any new state office buildings in Annapolis ran into a sudden dead end against the Constitution today.

The Senate had appeared on the verge of adopting the bill's favorable report tomorrow. Then the Senate was pointedly reminded the Constitution forbids consideration of any appropriation bills until the budget is passed.

The sponsor now is forced to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee tomorrow, and then to kill it. Then he'll start all over again by introducing a similar bill that will have to await the final few days of the 90-day session for action.

The Senate Finance Committee, over charges of "railroading," approved the bill containing an appropriation of $5,000,000 this morning. Its sponsor, Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), and Finance Chairman Goldstein (D-Calvert) opposed vigorously a motion to delay Senate action even one day.

They finally agreed to wait until tomorrow for a Senate vote, but Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) already had hinted it might be unconstitutional.

Over in the House Ways and Means Committee, Delegate Whitworth (R-Allegany) argued successfully for favorable report on a bill to eliminate the $2,500 state commissioner of tobacco marketing.

Spokesmen for labor and insurance companies disagreed before the committee over a proposed sickness insurance plan.

Labor representatives said working people not in voluntary sick benefit plans are entitled to aid. The Baltimore Association of Commerce and two insurance groups called the plan "socialistic."

They were arguing on a bill to impose a one per cent payroll tax, divided equally by employer and employe, to create a sickness insurance fund.

State Senators Favor 3-Year Assessment

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP)—A compromise plan for reassessing property every three years was favored today by the State Senate.

It is a compromise between the present system of assessing every five years and a bill to do it every year.

Senator from 20 of the 23 counties and the six from Baltimore City approved the three-year plan in a closed session. Sen. Sybert (D-Howard), chairman of a finance subcommittee working on a compromise, said only one county senator favored retention of the five-year system.

It is planned to divide each county and Baltimore City into three taxing districts instead of the present five. Each will be assessed in turn.

But the assessments will not be used for the basis of taxation until all three have been surveyed. All the assessments will be made on the basis of full market value during one of the three years.

Bills Would Increase Teachers' Pensions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — Three bills to raise the pensions of retired school teachers were introduced today by Delegate Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges).

One would give supplementary payments varying from 10 per cent to flat $300 a year increases.

Ex-Soldier At 13 Gets Home Late

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)— Brooklyn's 13-year-old soldier got home tonight, eight hours late but in time to stop his father from sending a posse after him.

The Army, said Eight-Grader George Raymundo, Jr., is "pretty tough," but he plans to rejoin as soon as he is 17.

Meanwhile, he'll go back to school.

George arrived home just as his father was getting ready to start a new search for him, speculating that "he's probably gone to California to try to get into the Army again."

But George explained it was just a mixup over train schedules.

The boy got into the Army with an altered birth certificate saying he was 18.

After his father tracked him down, the Army discharged him yesterday from the Army Proving Grounds at Aberdeen, Md.

He told his father by telephone he wanted to stay overnight and say goodbye to his Army buddies, and would arrive here by train at 1 p. m. (EST) today.

Three and a half hours and a half dozen trains later, Raymundo, Sr., was still waiting at Pennsylvania Station. He gave up and went home.

'Flu Cases Rise Sharply At Philadelphia, Fort Dix

[By The Associated Press]

A sharp upsurge of colds and influenza cases was reported by Philadelphia and a New Jersey Army camp, and other areas still have more than the usual number of stricken. The outbreaks in some sections of the nation, however, seemed to be dying down.

Philadelphia hung up an unwanted record of the most influenza cases since 1943, and the number of patients at Fort Dix, N. J., hit a three-week high.

Troops exposed to England's recent epidemic are believed to have brought back influenza to Fort Dix, N. J., where the number of patients yesterday jumped to 916.

Doctors insisted there was no epidemic but banned visitors at the post hospital.

Several barracks across from the hospital have been turned into wards and 192 fresh cases, including soldiers, their wives and children, were admitted to the hospital by midnight last night.

Philadelphia reported 34 new cases Monday, bringing the total since Jan. 1 to 202. Last year over the same period, there were 12 cases. Six grade schools suspended classes because of absentees.

Troops exposed to England's recent epidemic are believed to have brought back influenza to Fort Dix, N. J., where the number of patients yesterday jumped to 916.

Doctors insisted there was no epidemic but banned visitors at the post hospital.

Several barracks across from the hospital have been turned into wards and 192 fresh cases, including soldiers, their wives and children, were admitted to the hospital by midnight last night.

Philadelphia reported 34 new cases Monday, bringing the total since Jan. 1 to 202. Last year over the same period, there were 12 cases. Six grade schools suspended classes because of absentees.

Stock Market Booms As People Put More Money In It Than Ever Before

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK—(AP)—If you've got any extra money kicking around, would the stock market be the place for it?

More people right now apparently are putting more of their cash money into the stock market than ever before.

Why?

Fear of the ravages of inflation is one popular answer. By that is meant the fear that the purchasing power of the dollar will decline still further and that certain types of common stocks will provide a satisfactory hedge against inflation. Everybody knows that the dollar won't buy as much today as it did ten years ago. Lots of folks say we have a 50-cent dollar. Perhaps we have, give or take a few cents.

In any event, holding on to dollars isn't profitable. If your dollar isn't working it isn't earning any money.

You certainly have a safe and liquid investment when you hold dollars. Is there anything safer or more readily available than an iron pot full of silver dollars buried in your basement?

Silver dollars are pretty imperishable things in themselves, and the value of the melted down silver alone is worth nearly 70 cents!

Or suppose you put your money ten years ago into the highest yield government bond — the "E" bond. It would pay off 2.9 per cent today. That's the return when you get back $100 in ten years for your original $75.

And now this stock market thing. Suppose you put your money into common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange back in 1941. Prices in the stock market in 1941, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, hit a high point for 1951 — $96.90.

If you had "bought the averages" so to speak, back in 1941 you could have sold ten years later at a profit of more than 115 per cent.

Not all common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange went up that high in ten years. Some went considerably higher. Others didn't do so well.

All the while your dollars would have been growing in the stock market, and they would have been working and earning money.

The New York Stock Exchange shows that of the 1,039 common stocks listed on the exchange at the start of this year, 930 of them paid cash dividends in 1950. The median rate of return last year was 6.7 per cent.

On the same basis your money would have earned 9.3 per cent back in 1941, the highest rate of return in the last ten years. The lowest was 3.6 per cent in 1945.

There are two things to consider in buying common stocks—income and capital appreciation — and neither one is guaranteed.

You get as much guarantee of a profit in the stock market as you do in any business. In fact you might say "exactly as much as in any business" because common stocks represent ownership of business itself.

Can you "lose your shirt" in the stock market? You certainly can. But as things are today you would have to be mighty stupid to be "wiped out" in the sense that you would lose everything.

To begin with, members of the New York Exchange stress investment and not speculation in their approach to the general public. They aren't interested in getting the business of the so-called "little fellow" who "wants to take a flier."

You just can't walk into a broker's office and demand that he take your order. He can—and will—refuse to do business with you for any number of reasons, including the fact that he might not think it wise for you to put your money into the stock market.

Don't get the idea that brokers stand at their doors with baseball bats to keep people away. Brokers like customers.

The New York Stock Exchange and its members spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year to educate the public in the ways of the stock market.

Ask any broker about any company, and he immediately will make available to you all of the information on the company that is available to anybody including the president of the New York Stock Exchange himself.

Then you make your own decision, with the help of your broker, about what to do with your spare cash. And don't be surprised if he recommends that you leave it in your savings account or buy government bonds.

But if you do invest in stocks, what do you want? An old-line dividend payer? There is one that's been paying every year for more than 100 years. About 90 per cent of the common stocks listed on the stock exchange paid cash dividends last year. The total came to $5,403,664,000.

Or do you want the investment type, the liberal income stock, the good quality issue, or the speculative security? They all are for sale, and they sell fast.

In fact last year the volume of trading was the highest since 1933. It totaled 524,799,621 shares. The biggest year on record was 1929 when trading piled up to the total of 1,124,800,410 shares.

Medical Manpower

The military force of 3½ million, now scheduled for mid-1951, will require the services of 13,000 doctors, 6,500 dentists, and 16,000 nurses. These are the estimates of the Defense Department, which has authority to call on Selective Service for doctors and dentists, but not nurses, if requirements are not filled through volunteering.

The medical men needed before the first of July represent something over eight per cent of all doctors and dentists now in private practice in the United States. The very much larger numbers that would be needed under full mobilization are compelling consideration of how best to meet military requirements without reducing health care of the civilian population to the danger point.

Expanding military calls on the nation's resources in health personnel come at a time when these resources are already inadequate in some sections. Sixteen states have over twice as many people per doctor in private practice as New York, where the doctor-population ratio is most favorable. Twenty-one states have twice as many people per dentist. The shortage of nurses is widespread. Generally speaking, urban areas are better supplied than rural districts.

Whether or not the present overall supply is adequate for civilian needs in peacetime, there is no question that even the largest cities would suffer acute shortages of health personnel in case of enemy attack. Telling of health planning by the National Security Resources Board, Dr. H. A. Rusk said, January 9: "We realized we coud not be profligate again, as we were in the last war, for if we got into a catastrophe it would be a different kind of a blow, and we would not have enough facilities to do the job." The President in his State of the Union message called for legislation "to increase the supply of doctors, nurses, and other trained personnel critically needed for the defense effort."

Before commencement of the current rearmament program, the U.S. Public Health Service estimated that, at current rates of graduation from medical schools, the country would be short 15,000 doctors, 5,000 dentists and perhaps 50,000 nurses by 1960. Now it is estimated that the doctor shortage will exceed the figure estimated for 1960 in 1954 if the armed services are expanded at an annual rate of 500,000 after mid-1951.

Proposals for enlarging the country's resources of medical personnel must reckon with the fact that the professional schools are now operating at capacity and the further fact that most of them are operating in the red. Last year's deficits of the 79 approved medical colleges were estimated at $10 million, about a fifth of their combined budgets. Three-quarters of the qualified appicants for enrollment were turned away. Bills now awaiting action by Congress would authorize federal grants to professional schools to help meet the widening gap between cost of instruction and income available from tuition, endowment, and other sources. Also proposed is rapid expansion of training facilities for practical nurses.

The Army has estimated its present requirements on the basis of four doctors, two dentists and five nurses per 1,000 servicemen. These ratios, particularly for doctors, have been criticized in Congress as needlessly extravagant and far out of line with the peacetime ratio of one doctor to about 1,000 civilians.

In support of the 4 : 1,000 ratio, the Army points out that the military medical officer, in addition to caring for battle casualties, must control living conditions of the men in his charge and exercise other preventive techniques which are usually outside the civilian doctor's responsibilities.

To safeguard civilians, the National Security Resources Board has set up a health advisory committee which, with affiliated state citizen committees, will classify health personnel as either essential to their local communities or available for military service. This committee will advise Selective Service if the doctor-dentist draft law is invoked. According to the Defense Department, drafting cannot be long delayed unless there is a rapid step up in the rate of volunteering.

Nothing On Faith

With the peope of the United States facing an unprecedented burden of taxation, Congress will be acting in the public interest if it accepts nothing on faith. Demands for money for defense should be no less carefully scrutinized than demands for money for the regular operations of the government.

There are indications that Congress may follow such a course. Representative Sheppard, Democrat, chairman of a House subcommittee on appropriations, says no item will be cleared solely because it bears a "defense" label. Representative Taber, Republican, promises similar attention to details.

It is no criticism of the men of the military establishment to suggest that there may be a certain amount of "fat" in the military budget. They believe in playing it safe at all times. As a result they are in the habit of overestimating their financial needs and adding a few millions here and there in order to provide an emergency cushion.

In these days, however, the government must cut its cloth a little closer than that. Nobody is in favor of neglecting the national defense and it must have a priority status, but taxpayers certainly do not want to see money thrown away.

The proper course, then, is for Congress to assume that there is nothing sacred about any budget, whether military or civilian.

Treaty's Anniversary

It was just a year ago that Communist China and Soviet Russia became formally allied. To mark the anniversary, Stalin and Mao Tse-tung have exchanged congratulatory telegrams. Mao's said that the Chinese-Soviet treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual aid has been "not only a great help to the reconstruction of a new China, but also a powerful assurance in opposing aggression and maintaining peace and security in the Far East and the world."

Stalin's wire is reported to have expressed the belief that the treaty will be beneficial to friendship between the two nations "and to world peace."

These messages hold grim irony for the non-Communist world. The treaty, which Russian and Chinese leaders so proudly hail, has brought Asia not peace but a bitter war. It has given the Chinese confidence to embark on aggressive ventures on several fronts. And it is threatening to plunge the world into another global war.

In the doubletalk of communism, this is the equivalent of bringing peace and prosperity to Asia and the world!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

The Course Of Migraine Headache

ALTHOUGH MAN PRIDES himself on using his head, the structure is one of his greatest sources of annoyance. A day rarely passes in the life of a busy physician when he is not consulted about headache. It may be the only complaint or one of many stemming from a more generalized disorder.

The migranous type is not the most serious but is one of the most bothersome. Since the discovery that it involves the blood vessels of the head, many remedies have been devised. Ergotamine preparations, for example, help 70 to 90 per cent of all victims. Nicotinic acid dilates the blood vessels and often gives relief. Histamine azoprotein is another drug that is being tried with encouraging recults. In addition, more is known about the possible role of allergy, water retention, and the emotional factors. In this respect, greater assistance can be given to the sufferer than ever before.

There are three phases of migraine. The first is constriction of the blood vessels of the brain causing a reduced blood flow to this organ. These spasms are responsible for the bizarre and unusual sensations (the aura) preceding the period of distress, including spots before the eyes, blurred vision, and sensitivity to light. Occasionally irritability, fatigue, restlessness, and inability to concentrate are noted.

To an old victim of migraine, symptoms of this nature mean that headache is in the making and, within three to 10 hours, it will strike with fury. This is the second and most unpleasant phase of the condition. It results from dilatation, or stretching, of the blood vessels, which produces excruciating headache, first on one side and later over the whole head and neck. Pain is throbbing and, with each pulsation of the heart, the roof of the head feels as though it were about to come off. Speech is disturbed, the hands and feet may feel numb, and confusion sometimes occurs. Many encounter nausea and vomiting, which seem to ease distress.

In the third, or last stage, the arteries return to normal. This is accompanied by a letdown feeling and the individual becomes exhausted and often breaks out into profuse perspiration.

Heredity appears to play a role, as many tell of having a relative who is bothered. Sometimes authorities have come to the conclusion that symptoms are more severe when the condition is inherited from the paternal side. There also may be a family history of allergy or epilepsy. Many sufferers have similar personality traits and, as a result, authorities have coined the term, "migraine personality." These persons are perfectionists who develop headaches when the going is tough or things do not turn out as they should. The tension created affects the vasomotor system and leads to the changes described in the arteries of the brain.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

One Reason For Labor Row Is Clash With Gen. Clay; Labor Resents Big Business Tycoons Surrounding Wilson; Connally Speaks "Off The Record"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The bitter row over labor participation in the mobilization picture boils down partly to a clash with Gen. Lucius Clay, former military governor of Germany, now right-hand man to Defense Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson. There is also a lot of peeve against Harry S. Truman personally.

Clay, a hard-hitting, hard-working Army officer, accustomed to giving and taking orders, was continually clashing with civilians when he served as right-hand man to War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes in World War II. Later, while in Germany, he established what is probably a record for any American official. He cabled his resignation to the State Department as military governor of Germany three times in one day.

Illustrative of Clay's difficulties with labor leaders is one backstage incident involving the appointment of a manpower commissioner.

President Truman had telephoned Mobilization Czar Wilson asking him to appoint ex-Sen. Frank Graham of North Carolina as manpower commissioner. Former president of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Graham served as a member of the War Labor Board in World War II and played a potent part in keeping labor relations on an even keel.

Wilson, seemed to welcome Truman's suggestion, but later, when Graham called on Wilson and General Clay, the latter made it clear that Graham would be only one of six assistants, and would report not to Mobilizer Boss Wilson but to Clay through Wall Street Investment Banker Sidney Weinberg.

Under these hamstringing conditions, Graham politely declined.

NOTE — Graham subsequently went to Alaska, showed how skillful he was in handling labor relations by smoothing out a difficult situation threatening to stop vital construction of Air Force housing and Army fortifications.

Clay Stages A Vishinsky

On another occasion General Clay had called a closed-door conference attended by Secretary of Labor Tobin, Selective Service Director Hershey and Presidential Aide Daniel H. Stowe, to discuss manpower problems.

Clay, at that time, was all set to announce his own man as manpower commissioner, but he had scarcely begun to talk when White House Assistant Stowe interruped. He advised that he had instructions from the President that the manpower commissionership was not to be discussed.

Stowe did not say so, but the President know, even then, how vigorously labor felt on the subject, and he did not want General Clay dictating the appointment.

Faced with this message from the White House, Clay got red under the collar and stamped out.

Later he got his way. His own candidate, Arthur Flemming, of the Civil Service Commission, because manpower commissioner—after being pushed through by Wilson himself.

This is one of the reasons labor is so sore.

Big Business Tycoons

Another reason is the number of big business tycoons around Wilson and the manner in which they dominate the mobilization picture. Here are some of them:

General Clay, on leave from Continental Can; Fred Searls, on leave from Newmont Mining, a J. P. Morgan firm; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs, investment bankers; Howard Chase, of General Mills; Alfred Howse, of the Forest Land Development Co., general economic adviser to Wilson. The operations of Weinberg's Goldman, Sachs investment house during the depression, incidentally, was one of the reasons why Congress passed the Securities and Exchange Act.

While these are skilled businessmen, they serve as "no-dollar" men. In other words, they are paid not by the government but by their own companies, thus are in the difficult position of serving one master but being paid by another.

These businessmen can do an important job for their government, but they need to be counterbalanced by labor representatives. Roosevelt appointed labor men among the top executives of war mobilization, so labor was always a part of the war effort. Now labor has scarcely been consulted.

Long Tom Connally

Sen. "Long Tawm" Connally of Texas is famous for his gruff side remarks, but it wasn't until the hearing on Atlantic Pact strategy that one of his remarks made television.

The colorful Texan was presiding at the Joint Foreign Relations-Armed Services quiz of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As he called the roll, and came to the name of crime-busting Sen. Estes Kefauver, there was silence. "He's off chasing crap-shooters," Connally grumbled into an open microphone.

There were roars of laughter from the audience. "That's off the record," boomed "Long Tawm," and went on.

Truman's Administration Termed 'Era Of Tragedy'

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE Great Debate has reached the stage of formal hearings before committees of Congress. This will be followed by debate in that body, crystallizing of opinion both there and among the people and ultimate action by Congress.

This was apparently not contemplated by the Administration heads who planned the project of sending troops to Europe and were in process of carrying it out when ex-President Hoover's December 20 speech precipitated public concern and gave rise to the debate. These were presumably President Truman and the heads of the appropriate departments in his Administration, Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. They apparently contemplated, certainly President Truman obviously did, that the troops would be sent by order of the President, that approval would not be asked of Congress.

The project was portentous, it was by no means adequately described by the phrase "troops to Europe." It was to send unspecified numbers of American troops to Europe there to remain indefinitely as part of a joint permanent standing army which would be subject to unforeseeable contingencies. The contingency against which this army was being created was war, and if war should come it was to be expected that installments of American troops would be sent. All this was to be done as an act of the Administration without participation by Congress.

Indignant Rejection

After Mr. Hoover's December 20 speech and alarmed public reaction, it was proposed that President Truman should ask approval of Congress. To this Mr. Truman's desponse was almost indignant rejection. He assumed that sending the troops was his prerogative as President, and for that assumption had some technical Constitutional justification. As for the unforeseeable train of possible consequences that made the present project extraordinary, apparently Mr. Truman's imagination did not take that in.

In Mr. Truman's early resistance to letting Congress have a part in the decision about sending troops to Europe lies the overall tragedy of our time. Under our political system the country has a President who, having been in control of our foreign relations for nearly six years, will continue in control for two years more. His past six years have been an era of tragedy, his Administration covers the whole period during which our relations with Russia have deteriorated into what amounts to war, with us at a disadvantage. The country, tragically aware of the fact, naturally feels the emotion and intellectual reaction that is an inevitable consequence. It is contrary to ordinary human judgment and common sense that the Administration which made mistakes should be entrusted with the course which must be devised as a consequence of the mistakes.

This is recognized in countries having parliamentary government such as Britain, where an administration in office can be displaced and another substituted by simple passage of a resolution in the House of Commons. When Chamberlain, conducting relations with Hitler, appeased him to bring about "peace in our time" and the appeasement turned out vain, Chamberlain was replaced with Churchill without commotion or loss of time.

Should Be Humble

For Mr. Truman in the present condition the appropriate attitude would be humility. He is not President at this time as the outcome of a recent election nor is he the present expression of proponderant public opinion, he is President because our political system prescribes fixed Presidential terms. He cannot be unaware that he can hardly command preponderant confidence on the part of the people. He must recognize indeed that the great wish and need of a deeply disquieted people is for rescue from a kind of situation which Mr. Walter Lippmann eloquently described the other day as "where the people no longer knew where to look for leadership in time of trouble."

To give the people solace from their disquiet ought to be Mr. Truman's dominating purpose. Practical expression of it would call for deference to Congress. Though he cannot as President surrender prerogatives conferred on him by the Constitution, he can waive meticulous exercises of them. When the matter of sending troops to Europe came up, his prompt attitude should have been to ask approval of Congress even though he felt sure that the Constitution did not require him to. On the contrary his early attitude (though he has modified it since) was one of truculent insistence on his prerogatives. When Mr. Truman seemed unwilling to defer to Congress, that body came to the determination to exercise a larger part in foreign relations than it has hitherto thought of. The new attitude applies not only to the Senate, which has considerable Constitutional authority in foreign relations, but to the House which has power as a forum of public opinion and by its control of the purse.

2 Precedents May Arise To Plague Defense Effort

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — Two very bad precedents have been recorded in the last few days which can rise to plague the whole defense effort.

One is a walk-out on the Wage Stabilization Board aimed really at the absence of a labor man at the top level in the Defense Mobilization Office. Even though the government has gone to the only place where it could possibly go to find management ability to supervise the production program for defense, labor thinks this management function must somehow be divided and an equal voice given to labor.

The other precedent is a repudiation of signatures affixed by the presidents of four railroad unions at a White House conference with Mediator Steelman and the claim that no union agreement is valid unless ratified by another group of representatives with presumably higher authority.

Way Open For Delays

This opens the way for management representatives to do the same thing. They, too, apparently now can sign agreements and, if their higher officials don't like them, cry out that the agreements were only "tentative" and subject to ratification. Thus a board of directors of a big corporation can upset the applecart by claiming that the president of a company either exceeded his authority or that he was acting only on the assumption that his board of directors would later have a chance to approve or disapprove. Conceivably the way is open to stockholders to go still further and by their vote reject an agreement approved by a board of directors.

The truth of the matter is that collective bargaining is doomed if it runs up against such a blind alley. Labor union chiefs might well ponder what they are doing to the cause of collective bargaining by reversing their historic attitude in support of the viewpoint which it has taken so long for the National Labor Relations Board and the courts to establish—namely, that the employer is responsible for the acts of his agents even down to the foreman. Certainly no NLRB or court decision would ever hold that the agreement made by a bona fide negotiating committee for the employer was without binding effect.

The railroad brotherhoods are among the oldest and hitherto have been considered among the best of America's trade unions. Their record for honorable dealing has been without blemish. But now the brotherhoods are in the public position of claiming that a signature by a union president who has been negotiating for his union isn't worth its weight in fountain-pen ink.

Much more realistic is the view that any negotiating representative who isn't fully acquainted in advance with the limits that will be acceptable to his union should not have been entrusted with the task of negotiation in the first place. There is need for a further examination of the powers of negotiating representatives before they enter mediation conferences on disputes which, if unsettled, can bring hundreds of millions of dollars of losses to innocent bystanders.

The revolt against the Wage Stabilization Board appointed by Defense Mobilizer Wilson is a step calculated by the labor union leaders to force a division in the management of the defense program. They openly concede they are not objecting so much to the 10 per cent formula for wage controls as they are to the process by which it was made. They are attacking Mr. Wilson for venturing even to suggest the program for consideration by the wage board. The two-headed Hillman-Knudsen arrangement in the last war didn't work, and such a set-up will not work this time.

Up To Truman

Equal representation with management on boards that decide labor questions is the unequivocal right of labor unions, but this is as far as labor representation should go unless labor can come forward with someone of the managerial genius of Charles E. Wilson of General Electric. In such a contingency the genius, no matter where he came from, should have complete control at the top, just as Mr. Wilson has today. The latter was appointed because he knows how to exercise management functions and how to deal with managements which are entrusted with billions of defense orders. He wasn't chosen for ideological reasons, and any effort to make it appear that way merely breeds dissension and makes impossible an efficient set-up at the top level.

If political pressure is to decide who shall really manage the defense program, then defeat on the production front is a distinct possibility. The mere fact that the labor unions are running to Mr. Truman in the hope of exerting political pressure is a sign that they think that's the way to get one of their partisans appointed to coequal authority with Mr. Wilson. It remains to be seen how Mr. Truman will react to this pressure.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Reading And Writing

LIKE MOST in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laboriously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor Semitic nor Slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of non-objective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three verticle lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M," I am often prevented from

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made.

Acts 16:13 (K. J. V.)
Read Matthew 17:14—21;
Timothy 2:1—8

One can hardly think of Jesus facing life and its problems without praying. It was communion with his Father that gave a lift to his soul, courage to his sometimes fainting heart, strengthened his belief in the rightness of his cause, and gave poise to his wavering spirit.

Nor can one think of the early Church attempting to carry on in the face of tremendous odds without its handful of believers joining their hearts in common prayer for each other, and finding their way through to God, who alone could sustain them in their hour of peril and cheer their hearts as they followed on in the cause to which they were committed.

Has the Church of our time outgrown the necessity of prayer? When a cause needs support do we pray or do we engage in a controversy? When a great movement such as church unity comes to the fore, do we pray God to show us the way, or do we ask God to sustain us in our little opinions?

Let Us Pray: O Lord and Master of mankind, we would still our hearts and calm our spirits as we wait in they presence. Make known thy way unto us, and grant us an abundance of thy Holy Spirit, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Medical Manpower

The military force of 3½ million, now scheduled for mid-1951, will require the services of 13,000 doctors, 6,500 dentists, and 16,000 nurses. These are the estimates of the Defense Department, which has authority to call on Selective Service for doctors and dentists, but not nurses, if requirements are not filled through volunteering.

The medical men needed before the first of July represent something over eight per cent of all doctors and dentists now in private practice in the United States. The very much larger numbers that would be needed under full mobilization are compelling consideration of how best to meet military requirements without reducing health care of the civilian population to the danger point.

Expanding military calls on the nation's resources in health personnel come at a time when these resources are already inadequate in some sections. Sixteen states have over twice as many people per doctor in private practice as New York, where the doctor-population ratio is most favorable. Twenty-one states have twice as many people per dentist. The shortage of nurses is widespread. Generally speaking, urban areas are better supplied than rural districts.

Whether or not the present overall supply is adequate for civilian needs in peacetime, there is no question that even the largest cities would suffer acute shortages of health personnel in case of enemy attack. Telling of health planning by the National Security Resources Board, Dr. H. A. Rusk said, January 9: "We realized we coud not be profligate again, as we were in the last war, for if we got into a catastrophe it would be a different kind of a blow, and we would not have enough facilities to do the job." The President in his State of the Union message called for legislation "to increase the supply of doctors, nurses, and other trained personnel critically needed for the defense effort."

Before commencement of the current rearmament program, the U.S. Public Health Service estimated that, at current rates of graduation from medical schools, the country would be short 15,000 doctors, 5,000 dentists and perhaps 50,000 nurses by 1960. Now it is estimated that the doctor shortage will exceed the figure estimated for 1960 in 1954 if the armed services are expanded at an annual rate of 500,000 after mid-1951.

Proposals for enlarging the country's resources of medical personnel must reckon with the fact that the professional schools are now operating at capacity and the further fact that most of them are operating in the red. Last year's deficits of the 79 approved medical colleges were estimated at $10 million, about a fifth of their combined budgets. Three-quarters of the qualified appicants for enrollment were turned away. Bills now awaiting action by Congress would authorize federal grants to professional schools to help meet the widening gap between cost of instruction and income available from tuition, endowment, and other sources. Also proposed is rapid expansion of training facilities for practical nurses.

The Army has estimated its present requirements on the basis of four doctors, two dentists and five nurses per 1,000 servicemen. These ratios, particularly for doctors, have been criticized in Congress as needlessly extravagant and far out of line with the peacetime ratio of one doctor to about 1,000 civilians.

In support of the 4 : 1,000 ratio, the Army points out that the military medical officer, in addition to caring for battle casualties, must control living conditions of the men in his charge and exercise other preventive techniques which are usually outside the civilian doctor's responsibilities.

To safeguard civilians, the National Security Resources Board has set up a health advisory committee which, with affiliated state citizen committees, will classify health personnel as either essential to their local communities or available for military service. This committee will advise Selective Service if the doctor-dentist draft law is invoked. According to the Defense Department, drafting cannot be long delayed unless there is a rapid step up in the rate of volunteering.

Nothing On Faith

With the peope of the United States facing an unprecedented burden of taxation, Congress will be acting in the public interest if it accepts nothing on faith. Demands for money for defense should be no less carefully scrutinized than demands for money for the regular operations of the government.

There are indications that Congress may follow such a course. Representative Sheppard, Democrat, chairman of a House subcommittee on appropriations, says no item will be cleared solely because it bears a "defense" label. Representative Taber, Republican, promises similar attention to details.

It is no criticism of the men of the military establishment to suggest that there may be a certain amount of "fat" in the military budget. They believe in playing it safe at all times. As a result they are in the habit of overestimating their financial needs and adding a few millions here and there in order to provide an emergency cushion.

In these days, however, the government must cut its cloth a little closer than that. Nobody is in favor of neglecting the national defense and it must have a priority status, but taxpayers certainly do not want to see money thrown away.

The proper course, then, is for Congress to assume that there is nothing sacred about any budget, whether military or civilian.

Treaty's Anniversary

It was just a year ago that Communist China and Soviet Russia became formally allied. To mark the anniversary, Stalin and Mao Tse-tung have exchanged congratulatory telegrams. Mao's said that the Chinese-Soviet treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual aid has been "not only a great help to the reconstruction of a new China, but also a powerful assurance in opposing aggression and maintaining peace and security in the Far East and the world."

Stalin's wire is reported to have expressed the belief that the treaty will be beneficial to friendship between the two nations "and to world peace."

These messages hold grim irony for the non-Communist world. The treaty, which Russian and Chinese leaders so proudly hail, has brought Asia not peace but a bitter war. It has given the Chinese confidence to embark on aggressive ventures on several fronts. And it is threatening to plunge the world into another global war.

In the doubletalk of communism, this is the equivalent of bringing peace and prosperity to Asia and the world!

The Course Of Migraine Headache

ALTHOUGH MAN PRIDES himself on using his head, the structure is one of his greatest sources of annoyance. A day rarely passes in the life of a busy physician when he is not consulted about headache. It may be the only complaint or one of many stemming from a more generalized disorder.

The migranous type is not the most serious but is one of the most bothersome. Since the discovery that it involves the blood vessels of the head, many remedies have been devised. Ergotamine preparations, for example, help 70 to 90 per cent of all victims. Nicotinic acid dilates the blood vessels and often gives relief. Histamine azoprotein is another drug that is being tried with encouraging recults. In addition, more is known about the possible role of allergy, water retention, and the emotional factors. In this respect, greater assistance can be given to the sufferer than ever before.

There are three phases of migraine. The first is constriction of the blood vessels of the brain causing a reduced blood flow to this organ. These spasms are responsible for the bizarre and unusual sensations (the aura) preceding the period of distress, including spots before the eyes, blurred vision, and sensitivity to light. Occasionally irritability, fatigue, restlessness, and inability to concentrate are noted.

To an old victim of migraine, symptoms of this nature mean that headache is in the making and, within three to 10 hours, it will strike with fury. This is the second and most unpleasant phase of the condition. It results from dilatation, or stretching, of the blood vessels, which produces excruciating headache, first on one side and later over the whole head and neck. Pain is throbbing and, with each pulsation of the heart, the roof of the head feels as though it were about to come off. Speech is disturbed, the hands and feet may feel numb, and confusion sometimes occurs. Many encounter nausea and vomiting, which seem to ease distress.

In the third, or last stage, the arteries return to normal. This is accompanied by a letdown feeling and the individual becomes exhausted and often breaks out into profuse perspiration.

This is one of the reasons labor is so sore.

Big Business Tycoons

Another reason is the number of big business tycoons around Wilson and the manner in which they dominate the mobilization picture. Here are some of them:

General Clay, on leave from Continental Can; Fred Searls, on leave from Newmont Mining, a J. P. Morgan firm; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs, investment bankers; Howard Chase, of General Mills; Alfred Howse, of the Forest Land Development Co., general economic adviser to Wilson. The operations of Weinberg's Goldman, Sachs investment house during the depression, incidentally, was one of the reasons why Congress passed the Securities and Exchange Act.

While these are skilled businessmen, they serve as "no-dollar" men. In other words, they are paid not by the government but by their own companies, thus are in the difficult position of serving one master but being paid by another.

These businessmen can do an important job for their government, but they need to be counterbalanced by labor representatives. Roosevelt appointed labor men among the top executives of war mobilization, so labor was always a part of the war effort. Now labor has scarcely been consulted.

Long Tom Connally

Sen. "Long Tawm" Connally of Texas is famous for his gruff side remarks, but it wasn't until the hearing on Atlantic Pact strategy that one of his remarks made television.

The colorful Texan was presiding at the Joint Foreign Relations-Armed Services quiz of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As he called the roll, and came to the name of crime-busting Sen. Estes Kefauver, there was silence. "He's off chasing crap-shooters," Connally grumbled into an open microphone.

There were roars of laughter from the audience. "That's off the record," boomed "Long Tawm," and went on.

Truman's Administration Termed 'Era Of Tragedy'

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE Great Debate has reached the stage of formal hearings before committees of Congress. This will be followed by debate in that body, crystallizing of opinion both there and among the people and ultimate action by Congress.

This was apparently not contemplated by the Administration heads who planned the project of sending troops to Europe and were in process of carrying it out when ex-President Hoover's December 20 speech precipitated public concern and gave rise to the debate. These were presumably President Truman and the heads of the appropriate departments in his Administration, Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. They apparently contemplated, certainly President Truman obviously did, that the troops would be sent by order of the President, that approval would not be asked of Congress.

The project was portentous. It was by no means adequately described by the phrase "troops to Europe." It was to send unspecified numbers of American troops to Europe there to remain indefinitely as part of a joint permanent standing army which would be subject to unforeseeable contingencies. The contingency against which this army was being created was war, and if war should come it was to be expected that installments of American troops would be sent. All this was to be done as an act of the Administration without participation by Congress.

Indignant Rejection

After Mr. Hoover's December 20 speech and alarmed public reaction, it was proposed that President Truman should ask approval of Congress. To this Mr. Truman's desponse was almost indignant rejection. He assumed that sending the troops was his prerogative as President, and for that assumption had some technical Constitutional justification. As for the unforeseeable train of possible consequences that made the present project extraordinary, apparently Mr. Truman's imagination did not take that in.

In Mr. Truman's early resistance to letting Congress have a part in the decision about sending troops to Europe lies the overall tragedy of our time. Under our political system the country has a President who, having been in control of our foreign relations for nearly six years, will continue in control for two years more. His past six years have been an era of tragedy, his Administration covers the whole period during which our relations with Russia have deteriorated into what amounts to war, with us at a disadvantage. The country, tragically aware of the fact, naturally feels the emotion and intellectual reaction that is an inevitable consequence. It is contrary to ordinary human judgment and common sense that the Administration which made mistakes should be entrusted with the course which must be devised as a consequence of the mistakes.

This is recognized in countries having parliamentary government such as Britain, where an administration in office can be displaced and another substituted by simple passage of a resolution in the House of Commons. When Chamberlain, conducting relations with Hitler, appeased him to bring about "peace in our time" and the appeasement turned out vain, Chamberlain was replaced with Churchill without commotion or loss of time.

Should Be Humble

For Mr. Truman in the present condition the appropriate attitude would be humility. He is not President at this time as the outcome of a recent election nor is he the present expression of proponderant public opinion, he is President because our political system prescribes fixed Presidential terms. He cannot be unaware that he can hardly command preponderant confidence on the part of the people. He must recognize indeed that the great wish and need of a deeply disquieted people is for rescue from a kind of situation which Mr. Walter Lippmann eloquently described the other day as "where the people no longer knew where to look for leadership in time of trouble."

To give the people solace from their disquiet ought to be Mr. Truman's dominating purpose. Practical expression of it would call for deference to Congress. Though he cannot as President surrender prerogatives conferred on him by the Constitution, he can waive meticulous exercises of them. When the matter of sending troops to Europe came up, his prompt attitude should have been to ask approval of Congress even though he felt sure that the Constitution did not require him to. On the contrary his early attitude (though he has modified it since) was one of truculent insistence on his prerogatives. When Mr. Truman seemed unwilling to defer to Congress, that body came to the determination to exercise a larger part in foreign relations than it has hitherto thought of. The new attitude applies not only to the Senate, which has considerable Constitutional authority in foreign relations, but to the House which has power as a forum of public opinion and by its control of the purse.

2 Precedents May Arise To Plague Defense Effort

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — Two very bad precedents have been recorded in the last few days which can rise to plague the whole defense effort.

One is a walk-out on the Wage Stabilization Board aimed really at the absence of a labor man at the top level in the Defense Mobilization Office. Even though the government has gone to the only place where it could possibly go to find management ability to supervise the production program for defense, labor thinks this management function must somehow be divided and an equal voice given to labor.

The other precedent is a repudiation of signatures affixed by the presidents of four railroad unions at a White House conference with Mediator Steelman and the claim that no union agreement is valid unless ratified by another group of representatives with presumably higher authority.

Way Open For Delays

This opens the way for management representatives to do the same thing. They, too, apparently now can sign agreements and, if their higher officials don't like them, cry out that the agreements were only "tentative" and subject to ratification. Thus a board of directors of a big corporation can upset the applecart by claiming that the president of a company either exceeded his authority or that he was acting only on the assumption that his board of directors would later have a chance to approve or disapprove. Conceivably the way is open to stockholders to go still further and by their vote reject an agreement approved by a board of directors.

The truth of the matter is that collective bargaining is doomed if it runs up against such a blind alley. Labor union chiefs might well ponder what they are doing to the cause of collective bargaining by reversing their historic attitude in support of the viewpoint which it has taken so long for the National Labor Relations Board and the courts to establish—namely, that the employer is responsible for the acts of his agents even down to the foreman. Certainly no NLRB or court decision would ever hold that the agreement made by a bona fide negotiating committee for the employer was without binding effect.

The railroad brotherhoods are among the oldest and hitherto have been considered among the best of America's trade unions. Their record for honorable dealing has been without blemish. But now the brotherhoods are in the public position of claiming that a signature by a union president who has been negotiating for his union isn't worth its weight in fountain-pen ink.

Much more realistic is the view that any negotiating representative who isn't fully acquainted in advance with the limits that will be acceptable to his union should not have been entrusted with the task of negotiation in the first place. There is need for a further examination of the powers of negotiating representatives before they enter mediation conferences on disputes which, if unsettled, can bring hundreds of millions of dollars of losses to innocent bystanders.

The revolt against the Wage Stabilization Board appointed by Defense Mobilizer Wilson is a step calculated by the labor union leaders to force a division in the management of the defense program. They openly concede they are not objecting so much to the 10 per cent formula for wage controls as they are to the process by which it was made. They are attacking Mr. Wilson for venturing even to suggest the program for consideration by the wage board. The two-headed Hillman-Knudsen arrangement in the last war didn't work, and such a set-up will not work this time.

Up To Truman

Equal representation with management on boards that decide labor questions is the unequivocal right of labor unions, but this is as far as labor representation should go unless labor can come forward with someone of the managerial genius of Charles E. Wilson of General Electric. In such a contingency the genius, no matter where he came from, should have complete control at the top, just as Mr. Wilson has today. The latter was appointed because he knows how to exercise management functions and how to deal with managements which are entrusted with billions of defense orders. He wasn't chosen for ideological reasons, and any effort to make it appear that way merely breeds dissension and makes impossible an efficient set-up at the top level.

If political pressure is to decide who shall really manage the defense program, then defeat on the production front is a distinct possibility. The mere fact that the labor unions are running to Mr. Truman in the hope of exerting political pressure is a sign that they think that's the way to get one of their partisans appointed to coequal authority with Mr. Wilson. It remains to be seen how Mr. Truman will react to this pressure.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Reading And Writing

LIKE MOST in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laborlously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor Semitic nor Slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of nonobjective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three verticle lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M," I am often prevented from

Daily Lenten Devotional

And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made.

Acts 16:13 (K. J. V.)
Read Matthew 17:14—21;
Timothy 2:1—8

One can hardly think of Jesus facing life and its problems without praying. It was communion with his Father that gave a lift to his soul, courage to his sometimes fainting heart, strengthened his belief in the rightness of his cause, and gave poise to his wavering spirit.

Nor can one think of the early Church attempting to carry on in the face of tremendous odds without its handful of believers joining their hearts in common prayer for each other, and finding their way through to God, who alone could sustain them in their hour of peril and cheer their hearts as they followed on in the cause to which they were committed.

Has the Church of our time outgrown the necessity of prayer? When a cause needs support do we pray or do we engage in a controversy? When a great movement such as church unity comes to the fore, do we pray God to show us the way, or do we ask God to sustain us in our little opinions?

Let Us Pray: O Lord and Master of mankind, we would still our hearts and calm our spirits as we wait in they presence. Make known thy way unto us, and grant us an abundance of thy Holy Spirit, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Old Second Guesser

The Bull Wrestler— A Philadelphia Story

BILL McCARNEY, the old Carpetbagger, had more color than the prize fighters he managed, and some of them looked like rainbows at that. Once he thought he had a heavyweight champion in big, handsome Luther McCarthy, and he matched him against Arthur Pelkey, believing it would be a waltz. Instead the underdog hit McCarthy a punch from which he never recovered, killing him in the ring.

To sit down with Mr. McCarney for an evening when he was on fire was like listening to O. Henry and Damon Runyon telling their own stories of the town, and the sports and other characters who made up its roster. There is one tale which sticks in my memory about a Mexican who appeared in his Philadelphia office one day, and found our hero in a low state of mind.

"I don't want to book any more foreign punks," said Mr. McCarney, taking the offensive.

"No. I fight the bull," replied his caller who was dressed for the part, high-heeled boots and all.

"Yeh, but it's against the law in this town, brother," answered the unemployed impresario, brushing off the applicant.

"But I wrestle him. The police can't kick."

McCarney pricked up his ears. Times were hard, so he made a percentage deal. His star produced lurid-looking posters which were pretty gory, and these were pasted around the city, announcing a fearless toreador would wrestle a vicious bull at the risk of his life. The gendarmes called on the promoter, and it took some fast talking to convince them it would be an entertainment as harmless as a match at tiddlywinks. A chute was built into the ring for the grand entrance of the party of the second part. The day before the show, the Mexican called on Billy.

"Have you got the bull?" he asked.

This came as a surprise and shock, like producing Hamlet without Hamlet.

"I figured you furnished him," countered Mr. McCarney.

"You think I keep one around with me in my hotel bedroom?" he asked.

The boss called the stockyards in North Philadelphia and found they had collected overnight some mild-mannered steers, and he dispatched two messengers to bring the wildest looking one to his showroom. In a couple of hours his agents returned leading a bedraggled, limping animal which seemed to have gotten sore feet enroute.

"Well, he's here," said the men triumphantly, "but we had a hell of a time making it, because he didn't want to walk, and we had to pull and push him most of the way. He stopped once and held up a street car for ten mintues." This didn't sound too promising.

"Feed him up good," advised McCarney and touched a luck charm he always carried in his pocket.

The house was crowded for the unique show, and everything was set to touch it off. The Mexican had strutted around the ring bowing right and left and there was a fanfare for the "bull's" grand entrance, as the spectators, on the edges of their seats, looked to the head of the chute, but nothing happened. A voice was heard to say,

"Give him a shove."

Finally the animal strolled down and into the ring, while the toreador began to circle him with the steer paying no attention, only looking around as if counting the house. At last the star closed in, grabbed his horns, and began to act like Gorgeous George. McCarney felt it was too risky to stay and retired to the box office, crouching under the counter, so he could not be found when his customers demanded their money back as he expected they would. Suddenly the show broke up, and the crowd started out. He heard one man say,

"Greatest thing I ever saw. Wonder he wasn't killed." Others echoed these enthusiastic sentiments as they passed. The promoter moved into the lobby, strolling around bowing and beaming. It was a success. That is only one of the many stories about the old carpetbagger of the prize ring.

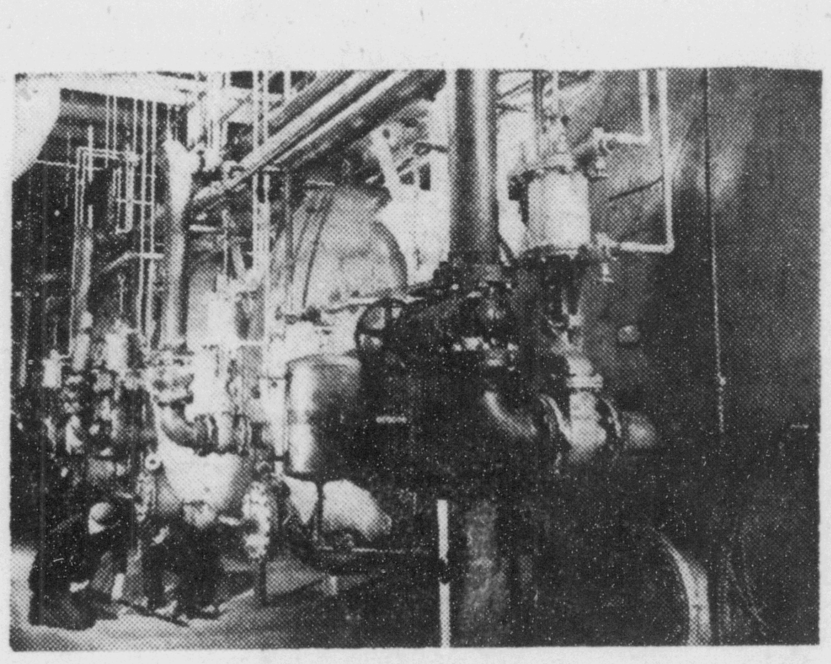
Customers decide how much acetate yarn we'll make, and what kinds, for there's no sense in making anything they don't want. By buying, or by not buying, they also decide how many of us will work, and at what wages.

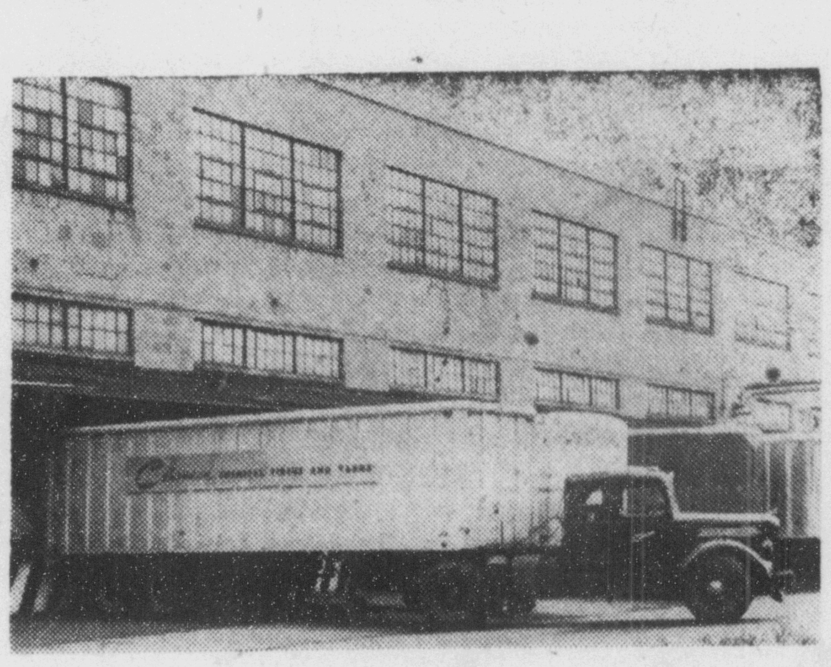
The simple truth is that without customers there can be no jobs.

It all comes down to this. Wages and jobs in any business depend on how well the product meets the customer's idea of price and quality. We at Amcelle have to produce quality yarns at prices customers are able and willing to pay, or see orders go to some competitor.

On the other hand, the higher the quality and the lower the cost of production, the more competitive Amcelle and the corporation can be. Which is another way of saying "job security." Customers help to decide on that, too!



Into the price of food, automobiles, acetate yarn, or any other product, go all the costs of running the business. Wages, materials, machinery, maintenance, taxes, sales and other costs—but you don't add them together to get a selling price. That figure is set by the public.



No product, however desirable, can be sold for long at too high a price. If a manufacturer, or a dealer, charges too much, the customers just stop buying. Goods pile up on the shelves and the manufacturer's business slows down or stops.

400 Attend 4-HSponsored Style Revue

A style review, sponsored by the Allegany 4-H Trail, was held Saturday with approximately 400 4-H er and Homemakers from Allegany and Garrett counties attending.

Miss Thelma J. Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, welcomed the group and introduced Miss Helen Shelby, state extension clothing specialist from the University of Maryland; and Miss Ada May Marshall, who acted as moderator for the program.

All models were Allegany county 4-H Girls.

An all wool traveling suit, with reversible topper, checked on one side and Navy on the other was modeled by Khrista McKenzie. With it she wore a white pique vestee bouse. Celeste Steiding showed a beige and brown wool suit with a button detail in a vertical line in the back of the slim skirt. The jacket is of contrasting brown and white check. Marlene Wilson wore skirt and blouse of cocoa brown eyelet, and a short white pique bolero jacket with rounded collar and perky cuffs, which can be used on other dresses.

Carol Yutzy modeled a dress of bright apricot linen finish fabric, that buttoned down the front. A simple cloche and bag of black linen, contrasted with it.

Clothes for the teenagers consisted of a dress with detachable white pique collar and cuffs worn by Barbara Frizzell, who also had an alternate plaid plastron (dickie) creating a different vostume; a red cotton dress with detachable washable collar and cuffs worn by Frances Crable; a blue terrycloth housecoat and stripe blue and white pajamas, Anna Grace Baer; Helen Borror, a tulip print sundress with V neckline with a bow at the shoulder, and bolero jacket with a pocket in one sleeve; Naomi Lee Martin, a Navy polished cotton sun bra and pleated shorts, with a red checked jacket coverall.

Rhea Shanholtz showed a sundress in blue and yellow plaid, with a bodice buttoned to the waistline. Its jacket had three quarter length sleeves and nipped in waistline. A border print dress for square dancing was worn by Shirley Lucas. It was made with a vestee and puffed sleeves and full skirt. Betty Brewer wore a New Bermuda violet "chemise dress" with V neckline and self matching stole with plaid lining. Lena Shanholtz, showed a Navy polished cotton full skirt, with a sleeveless blouse to match. She added a white organdy overskirt changing it to a party dress. Shirley Miller modeled a sheath dress in horizon blue rayon with matching short sleeved bolero. For dress up she had an organdy plaid overskirt to add.

Jane Iliff modelled a strapless evening dress consisting of an underdress of embroidered organdy with outer bouffant skirt and jacket of plain green organdy.

The girls in the woolen costumes were escorted by Donald Short and Fred Gillner from LaVale Boys Club. Fashion assistants to Miss Marshall were Roberteen Boil, Jacqueline Barth and Janet Pfieffer. Ushers were Patricia Fisher, Nancy Long and Mary Coffey. Miss Maude A. Bean closed the program.

Sondra Lee Rice Celebrated Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Weatherholt, 101 Park Street, entertained in honor of their daughter, Sondra Lee Rice, with a party in celebration of her 14th birthday, Saturday evening at their home.

Games were played and refreshments were served. The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations, favors and table appointments.

Democratic Women To Hold Card Party Style Show

Favors Jury Duty For Women

The United Democratic Women's Club of Cumberland formulated plans for its card party and went on record favoring jury duty for women at the regular meeting last night at the Algonquin Hotel. Mrs. Ada Conley Long and her officers continued in office due to the illness of Mrs. Nora Fleming, who was to have assumed her duties with the new officers.

April 17 was set for the party and style show by Lazarus, which will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club. It originally was to have been held next month. Miss Mary J. Schellhaus was named general chairman for the party and Mrs. Selden Landis, Ticket chairman.

The club favoring women jury duty, signed the petition and decided to solicitate signers. A $5 donation was made to the Red Cross and Miss Schellhaus reported on the executive committee meeting in Baltimore the 18th. A special meeting will be held in March to complete plans for the card party.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON.

WHEN a sour-gripe Republican was beefing the other evening that "Jiggs" Donohue, the genial new District commissioner, was appointed as a political payoff, he was argued down . . . But came up, punching, "In the past election, for instance, Jiggs even went out to California to campaign for Helen Gahagan Douglas against Nixon."

AUSTINE

A die-hard Democrat shot back, "Political payoff! Nothing of the kind! Jiggs just happens to be a fellow that the fellow in the White House admires and likes." . . . 'Tis true that as one of the famous White House poker cronies while Jiggs does not play well, loses often and heavily, he does pay his gambling debts promptly and with good humor . . . Is an all-around popular and personable guy.

Behind the velvet curtains in the State Department a tense little drama has been played out . . . But neither the plot nor the cast of characters has been known by the general public . . . So let me turn drama critic and tell you about the play . . It might be titled, "A Switch in Time Saves Embarrassment."

The cast of characters includes:

JOHN CARTER VINCENT—Now our Envoy to Switzerland . . . Senator McCarthy charges he belonged to the pro-Russian bloc in the State Department . . . Vincent was to have been transferred from Switzerland and made ambassador to Costa Rica.

RICHARD C. PATTERSON—Who was to have taken Vincent's place in Switzerland . . . Patterson, former ambassador to Yugoslavia, was sort of invited to resign from his last post, ambassador to Guatemala . . . In an attempted revolution in that country Patterson was supposed to have sided with the losing side. The Guatemalan Government told the U. S. to recall him. They would no longer be responsible for his safety . . . So he has been cooling his heels in Washington, itching to get a new post.

ROBERT BUTLER—Former ambassador to Cuba who resigned about a week ago.

RUDOLPH SCHOENFELD—Former ambassador to Rumania, a loyal, able career diplomat with more than 30 years in the service.

Hard to follow and involved, the plot runs something like this:

The career men in the State Department resist moving John Carter Vincent out of Switzerland. "Keep him in the background, where he won't be such an easy target," they say.

But the career men are over-ruled, pressured to put Patterson in the job . . . Patterson, a personal friend of Truman's, is tired of sitting around in Washington since his recall from Guatemala.

In the next act the Government of Switzerland declares that Mr. Patterson is acceptable to them . . . Costa Rica says that they would be delighted to have Mr. Vincent . . . Everything seems all set for the switch.

But enters the villain! In a move that's almost unprecedented, the State Department starts stalling . . . They hold up John Carter Vincent's nomination as ambassador to Costa Rica . . . They keep Patterson waiting to go to Switzerland . . . Nobody can understand what goes on.

"Well, what goes on is simply that if John Carter Vincent's name goes before the Senate for confirmation as ambassador to Costa Rica, an investigation of his background would inevitably be stirred up . . . And he has definitely had a finger, in fact a whole fist in that smelly pie—our foreign policy in China . . . He was in charge of the Far Eastern Division at the State Department, and prior to that, counselor of our embassy in China . . . So rather than risk putting his name up before the Senate for confirmation, the State Department is keeping him where he is.

So we come to the end of the drama . . . Vincent stays in Switzerland . . . Patterson will become ambassador to Cuba, replacing Robert Butler, who resigned about a week ago . . . And to the post Patterson left vacant in Guatemala will go Rudolph Schoenfeld. CURTAIN

The question remains, gentle audience, is this drama a mystery—or a tragedy?

Stoles steal all the scenes in the drama of new fashions! Here's how to use them expertly.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MY FASHION experts say no woman will want to be without at least on stole in the seasons ahead. While this costume-making extra wasn't born yesterday, in review its performance is so solid that a long run ahead can be predicted.

You may have already discovered that everything this season from a bathing suit to an evening dress can be found assembled with its own striking stole. Designers, of course, have the special knowledge of how to combine color and fabric to create perfect harmony in such costumes.

Expert Combinations

To add a stole to any suit, coat, day or after-five dress already in your wardrobe, let yourself be guided by these principles which are the secret of the experts' success:

1. The stole's color must not only be complementary but interesting with whatever you wear it over. (Exception: Luxury fur. It enhances almost everything but your budget.)

For example, you might take all the trouble to knit yourself a shawl-type stole in the new-deep and lovely lilac shade only to find, too late, that over your Kelly green wool it looks as past as a greeting card reads. Or when topping your mauve tweed, there is no contrast, no match, no nothing. A rich, dark red would be better all around.

How to Combine Colors

Three safe ways to use color are by contrasting a color of high intensity (very bright, as red-violet) with a color of low intensity (very pale, as ice blue or very dark, as burnt gold); by exactly matching colors; by using two tones of the same color in low intensities such as pink and rose.

2. Equally important to the successful use of a stole is the choice of fabrics. Make sure those combined are interesting and compatible when put together. The woman who wears a nubby tweed stole over a shaggy fleece coat and with a rough straw hat hasn't learned that even in the season of the textured look you can have too much of a good thing! But matching the fabric of her stole to the fleece of her coat and saving the tweep to top a smooth-finish fabric such as gabardine would mark her as a woman of fashion wisdom.

When in doubt, either match textures or strive in contract smooth against rough.

Jack Benny saves many a penny

. . . with his modern Electric Range!

Jack Benny, star of "THE JACK BENNY SHOW," heard every Sunday over CBS, coast to coast

"The mythical Jack Benny of the radio isn't really stingy—he merely hates to spend money," says Mrs. Benny (Mary Livingstone to all her radio fans), "but although the real Jack Benny is most generous, he still considers our Electric Range real economy."

Sure—you have economical operation with the modern Electric Range—but that's only one feature. It's almost human—different from any range you've ever tried. You don't guess at the cooking heat. Flip a switch, and you get just the heat you need. You don't peek or watch while things are in the oven. You know the automatic controls are doing that for you. Nothing new to learn—except how much better, how much easier cooking can be when you have a modern Electric Range. You can learn all about it at your dealer's!

8 Good Reasons Why You Need an Electric Range

Better cooking results
It's clean • It's easy to use
It's thrifty • It's cool • It's fast
It's automatic • It's modern

The only way to enjoy all these benefits is to have an Electric Range. No matter what make you choose, be sure it's ELECTRIC, and you're sure of having a really modern automatic range!

APPLE CRUMB PIE Jack Benny's delight

7 cups peeled, sliced apples
⅓ cup orange juice
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sifted, enriched flour
½ cup butter or margarine
Whipped cream

Place apples in greased deep pie pan; add orange juice. Combine sugars, orange rind, spices, salt and flour. Cut in butter or margarine with 2 knives or pastry blender. Spread evenly over apples. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F. 1 hour. Top each serving with flavored and sweetened whipped cream. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

WASHINGTON.

WHEN a sour-gripe Republican was beefing the other evening that "Jiggs" Donohue, the genial new District commissioner, was appointed as a political payoff, he was argued down . . . But came up, punching, "In the past election, for instance, Jiggs even went out to California to campaign for Helen Gahagan Douglas against Nixon."

AUSTINE

A die-hard Democrat shot back, "Political payoff! Nothing of the kind! Jiggs just happens to be a fellow that the fellow in the White House admires and likes." . . . 'Tis true that as one of the famous White House poker cronies while Jiggs does not play well, loses often and heavily, he does pay his gambling debts promptly and with good humor . . . Is an all-around popular and personable guy.

●—●—●

Behind the velvet curtains in the State Department a tense little drama has been played out . . . But neither the plot nor the cast of characters has been known by the general public . . . So let me turn drama critic and tell you about the play . . It might be titled, "A Switch in Time Saves Embarrassment."

The cast of characters includes:

JOHN CARTER VINCENT—Now our Envoy to Switzerland . . . Senator McCarthy charges he belonged to the pro-Russian bloc in the State Department . . . Vincent was to have been transferred from Switzerland and made ambassador to Costa Rica.

RICHARD C. PATTERSON—Who was to have taken Vincent's place in Switzerland . . . Patterson, former ambassador to Yugoslavia, was sort of invited to resign from his last post, ambassador to Guatemala . . . In an attempted revolution in that country Patterson was supposed to have sided with the losing side. The Guatemalan Government told the U. S. to recall him. They would no longer be responsible for his safety . . . So he has been cooling his heels in Washington, itching to get a new post.

ROBERT BUTLER—Former ambassador to Cuba who resigned about a week ago.

RUDOLPH SCHOENFELD—Former ambassador to Rumania, a loyal, able career diplomat with more than 30 years in the service.

Hard to follow and involved, the plot runs something like this:

The career men in the State Department resist moving John Carter Vincent out of Switzerland. "Keep him in the background, where he won't be such an easy target," they say.

But the career men are over-ruled, pressured to put Patterson in the job . . . Patterson, a personal friend of Truman's, is tired of sitting around in Washington since his recall from Guatemala.

In the next act the Government of Switzerland declares that Mr. Patterson is acceptable to them . . . Costa Rica says that they would be delighted to have Mr. Vincent . . . Everything seems all set for the switch.

But enters the villain! In a move that's almost unprecedented, the State Department starts stalling . . . They hold up John Carter Vincent's nomination as ambassador to Costa Rica . . . They keep Patterson waiting to go to Switzerland . . . Nobody can understand what goes on.

"Well, what goes on is simply that if John Carter Vincent's name goes before the Senate for confirmation as ambassador to Costa Rica, an investigation of his background would inevitably be stirred up . . . And he has definitely had a finger, in fact a whole fist in that smelly pie—our foreign policy in China . . . He was in charge of the Far Eastern Division at the State Department, and prior to that, counselor of our embassy in China . . . So rather than risk putting his name up before the Senate for confirmation, the State Department is keeping him where he is.

So we come to the end of the drama . . . Vincent stays in Switzerland . . . Patterson will become ambassador to Cuba, replacing Robert Butler, who resigned about a week ago . . . And to the post Patterson left vacant in Guatemala will go Rudolph Schoenfeld. CURTAIN

The question remains, gentle audience, is this drama a mystery—or a tragedy?

Stoles steal all the scenes in the drama of new fashions! Here's how to use them expertly.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MY FASHION experts say no woman will want to be without at least on stole in the seasons ahead. While this costume-making extra wasn't born yesterday, in review its performance is so solid that a long run ahead can be predicted.

You may have already discovered that everything this season from a bathing suit to an evening dress can be found assembled with its own striking stole. Designers, of course, have the special knowledge of how to combine color and fabric to create perfect harmony in such costumes.

Expert Combinations

To add a stole to any suit, coat, day or after-five dress already in your wardrobe, let yourself be guided by these principles which are the secret of the experts' success:

1. The stole's color must not only be complementary but interesting with whatever you wear it over. (Exception: Luxury fur. It enhances almost everything but your budget.)

For example, you might take all the trouble to knit yourself a shawl-type stole in the new-deep and lovely lilac shade only to find, too late, that over your Kelly green wool it looks as past as a greeting card reads. Or when topping your mauve tweed, there is no contrast, no match, no nothing. A rich, dark red would be better all around.

How to Combine Colors

Three safe ways to use color are by contrasting a color of high intensity (very bright, as red-violet) with a color of low intensity (very pale, as ice blue or very dark, as burnt gold); by exactly matching colors; by using two tones of the same color in low intensities such as pink and rose.

2. Equally important to the successful use of a stole is the choice of fabrics. Make sure those combined are interesting and compatible when put together. The woman who wears a nubby tweed stole over a shaggy fleece coat and with a rough straw hat hasn't learned that even in the season of the textured look you can have too much of a good thing! But matching the fabric of her stole to the fleece of her coat and saving the tweep to top a smooth-finish fabric such as gabardine would mark her as a woman of fashion wisdom.

When in doubt, either match textures or strive in contract smooth against rough.

Jack Benny
saves many a penny
. . . with his modern Electric Range!

Jack Benny, star of
"THE JACK BENNY SHOW," heard every Sunday
over CBS, coast to coast

"The mythical Jack Benny of the radio isn't really stingy—he merely hates to spend money," says Mrs. Benny (Mary Livingstone to all her radio fans), "but although the real Jack Benny is most generous, he still considers our Electric Range real economy."

Sure—you have economical operation with the modern Electric Range—but that's only one feature. It's almost human—different from any range you've ever tried. You don't guess at the cooking heat. Flip a switch, and you get just the heat you need. You don't peek or watch while things are in the oven. You know the automatic controls are doing that for you. Nothing new to learn—except how much better, how much easier cooking can be when you have a modern Electric Range. You can learn all about it at your dealer's!

8 Good Reasons Why You Need an Electric Range

Better cooking results
It's clean • It's easy to use
It's thrifty • It's cool • It's fast
It's automatic • It's modern

The only way to enjoy all these benefits is to have an Electric Range. No matter what make you choose, be sure it's ELECTRIC, and you're sure of having a really modern automatic range!

APPLE CRUMB PIE Jack Benny's delight

7 cups peeled, sliced apples
1/3 cup orange juice
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup sifted, enriched flour
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Whipped cream

Place apples in greased deep pie pan; add orange juice. Combine sugars, orange rind, spices, salt and flour. Cut in butter or margarine with 2 knives or pastry blender. Spread evenly over apples. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F. 1 hour. Top each serving with flavored and sweetened whipped cream. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Reds' Petroleum Industry Bit Shy Of Its 1950 Quota

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA, Australia—(AP)—Although pumping furiously, the Russians haven't been able to siphon all the oil they want from their Eastern and Central European captives.

Romania, the Soviet's biggest foreign source of oil, has announced officially that the petroleum industry was a bit shy of its 1950 quota—its estimated 4,750,000 tons being 1.2 per cent off the beam.

Hungary is reported to have met but 75 per cent of its quota, amount unknown—although Hungary's 1946 oil production was 684,000 tons.

But Austria's Soviet-owned Zistersdorf fields yielded 1,450,000 in 1950, more than double what it was in 1945. About 60 per cent of the Austrian production goes east.

It is not known here whether the Romanian and Hungarian disappointments may have any effect on the Soviet Union's international political aims. Russia's own oil output in 1950 has been estimated at 37,000,000 tons.

(British Correspondent Arthur Mooge, reporting in the Hindustan Times on a visit to Communist China, said that Red China's Korean adventure had stripped it of gasoline and that the shortage of motor fuel raised "an urgent practical question of supply." Moore added the observation that China's relations with the Soviet were "consistently cordial.")

Western observers in Bucharest believe Russia had hoped for much quicker recovery of the great Romanian oil fields, destroyed partially by Allied bombing during World War II. They feel that it may take the Communists two years more to reach the prewar level of 7,000,000 tons a year, attained by the now kicked-out American, British, and Dutch oil companies.

Westerners see three factors contributing to the slow postwar comeback from the 1947 low of 3,810,000 tons. They list these as the loss of western management and technicians, inadequate labor, and Russia's inability to supply replacement equipment.

These informants estimate that 95 per cent of all Romanian oil goes to the Soviet Union, with rationing in effect to both Hungary and Romania.

Veterans Asked To File Claims

Veterans of World War II entitled to P.O.W. benefits are reminded that March 1 is the deadline for the filing of applications. If a serviceman has died since the end of the war or was killed in action after release, his dependents may file an application.

Under provisions of the Geneva Convention held in July 1929, a soldier interred in an enemy prisoner of war camp is allowed $1 a day reimbursement as the result of the enemy failing to "provide quality or enough quantity of food.

Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant State Service Officer, said yesterday that veterans who have applied for benefits are asked not to write to the War Claims Department until June. Applications now under consideration entail much checking and screening.

Application forms may be obtained at the branch office of the Maryland Veterans Commission, Room 311, Liberty Trust Building. Garrett and Allegany counties come under this branch office.

Then, too, the Briggs' boys friends would like to see the paintings. Because the paintings were done by a professional Mrs. Briggs did not enter them in competition with the other artists, most of whom are amateurs.

Within the past year Miss Schuler's work received national recognition when she won first prize for still life in the exhibit of the National Pen Women's Association in the Mellon Art Gallery in Washington.

Miss Schuler's paintings, and the over 70 other exhibits in the Tri-State Art Exhibit may be inspected at the library here Monday through Saturday from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. and from 7 until 9 p. m. Monday through Friday until March 16. The exhibit is sponsored by the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women.

Industrial Group Will Meet Tonight

The Industrial Promotion Committee will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Unemployment Office, 301 South Mechanic Street.

According to Francis A. Kenney, chairman, a final report will be made by Richardson Wood, industrial consultant who has just completed six months of survey and contact work for the group in an effort to obtain new plants and employers for the area.

Veterans Asked To File Claims

Veterans of World War II entitled to P.O.W. benefits are reminded that March 1 is the deadline for the filing of applications. If a serviceman has died since the end of the war or was killed in action after release, his dependents may file an application.

Under provisions of the Geneva Convention held in July 1929, a soldier interred in an enemy prisoner of war camp is allowed $1 a day reimbursement as the result of the enemy failing to "provide quality or enough quantity of food.

Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant State Service Officer, said yesterday that veterans who have applied for benefits are asked not to write to the War Claims Department until June. Applications now under consideration entail much checking and screening.

Application forms may be obtained at the branch office of the Maryland Veterans Commission, Room 311, Liberty Trust Building. Garrett and Allegany counties come under this branch office.

Shipley Installed As GOP Club Prexy

W. O. Shipley was installed last night as the new president of the South End Republican Club in a ceremony at club headquarters, 429 Virginia Avenue.

Other officers are Jerry Beeche, vice-president; Milton Ryan, treasurer, and Willis Foreman, secretary. The installing officer was Carl W. Miller.

Victor Hebb is the retiring club president. Some 73 members attended the affair last night. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

German Doctors Plug Gap In U. S. European Force

By DANIEL DE LUCE

FRANKFURT (AP) — Eighty per cent of the U.S. Army's doctors on the front line in Europe are Germans.

If war erupted overnight, dozens of American battalions would have to be committed to battle without a single American medical officer.

Military sources, confirming this medical shortage in combat units, said it is "a grave worry to the Army command in Europe and an obvious indictment of organized medicine's policies in the United States."

(In Washington, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, chairman of the Defense Department's armed forces medical policy council, said the above statement was "full of prunes."

(When asked to comment on the Frankfurt dispatch, Dr. Meiling also said that "positively" all American doctors needed for combat units are in Europe and are concentrated in hospitals for maximum use instead of with units in the field. German doctors, he said, can handle such duties as sick calls, but Americans are ready and trained for mobilization with units within less than an hour in event of combat.

(The policy, Dr. Meiling continued, is a great improvement over World War II practice of keeping full combat medical complement with units and avoide "terrific waste of medical manpower."

(He expressed doubt that the situation was causing grave worry to the Army command because the Army in Europe has not asked for more American doctors.)

U.S. divisions in Germany now have only five or six American medical officers on their respective staffs. Their table of organization calls for 25 to a division.

None of these medical officers are reported serving on a battalion level, although every combat battalion is supposed to have one.

Peacetime medical care of American troops occupying Germany has not suffered, however, because skilled German civilians have been employed to plug the gap.

German physicians and surgeons run battalion dispensaries but they are not soldiers. They are under no obligation to accompany American units into war.

The U.S. Army's enforced reliance on Germans extends through its hospital system. A large proportion of the personnel is German under American supervision.

West Germany, since an influx of millions of refugees in 1945, has a surplus of doctors and nurses. The Army has had no difficulty in hiring as many as it needs to keep peacetime medical services at a high standard.

The Army command now is vigorously converting its forces from routine occupation duty to round-the-clock defense of Western Europe's frontier.

The command policy is: Be ready to fight at any moment against a surprise attack. Infantry and armored troops spend at least a third of their time in winter months in field training, and will be out on combat exercises almost constantly this summer.

Government Orders Use Of Copper Curbed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The government has banned or limited the use of copper in more than 50 products effective April 1 but lifted its bar on copper in home water systems.

The National Production Authority said it is lifting the ban on home water systems on March 1 "at least temporarily" to help the home building industry.

Many homes could not be completed on schedule because there is not enough galvanized water pipe available to substitute for copper, the NPA said.

The new restrictions on copper include coffee makers, home and farm freezers, waffle irons, refrigeration and air conditioning equipment and other items.

Landon May Be Ofered Administration Post

OMAHA, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Omaha World-Herald said yesterday the White House is giving serious consideration to offering administration post to Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican standard bearer in 1936.

In a dispatch from John Jarrell, the paper's Washington correspondent, the World-Herald said it had learned there had been a series of conferences relative to approaching Landon with an offer of an appointment.

If ever a time imposed a test, not alone of strength, but of character, upon our people, this is the time.

German Doctors Plug Gap In U. S. European Force

By DANIEL DE LUCE

FRANKFURT (AP) — Eighty per cent of the U.S. Army's doctors on the front line in Europe are Germans.

If war erupted overnight, dozens of American battalions would have to be committed to battle without a single American medical officer.

Military sources, confirming this medical shortage in combat units, said it is "a grave worry to the Army command in Europe and an obvious indictment of organized medicine's policies in the United States."

(In Washington, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, chairman of the Defense Department's armed forces medical policy council, said the above statement was "full of prunes."

(When asked to comment on the Frankfurt dispatch, Dr. Meiling also said that "positively" all American doctors needed for combat units are in Europe and are concentrated in hospitals for maximum use instead of with units in the field. German doctors, he said, can handle such duties as sick calls, but Americans are ready and trained for mobilization with units within less than an hour in event of combat.

(The policy, Dr. Meiling continued, is a great improvement over World War II practice of keeping full combat medical complement with units and avoide "terrific waste of medical manpower."

(He expressed doubt that the situation was causing grave worry to the Army command because the Army in Europe has not asked for more American doctors.)

U.S. divisions in Germany now have only five or six American medical officers on their respective staffs. Their table of organization calls for 25 to a division.

None of these medical officers are reported serving on a battalion level, although every combat battalion is supposed to have one.

Peacetime medical care of American troops occupying Germany has not suffered, however, because skilled German civilians have been employed to plug the gap.

German physicians and surgeons run battalion dispensaries but they are not soldiers. They are under no obligation to accompany American units into war.

The U.S. Army's enforced reliance on Germans extends through its hospital system. A large proportion of the personnel is German under American supervision.

West Germany, since an influx of millions of refugees in 1945, has a surplus of doctors and nurses. The Army has had no difficulty in hiring as many as it needs to keep peacetime medical services at a high standard.

The Army command now is vigorously converting its forces from routine occupation duty to round-the-clock defense of Western Europe's frontier.

The command policy is: Be ready to fight at any moment against a surprise attack. Infantry and armored troops spend at least a third of their time in winter months in field training, and will be out on combat exercises almost constantly this summer.

Government Orders Use Of Copper Curbed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The government has banned or limited the use of copper in more than 50 products effective April 1 but lifted its bar on copper in home water systems.

The National Production Authority said it is lifting the ban on home water systems on March 1 "at least temporarily" to help the home building industry.

Many homes could not be completed on schedule because there is not enough galvanized water pipe available to substitute for copper, the NPA said.

Landon May Be Ofered Administration Post

OMAHA, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Omaha World-Herald said yesterday the White House is giving serious consideration to offering administration post to Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican standard bearer in 1936.

In a dispatch from John Jarrell, the paper's Washington correspondent, the World-Herald said it had learned there had been a series of conferences relative to approaching Landon with an offer of an appointment.

Recent Thaw, Wet Weather Damages County Roadways

Roads in Allegany county are in the worst condition in years due to recent rainy weather and thawing, according to J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department.

Chapman's statement was borne out by numerous complaints received by his department and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

In low-lying sections the roads are a quagmire and there's not much that can be done to remedy the situation at present the supervisor declared. When roads are rutted and covered with mud more than a foot deep they can not be worked by employes of the Roads Department, according to Chapman.

Most of the roads in the eastern section of the county are almost impassable and even the hard surfaced roads have been damaged by the sudden thawing of recent days.

School buses, which use mostly hard surfaced roads have been able to continue their schedules, but on two occasions buses were stuck on dirt roads. One foundered on Warrior Mountain Road and another on the Oliver Beltz Road in the eastern section of the county the latter part of last week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of the school bus system.

Complaints have been received from Ross and Ralph Shaw concerning the Baer Hill Road near Oldtown, Mrs. Gladys Merica, of Little Orleans; Wayne Twigg, M. R. Lewis, J. J. Zaph, and Donald Stedman, all of Oldtown. This latter group complained of roads within Oldtown itself.

Leslie Kolb said the Dickinson Road was impassable and the Wilson Road was also reported in bad shape.

There are many other roads which are in bad condition.

Members of the county board said they intend to concentrate on cleaning ditches and maintenance of the present hard surface roads during the next year. Some work will also be done on dirt roads in an effort to place them in shape for the coming year.

Board Gets Reply On Proposed Lab Site

A reply to a telegram sent by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners last week urging the location of the proposed new multi-million dollar Army research laboratory here was received yesterday.

Robert Frye, secretary of the site committee, said that Cumberland's unemployment condition has been taken into consideration and the committee has forwarded the information to General George Marshall, secretary of defense, who will make the final section for the laboratory.

New Instrument May Teach The Blind To "Read" By Ear

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New hope of teaching the blind to "read" by ear is offered by an instrument that looks something like a fountain pen, a Michigan psychologist reports.

Dr. Wilma T. Donahue of the University of Michigan said the instrument, known as a "photoelectric stylus," is designed to be drawn across a line of printed type—converting the letters into characteristic sounds heard by the "reader" through an earphone.

She said the instrument is not yet ready for the market. But she declared that in tests it had shown distinct promise of being a practical aid for the blind.

Dr. Donahue told the National Psychological Research Council For The Blind, at a meeting here, that blind persons participating in the tests had learned to read short words with a brief period of training and then progressed to ordinary text from printed books within a few weeks.

She said some had attained a "sound" vocabulary of 200 words in as little as 25 hours of training.

The council is a non-governmental group which was initiated by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Federal Security Agency.

Dr. Donahue said the research project has been carried on in various parts of the country under the sponsorship of the National Research Council which also sponsored development of the "stylus" instrument.

"I feel confident," she said, "that a blind person with sufficient practice could read newspapers and even letters written by hand, although no tests have been made in either field to date.

"However, in our tests, blind persons have 'read' type as small as newspaper type which was printed on a finer grade of paper. Newsprint paper does not provide the proper background for the stylus in its present stage of development."

Declaring that the entire apparatus—stylus, earphone, batteries and photoelectric cell—can be packed into a case about the size of a woman's small handbag and can be carried slung from the shoulder by a strap, Dr. Donahue gave this outline on how it works:

The pen-like "stylus" scans the letters as it is drawn across the line of type. The instrument is designed so that minute changes in light passing there will be translated into different sounds.

Thus, the different shapes of the letters produce sounds of varying pitch. For example, the letter "O" registers a sound of medium pitch. Letters like "P" and "Q" which have an appendage below the line register both a medium and low-pitched sound. And letters like the small "D" which have a projection above the line, register a medium and high-pitched sound.

Students gradually learn to distinguish the different sounds and build them into words.

Take GAS Oven-Cooking! Air-circulated, even heat—heat you can't get in any other type range—gives the same golden-brown done-ness in any part of the oven. With automatic GAS cooking, your dinner is ready, piping hot, at dinner time, even though you've been out all afternoon!

See how superior GAS top-of-stove cooking is! You choose not one out of five or seven different heats—but one out of thousands. The exact heat that cooks each food perfectly! Things cook faster with GAS, so your dinner doesn't take nearly as long to prepare!

Wonder-broiling—with GAS! Flame broiling—the kind that makes things extra-delicious—is yours with an automatic GAS range. No smoke worries. You close the broiler door—keep cooking heat inside, on the food, not dissipated into the kitchen through an open broiler door.

Low price, low upkeep, low fuel bills! The low price you pay for a GAS range is usually your final range cost—no replacement of burners is ever necessary. And your low cooking-fuel bills will be a constant source of economy for years!

New Instrument May Teach The Blind To "Read" By Ear

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New hope of teaching the blind to "read" by ear is offered by an instrument that looks something like a fountain pen, a Michigan psychologist reports.

Dr. Wilma T. Donahue of the University of Michigan said the instrument, known as a "photo-electric stylus," is designed to be drawn across a line of printed type—converting the letters into characteristic sounds heard by the "reader" through an earphone.

She said the instrument is not yet ready for the market. But she declared that in tests it had shown distinct promise of being a practical aid for the blind.

Dr. Donahue told the National Psychological Research Council For The Blind, at a meeting here, that blind persons participating in the tests had learned to read short words with a brief period of training and then progressed to ordinary text from printed books within a few weeks.

She said some had attained a "sound" vocabulary of 200 words in as little as 25 hours of training.

The council is a non-governmental group which was initiated by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Federal Security Agency.

Dr. Donahue said the research project has been carried on in various parts of the country under the sponsorship of the National Research Council which also sponsored development of the "stylus" instrument.

"I feel confident," she said, "that a blind person with sufficient practice could read newspapers and even letters written by hand, although no tests have been made in either field to date.

"However, in our tests, blind persons have 'read' type as small as newspaper type which was printed on a finer grade of paper. Newsprint paper does not provide the proper background for the stylus in its present stage of development."

Declaring that the entire apparatus—stylus, earphone, batteries and photoelectric cell—can be packed into a case about the size of a woman's small handbag and can be carried slung from the shoulder by a strap, Dr. Donahue gave this outline on how it works:

The pen-like "stylus" scans the letters as it is drawn across the line of type. The instrument is designed so that minute changes in light passing there will be translated into different sounds.

Thus, the different shapes of the letters produce sounds of varying pitch. For example, the letter "O" registers a sound of medium pitch. Letters like "P" and "Q" which have an appendage below the line register both a medium and low-pitched sound. And letters like the small "D" which have a projection above the line, register a medium and high-pitched sound.

Students gradually learn to distinguish the different sounds and build them into words.

Barton Stops Fort Hill's 17-Game Winning Streak, 56-46

Bill And Bob Kirk Score 34 Points As Braves Win

Race May End In Tie Friday; AHS, Central Chalk Up Victories

W.M.I. LEAGUE
STANDING OF THE TEAMS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Fort Hill	8	1	.889
Barton	7	2	.778
Allegany	5	4	.556
Beall	4	5	.444
Central	3	6	.333
Bruce	0	9	.000

Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School Braves shattered the 17-game winning streak of Fort Hill High School before a packed house at Barton last night and handed the Sentinels of Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh their first defeat of the 1950-51 compaign by the score of 56 to 46.

Barton's triumph also cracked Fort Hill's eight-game string in the W.M.I. League and put the Braves one full game out of first place in the race that is scheduled to end on Friday. Barton has a 7-2 record in the six-team circuit.

The race would end in a tie if Allegany spills Fort Hill at Campobello and Barton defeats Beall at Frostburg on Friday.

Braves Always Ahead

Bill Kirk's field goal shortly after the opening whistle gave Barton a lead it never relinquished in last night's battle. The Thomasmen were out in front at the quarter, 16-3, at the half, 24-13, and 40-23 when the third period ended.

The Kirk Brothers—Bill and Bob with 18 and 16 points—were Barton's scoring aces in this important victory. Lynn Beightol kept the Sentinels in the ball game by meshing 16 points and Glen Wilson contributed nine.

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called—22 on Barton and 16 on Fort Hill—and three players were ejected. George McGregor of Fort Hill was thumbed out by Eddie Diehl for talking back in the 2nd quarter and Arnold Tichnell and Don Bean of Barton went out via five personal fouls in the fourth period.

AHS And Central Win

Allegany High School moved into 3rd place by handing Bruce High School its 9th straight loss of the league campaign at Westernport, 61-48.

John Eversole's 21 points sparked the Campers' offensive while Shimer contributed 14 to lead Bruce. Coach Walter L. Bowers' team held a 32-24 lead at half time. Reeves and Phares were banished on personal fouls.

In the preliminary game, Allegany's Jayvees avenged an earlier loss by defeating Bruce, 76-44.

At Lonaconing, Central High's Tigers took the measure of Beall High, Frostburg, 59 to 37.

Kenneth Burt racked up 10 field goals and 23 points for the victors. Workman topped Beall with an even dozen markers.

'Coney held the long end of a 26-16 score at intermission.

Hawkins and Blank of Beall made their exit on personal fouls.

Vincent Farrell Will Be Speaker At Dapper Dan Banquet On Sunday

New Jersey Arbiter Joins Other Notables

Vincent Farrell

Vincent "Vinnie" Farrell of Newark, N. J., prominent eastern collegiate and professional basketball official, has been added to the growing list of celebrities who will speak at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club on Sunday at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home.

Arrangements for Farrell's appearance here were completed yesterday by William V. Keegan, chairman of the club's executive committee.

A six sport athlete, Farrell has been an instructor of athletics for the past quarter century, officiated in numerous college and pro games in Madison Square Garden, and handled AAU games in Central America two years ago.

A graduate of St. Benedict's Prep, Panzer College and Rutgers University, Farrell has officiated at more than 2,200 sports events in the U. S. A. and several foreign counties.

"Vinnie" is regarded as a talented speaker, has a fine collection of unusual sport stories and once was a candidate for the New Jersey legislature.

Among the other sport notables expected to attend the banquet which is being held for the benefit of the Allegany League for Crippled Children are Johnny Michelosen, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Lefty Joe Page, New York Yankees pitcher; Coach Herman Ball and Harry Dowda of the Washington Redskins. Bill Dudley of the Redskins also may appear here.

LaSalle Will Play Men Of LaSalle In Booster Cage Game

The Booster basketball game between LaSalle's varsity quint and the Men of LaSalle is definitely set for Saturday and will be staged on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock, it was announced last night by Joseph F. Stakem, president of the Men of LaSalle.

There will be a preliminary game between St. Mary's and SS. Peter and Paul of the K. of C. Youth League at 7 o'clock.

The program is being staged for the benefit of both LaSalle and the Men of LaSalle and proceeds will be split 50-50.

Bobby Stakem is coaching the Men of LaSalle and a squad of 16 reported for practice last Thursday.

Among the former LaSalle players in the Men of LaSalle lineup will be Tom Cumiskey, Francis Chapman, Joe Nolan, and Jimmy Stakem.

St. Mary's Beaten By St. Michael's

St. Michael's quint of Frostburg moved a step closer to winning both halves of the split season race in the K. of C. Youth Basketball League race by defeating St. Mary's cagers last night on St. Mary's court, 38-25.

The victory was St. Michael's 5th of the second half race. St. Mary's has won three and lost two.

Mike Finn led the winners in scoring with 11 points to his credit. Bob Andrews paced St. Mary's with 11 markers. St. Michael's held a 20-9 advantage at half time. Lineups:

Scandal Leads LIU To Quit Intercollegiate Athletics

University Cancels Its Remaining Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—College sport's greatest scandal tonight led Long Island university—with four star basketball players accused of taking $18,500 to fix seven big-time games — to abandon intercollege athletics.

It was the aftermath of a district attorney's crackdown on players of three major New York cage teams alleged to have taken gamblers' money to insure desired results in a number of games.

Three top players of the City College of New York—last year's national kingpin in the college basketball world — and one from New York University had been taken into custody earlier on similar charges.

Authorities said the eight basketball players admitted obtaining a total of $25,000.

Long Island University President T. W. Metcalfe sent a telegram to Ned Irish, Madison Square Garden basketball promoter, informing him LIU is cancelling its remaining games of the season there, Feb. 22 and March 1. Two other non-Garden tilts also are being cancelled.

At the same time it was announced that the university's trustees decided to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

A statement from the board of trustees said it concluded that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

The trustees said they were shocked by revelations of players taking bribes to fix games and "are concerned with the broader implications involved insofar as both the boys and their families are concerned."

However, fullest confidence was expressed by the board in the LIU basketball coach, Clair F. Bee.

Three Colleges Shun NIT Games

By International News Service

Three universities — Bradley of Peoria, Ill., the University of California and Southern Methodist University — announced today that their teams will not appear in this year's National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

SMU athletic director Matty Bell said that the school's athletic committee voted last week not to send its team to the tourney.

Here's EXTRA VALUE in cold-engine starting...

new ANTI-STALLING
ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

If you have experienced engine stalling on cool, damp days, especially in the first 10 minutes of driving, try this entirely new kind of gasoline. The only gasoline on the market which combats cold-engine stalling. Before you blame your car, try a tankful. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. And it doesn't cost a penny more than other premium gasolines!

ROAD-TESTED FOR FIVE MONTHS on eleven makes of cars...Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline practically eliminates cold-engine stalling.

Again, here's news of "something more" at the Esso Sign—the kind of extra value that keeps millions of motorists coming back for more!

Detroit's Automotive Engineers...

say that cold-engine stalling has been a persistent problem for years. Under certain conditions, powerful gasolines required for today's high-compression engines evaporate and freeze moisture out of the air, "icing up" the carburetor and causing temporary stalling. This stalling is practically eliminated by the new Esso Extra Gasoline. (No gasoline, of course, can correct stalling caused by mechanical faults or electrical failure.)

Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School Braves shattered the 17-game winning streak of Fort Hill High School before a packed house at Barton last night and handed the Sentinels of Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh their first defeat of the 1950-51 compaign by the score of 56 to 46.

Barton's triumph also cracked Fort Hill's eight-game string in the W.M.I. League and put the Braves one full game out of first place in the race that is scheduled to end on Friday. Barton has a 7-2 record in the six-team circuit.

The race would end in a tie if Allegany spills Fort Hill at Campobello and Barton defeats Beall at Frostburg on Friday.

Braves Always Ahead

Bill Kirk's field goal shortly after the opening whistle gave Barton a lead it never relinquished in last night's battle. The Thomasmen were out in front at the quarter, 16-3, at the half, 24-13, and 40-23 when the third period ended.

The Kirk Brothers—Bill and Bob with 18 and 16 points—were Barton's scoring aces in this important victory. Lynn Beightol kept the Sentinels in the ball game by meshing 16 points and Glen Wilson contributed nine.

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called—22 on Barton and 16 on Fort Hill—and three players were ejected. George McGregor of Fort Hill was thumbed out by Eddie Diehl for talking back in the 2nd quarter and Arnold Tichnell and Don Bean of Barton went out via five personal fouls in the fourth period.

AHS And Central Win

Allegany High School moved into 3rd place by handing Bruce High School its 9th straight loss of the league campaign at Westernport, 61-48.

John Eversole's 21 points sparked the Campers' offensive while Shimer contributed 14 to lead Bruce. Coach Walter L. Bowers' team held a 32-24 lead at half time. Reeves and Phares were banished on personal fouls.

In the preliminary game, Allegany's Jayvees avenged an earlier loss by defeating Bruce, 76-44.

At Lonaconing, Central High's Tigers took the measure of Beall High, Frostburg, 59 to 37.

Kenneth Burt racked up 10 field goals and 23 points for the victors. Workman topped Beall with an even dozen markers.

'Coney held the long end of a 26-16 score at intermission.

Hawkins and Blank of Beall made their exit on personal fouls.

University Cancels Its Remaining Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—College sport's greatest scandal tonight led Long Island university—with four star basketball players accused of taking $18,500 to fix seven big-time games — to abandon intercollege athletics.

It was the aftermath of a district attorney's crackdown on players of three major New York cage teams alleged to have taken gamblers' money to insure desired results in a number of games.

Three top players of the City College of New York—last year's national kingpin in the college basketball world — and one from New York University had been taken into custody earlier on similar charges.

Authorities said the eight basketball players admitted obtaining a total of $25,000.

Long Island University President T. W. Metcalfe sent a telegram to Ned Irish, Madison Square Garden basketball promoter, informing him LIU is cancelling its remaining games of the season there, Feb. 22 and March 1. Two other non-Garden tilts also are being cancelled.

At the same time it was announced that the university's trustees decided to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

A statement from the board of trustees said it concluded that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

The trustees said they were shocked by revelations of players taking bribes to fix games and "are concerned with the broader implications involved insofar as both the boys and their families are concerned."

However, fullest confidence was expressed by the board in the LIU basketball coach, Clair F. Bee.

Three Colleges Shun NIT Games

By International News Service

Three universities — Bradley of Peoria, Ill., the University of California and Southern Methodist University — announced today that their teams will not appear in this year's National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

SMU athletic director Matty Bell said that the school's athletic committee voted last week not to send its team to the tourney.

Spas At Wheeling Tonight, Erie Here Sunday Afternoon

Cumberland's Spas will play the Wheeling Blues in an All-American League game tonight at Madison Junior High School, Wheeling.

The local team will leave from the Spa Bar at 4 p. m.

Erie's Admirals are scheduled to play the Spas Sunday at 3:30 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court.

In other league games scheduled this week Beaver Falls plays at Altoona Saturday and meets Wheeling at Bellaire, Ohio, on Sunday.

Vincent Farrell Will Be Speaker At Dapper Dan Banquet On Sunday

New Jersey Arbiter Joins Other Notables

Vincent "Vinnie" Farrell of Newark, N. J., prominent eastern collegiate and professional basketball official, has been added to the growing list of celebrities who will speak at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club on Sunday at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home.

Vincent Farrell

Arrangements for Farrell's appearance here were completed yesterday by William V. Keegan, chairman of the club's executive committee.

A six sport athlete, Farrell has been an instructor of athletics for the past quarter century, officiated in numerous college and pro games in Madison Square Garden, and handled AAU games in Central America two years ago.

A graduate of St. Benedict's Prep, Panzer College and Rutgers University, Farrell has officiated at more than 2,200 sports events in the U. S. A. and several foreign counties.

"Vinnie" is regarded as a talented speaker, has a fine collection of unusual sport stories and once was a candidate for the New Jersey legislature.

Among the other sport notables expected to attend the banquet which is being held for the benefit of the Allegany League for Crippled Children are Johnny Michelosen, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Lefty Joe Page, New York Yankees pitcher; Coach Herman Ball and Harry Dowda of the Washington Redskins. Bill Dudley of the Redskins also may appear here.

Here's EXTRA VALUE in cold-engine starting...

ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

If you have experienced engine stalling on cool, damp days, especially in the first 10 minutes of driving, try this entirely new kind of gasoline. The only gasoline on the market which combats cold-engine stalling. Before you blame your car, try a tankful. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. And it doesn't cost a penny more than other premium gasolines!

ROAD-TESTED FOR FIVE MONTHS on eleven makes of cars... Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline practically eliminates cold-engine stalling.

Again, here's news of "something more" at the Esso Sign—the kind of extra value that keeps millions of motorists coming back for more!

Detroit's Automotive Engineers...

say that cold-engine stalling has been a persistent problem for years. Under certain conditions, powerful gasolines required for today's high-compression engines evaporate and freeze moisture out of the air, "icing up" the carburetor and causing temporary stalling. This stalling is practically eliminated by the new Esso Extra Gasoline. (No gasoline, of course, can correct stalling caused by mechanical faults or electrical failure.)

Four LIU Stars Charge With Accepting $18,500 To Fix Seven Cage Tilts

White, Bigos, Smith Nabbed; Shaved Pojnts In Return For Bribes

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Four Long Island University stars, drawn into the greatest scandal in college sports history, were charged today with taking $18,500 to fix seven big-time basketball games.

It was the fourth and largest cage scandal since 1945.

Three of the LIU players were arrested today, bringing to eight the number of local college players or ex-players who allegedly sold out for an overall total of $25,000 in gamblers' bribes.

The fourth, who played last year but not this year, already was charged with taking part in an earlier bribe attempt that broke the fix case wide open.

Fixed Seven Games

Authorities said the four players admitted fixing seven games—three last year and four this season, and one of them in the National Invitation Tournament. They said the last game they fixed was on Jan. 4 when LIU played Bowling Green.

Finally, the players were quoted as saying, they sickened of the deal and shrugged off further tainted money to go straight a month ago.

The latest three players nabbed in the spreading betting coup included Sherman White, 22-year-old negro forward and the nation's leading scorer. The gangling star was regarded as a cinch for All-America honors this year.

Charged with bribery along with White were LIU's other star forward and team captain, Adolph Bigos, 25, and Le Rou Smith, 21, a classy negro guard.

Held In $15,000 Bail

They were held in $15,000 bail each.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the three cracked under night long questioning and finally admitted their part in the seven LIU fixes.

The fourth LIU man involved was Edward Gard, said by Hogan to have been bribed first when he played on the LIU squad last season.

He is accused of drawing his three teammates into the setup.

Then, with his playing days over, Gard was accused of acting as a go-between to help bribe players from other schools.

Besides the four LIU players, four from other schools have been arrested since the scandal broke Sunday.

Seized then were three members of City College's "Cinderella" team of last season which swept to the National Invitation and NCAA championships for basketball's first and only grand slam. The three were Ed Warner, ranked in 1950 as one of the nation's top players, Ed Roman and Al Roth. The fourth player was NYU's Harvey (Connie) Schaff.

Admit Shaving Points

All of the cage stars, Hogan said, admitted "shaving points"—in return for bribes— to beat the "point spreads" designated by bookmakers.

The point spread is the margin by which the bookmakers think the favored team should win.

The district attorney said that seven LIU games, including three played last season, were involved in the fixing plot.

The payoffs per player for each of the fixed games ranged from $1,250 to $500, Hogan said, with $1,000 per player per game being the average.

Hogan said the plot eventually backfired on its alleged mastermind and "money man," Salvatore T. Sollazzo and his go-between, Edward Gard, member of last year's LIU team.

Sollazzo, jewelry manufacturer and ex-convict, also was named as the man who allegedly bribed the other four players arrested Sunday.

Bail Is Denied

Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter refused during the day to free Sollazzo on bail. Earlier, in felony court, bail also had been denied him.

Said Justice Hofstadter:

"I can hardly see a more despicable crime—the corruption of youth at the very fountainhead."

Sallazzo's pretty wife, Jeanne, a mink coat around her shoulders, broke down and wept in court during the hearing. She is a former Powers model.

Hogan said that after the seventh game involved in the conspiracy — played Jan. 4 against Bowling Green, with LIU meeting the specified six points spread exactly in winning 69-63—all three LIU players "resolutely agreed" not to have anything more to do with the plot.

Games That Were Fixed

The three kept their agreement, the district attorney said, despite the insistence of Sollazzo.

"Sollazzo took an awful licking," Hogan asserted, referring to the Jan. 16 game in which LIU beat Duquesne 84 to 52. LIU was the favorite.

The six other games affected by the "fix" Hogan said, were:

LIU vs. North Carolina State, Jan. 17, 1950, won by North Carolina State, 55 to 52.

LIU vs. Cincinnati, Feb. 23, 1950, won by Cincinnati, 83 to 65.

LIU vs. Syracuse, March 11, 1950, first round of the National Invitation Tournament. Syracuse won 80 to 52.

LIU vs. Kansas State, Dec. 2, 1950, won by LIU 60 to 59.

LIU vs. Denver, Dec. 7, 1950, won by LIU 58 to 56.

LIU vs. Idaho, Dec. 25, 1950, won by LIU 59 to 57.

Hogan said Gard alone was involved with Sollazzo in the initial stages of the plot. The district attorney related this story of the plot's development:

Gard first approached Bigos in January, 1950.

Bigos evinced interest. An agreement was reached under which each would get $1,000 a game from Sollazzo for "shaving the winning margin in accordance with instructions."

After the North Carolina State game, the manufacturer handed $2,000 to Gard who turned over half of the money to his fellow conspirator.

White Joins Conspiracy

White got into the coup after the N. C. State game by accusing Bigos and Gard of "laying down" and playing "pretty phony" basketball.

Two days later, Gard admitted to White he and Bigos had been bribed to "shave points," and urged White to join the conspiracy and make some "easy money." White agreed to go along.

The tactics of the three players, according to Hogan, included "kicking the ball all over the floor" and deliberately aiming for the rim of the basket on foul shots.

In the seven fixed games, Hogan said, Bigos received a total of $7,250; White, $6,250 and Smith, $2,000. Gard, he added, was paid $3,000 for the 1949-50 games.

The players and Sollazzo were charged with violating the state penal law dealing with "bribery of participants in professional or amateur games."

On conviction they could receive a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Kinsman Cops Hialeah Park Feature Race

Survives Foul Claim, Beats High Bracket

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP) — Mrs. J. Carson's Kinsman was a blessing in disguise for the battered form players when he survived a claim of foul to win the featured Bok Tower Purse of $5,000 at Hialeah Park today.

He was the first choice of the day to make good, paying $5.50. It was also the Whirlaway colt's second straight at the meeting.

Well ridden by Ira Hanford, Kinsman drew out by three lengths at the end of the mile and a furlong, covered in 1:50 3-5. D. Shaer's High Bracket was a stopping second, a half-length before John Marsch's Whirlaway Dough, while Frangine got fourth in the field of eight routers.

After the race, Jockey Boulmetis, who soon will be called into the army, lodged what appeared a frivolous claim of foul against the winner. He was up on High Bracket, which tired as Kinsman got to him near the eighth pole.

When Kinsman did move over on the rail, he did not appear to bother High Bracket. The stewards dismissed they claim readily.

It was a two-horse race from the start, for High Bracket cut out the running, with Kinsman, under light restraint, in closest pursuit. Hanford flicked his mount twice with the whip when he made his move, then it was all over. Whirling Dough finished stoutly and might have been second in a few more jumps.

Kinsman Cops Hialeah Park Feature Race

Survives Foul Claim, Beats High Bracket

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP) — Mrs. J. Carson's Kinsman was a blessing in disguise for the battered form players when he survived a claim of foul to win the featured Bok Tower Purse of $5,000 at Hialeah Park today.

He was the first choice of the day to make good, paying $5.50. It was also the Whirlaway colt's second straight at the meeting.

Well ridden by Ira Hanford, Kinsman drew out by three lengths at the end of the mile and a furlong, covered in 1:50 3-5. D. Shaer's High Bracket was a stopping second, a half-length before John Marsch's Whirlaway Dough, while Frangine got fourth in the field of eight routers.

After the race, Jockey Boulmetis, who soon will be called into the army, lodged what appeared a frivolous claim of foul against the winner. He was up on High Bracket, which tired as Kinsman got to him near the eighth pole.

When Kinsman did move over on the rail, he did not appear to bother High Bracket. The stewards dismissed they claim readily.

It was a two-horse race from the start, for High Bracket cut out the running, with Kinsman, under light restraint, in closest pursuit. Hanford flicked his mount twice with the whip when he made his move, then it was all over. Whirling Dough finished stoutly and might have been second in a few more jumps.

Area Farmers Notified To Increase Crops

County Agent Urges More Vegetables

Allegany county farmers are being notified by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, to increase their 1951 crops of summer melons, and summer and fall vegetables for fresh marketing and processing.

The national goals call for increasing the acreage of vegetables for processing 22 per cent over the 1950 planted acreage figure. Emphasis is placed on sweet corn and tomatoes—with an increase of 40 per cent suggested for sweet corn, and 35 per cent for tomatoes. A 15 per cent gain is suggested for green peas, 10 per cent for snap beans, and five per cent for lima beans.

In discussing the goals, Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, said, "no state goals have been announced and it is possible that none will be given."

Continuing with the national figures he said, " A four per cent increase in acreage of vegetables for fresh market is suggested for both summer and fall crops."

For summer vegetables, these increases are suggested: 25 per cent for early tomatoes, 15 per cent for early onions, 10 per cent for snap beans and beets, and five per cent for lima beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, sweet corn and cucumbers.

For fall vegetables, these increases are suggested: Ten per cent for late tomatoes, and lima beans, and five per cent for carrots and late celery.

No change is recommended in 1951 acreage of cantaloupes in the 1951 vegetable acreage suggestions.

Employe Gets Watch For 25-Year Service

Harrison C. Givens, Jr., manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation, Monday presented a wristwatch to John W. McKenzie, B Street, LaVale, on his completion of 25 years service at the plant.

A native of Cumberland, McKenzie served an apprenticeship as a painter with Robert H. Maloney, painter contractor of Elkins, W. Va. He was employed for four years as a painter by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company before going to the Celanese plant June 12, 1924. He is employed as a painter in the workshop.

Observation Cars Added To B and O Train

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has placed in service two new observation lounge cars on its Ambassador, between Baltimore and Detroit, the railroad announced yesterday.

The cars are named "Metcalf" and "Dana" after towns of the same name in Indiana, which are closely connected with the early life of Colonel R. B. White, president of the B & O. He was born in Metcalf, Ind., and as a lad of 16 took his first railroad job as a telegrapher at Dana, Ind.

State Police Give Accident Report

State Police reported yesterday there were 48 traffic deaths on Streets and highways during January, an increase of 45 per cent over the same period last year when 33 fatalities occurred.

The category in which fatal mishaps increased most sharply was the death of pedestrians in the day time. There were seven last month, compared to three in January, 1950. Another nine persons were killed in accidents at night.

Accidents of all types totaled 1,895 during the month, seven per cent higher than January, 1950.

Extension Director Will Visit Here

Dr. James W. Gwin, recently named director of the Agriculture Extension Service of the University of Maryland, will make an official visit to the office County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry on Thursday.

Dr. Gwin succeeded Dr. T. B. Symons, who for many years headed the Extension Service. After conferring with McHenry and Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, Dr. Gwin will go to Oakland to visit the Garrett county farm agent.

He is on his way to Indianapolis, Ind., and decided to stop off here while enroute.

John W. Magruder, county farm agent leader for Maryland, will accompany Dr. Gwin.

Truck Overloading Violations Continue

The overloading of trucks operating on state highways continues, according to reports of the State Roads Commission.

The most recent report lists an overload of 43,700 pounds on a single truck and the violation resulted in a fine of $157.25 against C. J. Langenfelder and Son, Inc., Baltimore.

Recent violations and fines include Enoch F. Price, Frostburg, $33; Ray Knapp, Cumberland, $50.75; Randall Riley, Accident, $62.90, and Walter L. Puffinburger, Green Spring, W. Va., $35.45. Records show 14 violations charged against Price since January 1, 1950.

Area Farmers Notified To Increase Crops

County Agent Urges More Vegetables

Allegany county farmers are being notified by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, to increase their 1951 crops of summer melons, and summer and fall vegetables for fresh marketing and processing.

The national goals call for increasing the acreage of vegetables for processing 22 per cent over the 1950 planted acreage figure. Emphasis is placed on sweet corn and tomatoes—with an increase of 40 per cent suggested for sweet corn, and 35 per cent for tomatoes. A 15 per cent gain is suggested for green peas, 10 per cent for snap beans, and five per cent for lima beans.

In discussing the goals, Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, said, "no state goals have been announced and it is possible that none will be given."

Continuing with the national figures he said, " A four per cent increase in acreage of vegetables for fresh market is suggested for both summer and fall crops."

For summer vegetables, these increases are suggested: 25 per cent for early tomatoes, 15 per cent for early onions, 10 per cent for snap beans and beets, and five per cent for lima beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, sweet corn and cucumbers.

For fall vegetables, these increases are suggested: Ten per cent for late tomatoes, and lima beans, and five per cent for carrots and late celery.

No change is recommended in 1951 acreage of cantaloupes in the 1951 vegetable acreage suggestions.

Employe Gets Watch For 25-Year Service

Harrison C. Givens, Jr., manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation, Monday presented a wristwatch to John W. McKenzie, B Street, LaVale, on his completion of 25 years service at the plant.

A native of Cumberland, McKenzie served an apprenticeship as a painter with Robert H. Maloney, painter contractor of Elkins, W. Va. He was employed for four years as a painter by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company before going to the Celanese plant June 12, 1924. He is employed as a painter in the workshop.

William J. Elvin, plant engineer, presented McKenzie with a 25-year pin and certificate.

Observation Cars Added To B and O Train

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has placed in service two new observation lounge cars on its Ambassador, between Baltimore and Detroit, the railroad announced yesterday.

The cars are named "Metcalf" and "Dana" after towns of the same name in Indiana, which are closely connected with the early life of Colonel R. B. White, president of the B & O. He was born in Metcalf, Ind., and as a lad of 16 took his first railroad job as a telegrapher at Dana, Ind.

State Police Give Accident Report

State Police reported yesterday there were 48 traffic deaths on Streets and highways during January, an increase of 45 per cent over the same period last year when 33 fatalities occurred.

The category in which fatal mishaps increased most sharply was the death of pedestrians in the day time. There were seven last month, compared to three in January, 1950. Another nine persons were killed in accidents at night.

Accidents of all types totaled 1,895 during the month, seven per cent higher than January, 1950.

KEEPING UP WITH
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20 (INS)—Seldom has Jack Warner been more excited over any screen story than he is over Harlan Ware's new novel, "Come, Fill The Cup." He feels he has just the right star to play the tough city editor in James Cagney. This editor, once a drinking man, reforms and you never see him take a drink in the picture. For that I'm glad. I thoroughly dislike stories about drunken newspaper men.

A few days ago I said that Jimmy was all set to do "Angels In The Outfield" for M-G-M in place of Clark Gable. There are two good reasons why the deal fell through. Jimmy's salary is $250,000, high these days. And, after reading Ware's book he decided in favor of the home lot movie.

Producer Henry Blanke tells me the exciting newspaper yarn will be ready to go before the cameras in eight weeks.

You needn't be surprised if Lee J. Cobb plays the role in "Death Of A Salesman" on the screen which he created on the stage.

He has been in a huddle with Stanley Kramer and it looks favorable. There's no truth in the report that Frederic March has the inside track on the role.

Well, there couldn't be any better actor than the man who lived and breathed the character of the salesman for so long.

Alida Valli telephoned to say that she is well again and will soon be Italy-bound to visit her mother.

"David Selznick has been so kind," Alida said, "and as soon as I came out of the sanatorium he gave me permission to take a three-month leave of absence until I regain my health."

So Alida is motoring east with friends. Then she'll board a slow boat and take a leisurely cruise to her native Italy, where she'll spend at least two months in her home and with her mother.

Ava Gardner, in Palm Springs seeing Frankie Sinatra, of course, was unhappy after reading the script of "Scaramouche," her next picture. She felt Elizabeth Taylor and Stewart Granger had much more important roles than she and she believed the picture would hurt her.

So now the script is being rewritten and Ava's part built up. M-G-M biggies, including her director, George Sidney, say that her complaint was justified, although one of them said she read a script they had no intention of using.

George Sidney said Ava is so wonderful in "Show Boat," and she now has the instincts of an actress and will become a great star.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Who was the attractive blonde with Brod Crawford at the Sarnez? I hear her last name is Robinson.

Both Frances and Van Heflin deny in no uncertain terms that they have had any matrimonial trouble whatsoever. I believe them, too, knowing them and how much their two little redhaired girls mean to them both.

Andre Previn, in from Camp Cooke over the weekend, spent both evenings with the little French actress Leslie Caron. What happened to Andre's supposed engagement to Phyllis Kirk?

Betty Charteris, ex-wife of Author Leslie Charteris, and Alan Nixon in a quiet corner at Ciro's.

At a table for two as Sportsmen's Lodge were Gerald Mayer and Monica Lewis.

Nancy Kelly's new heartbeat is handsome Frank Farrell, New York newspaper man. She and Bill Robson, radio producer, are colder than a deep freeze.

Artist Salvadore Dali and his wife have adopted a seven-year-old war orphan. Dali and Anna Magnani have an arrangement to make a series of motion pictures in Spain.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

THE PASSING show: The American Can Company, and all the other can companies, for all I know, has come up with one of the most ingenious improvisations since the British made hamburgers out of soybean curd and the Germans created coffee out of Hitler's socks, or some such ersatz.

American is now making tin cans without tin, and feels pretty good about it. As yet it is not using the tinless tin cans to hold food, but that's a prospect. I'd suggest the soybean hamburgers be given the privilege of being first to appear in the tinless tin can, or that the ersatz containers be reserved for a product I recently heard advertised on the air, "genuine mock turtle soup." Either product would make a perfect marriage with the can that is no longer a can.

American has even found a way of substituting plastic cement for the traditional tin-solder that binds the equally traditional tin can. It's all a part of a commendable research program to liberate the company from its traditional dependence on imported tin-plate, and increase war stocks of that vital metal.

Steel is the substitute metal, and, apparently, we'll always have enough of that. To date the only palatable commodity being sold in the new steel tubes is anti-freeze, which makes an acceptable martini if you stay up late enough at night and are fresh out of gin.

I take this opportunity and space to apologize to two native perennials, Sen. Taft and the nickel cigar.

Last month I took the word of a knowing friend who shall be nameless, but not blameless, and reported that Taft partially hand-picked the jury of reporters who grilled him January 7 on that most newsmaking of all programs on the air, "Meet The Press." I bumbled on and said that, for one, he had had top-knotted May Craig removed from his panel of inquisitors.

Tain't so, Co-Producer Larry Spivak tells me. Taft has been on the program 11 times and is bright enough and agile enough to handle any reporter. Spivak says the Senator demurred on another program, but not on any assembly of "Meet The Press." La Craig just happened to be benched that week in question.

As for the nickel cigar, my point went something like this: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar which can be bought for 15 cents." Lynn Farnol, faithful champion of the U. S. cigar industry, informs me that the old nickel cigar now sells for only a dime and is better made, better blended and more uniform than the cheroot for which Vice President Marshall once pined.

Okay, men?

TELLS ABOUT WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Katherine Merrihue, beautiful and talented advertising executive of New York City, says: "I always rely on Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets to relieve constipation. They are a purely vegetable product and are so mild, so gentle yet so very thorough in action." Note: For years Dr. F. M. Edwards, a noted Ohio doctor, recommended Olive Tablets for patients with constipation and its headaches, lack of pep and sallow skin. Olive Tablets clean clogging waste from the entire intestinal tract, giving more natural-like bowel movements—so smooth—no griping! 15¢, 30¢, and 60¢.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Who was the attractive blonde with Brod Crawford at the Sarnez? I hear her last name is Robinson.

Both Frances and Van Heflin deny in no uncertain terms that they have had any matrimonial trouble whatsoever. I believe them, too, knowing them and how much their two little redhaired girls mean to them both.

Andre Previn, in from Camp Cooke over the weekend, spent both evenings with the little French actress Leslie Caron. What happened to Andre's supposed engagement to Phyllis Kirk?

Betty Charteris, ex-wife of Author Leslie Charteris, and Alan Nixon in a quiet corner at Ciro's.

At a table for two as Sportsmen's Lodge were Gerald Mayer and Monica Lewis.

Nancy Kelly's new heartbeat is handsome Frank Farrell, New York newspaper man. She and Bill Robson, radio producer, are colder than a deep freeze.

Artist Salvadore Dali and his wife have adopted a seven-year-old war orphan. Dali and Anna Magnani have an arrangement to make a series of motion pictures in Spain.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

The rain-maker's contract with New York ends today and nobody can prove whether he did or he didn't.

The reservoirs are fuller than a goat in a silo, the parks are all swamps and there's an extra ring in my bath tub. Dr. Howell would like to keep the contract. He got one hundred smackers per day for making bunions hurt and taking the curl out of ostrich feathers.

NEW YORK (INS)

THE PASSING show: The American Can Company, and all the other can companies, for all I know, has come up with one of the most ingenious improvisations since the British made hamburgers out of soybean curd and the Germans created coffee out of Hitler's socks, or some such ersatz.

American is now making tin cans without tin, and feels pretty good about it. As yet it is not using the tinless tin cans to hold food, but that's a prospect. I'd suggest the soybean hamburgers be given the privilege of being first to appear in the tinless tin can, or that the ersatz containers be reserved for a product I recently heard advertised on the air, "genuine mock turtle soup." Either product would make a perfect marriage with the can that is no longer a can.

American has even found a way of substituting plastic cement for the traditional tin-solder that binds the equally traditional tin can. It's all a part of a commendable research program to liberate the company from its traditional dependence on imported tin-plate, and increase war stocks of that vital metal.

Steel is the substitute metal, and, apparently, we'll always have enough of that. To date the only palatable commodity being sold in the new steel tubes is anti-freeze, which makes an acceptable martini if you stay up late enough at night and are fresh out of gin.

I take this opportunity and space to apologize to two native perennials, Sen. Taft and the nickel cigar.

Last month I took the word of a knowing friend who shall be nameless, but not blameless, and reported that Taft partially hand-picked the jury of reporters who grilled him January 7 on that most news-making of all programs on the air, "Meet The Press." I bumbled on and said that, for one, he had had top-knotted May Craig removed from his panel of inquisitors.

Tain't so, Co-Producer Larry Spivak tells me. Taft has been on the program 11 times and is bright enough and agile enough to handle any reporter. Spivak says the Senator demurred on another program, but not on any assembly of "Meet The Press." La Craig just happened to be benched that week in question.

As for the nickel cigar, my point went something like this: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar which can be bought for 15 cents." Lynn Farnol, faithful champion of the U. S. cigar industry, informs me that the old nickel cigar now sells for only a dime and is better made, better blended and more uniform than the cheroot for which Vice President Marshall once pined.

Okay, men?

TELLS ABOUT WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Katherine Merrihue, beautiful and talented advertising executive of New York City, says: "I always rely on Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets to relieve constipation. They are a purely vegetable product and are so mild, so gentle yet so very thorough in action." Note: For years Dr. F. M. Edwards, a noted Ohio doctor, recommended Olive Tablets for patients with constipation and its headaches, lack of pep and sallow skin. Olive Tablets clean clogging waste from the entire intestinal tract, giving more natural-like bowel movements—so smooth—no griping! 15¢, 30¢, and 60¢.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Keyser To Study Fluoridation Of Water Supplies

Council Will Hold Night Meetings

KEYSER, W. Va.—A resolution submitted by local dentists providing for fluoridation of drinking water, was presented to the Mayor and Council Tuesday and a motion, was adopted in which the city promises cooperation.

The resolution was signed by Dr. Bruce O. Snider, Dr. Paul F. Giffin and J. W. Engle.

Council promised it will take up the matter after the new fiscal year begins, when provision may be made for meeting the expense.

According to the city report, the citizens of Keyser used 107,549,000 gallons of water last year. It was estimated the city would be able to provide fluoridation for Keyser water at about $229.40 a year.

The Council voted to hold one meeting at night and the other meeting in the afternoon to accommodate citizens who find it impossible to attend night meetings. The second meeting in each month will be held at 7 p. m., while the first meeting will be held at the customary 1 p. m. time.

Due to the recent rain and thaws streets have been dirty, with an accumulation on all streets, especially in the business area. Council discussed means of getting relief. The hose formerly used by the street department for flushing streets has deteriorated and the city is without funds to purchase new hose. The fire department reported it has only one good hose used to combat fires, and as street use is more wearing than fire operation, that was ruled out.

Councilmen believed they might be able to borrow several length of hose for cleaning the streets, and, if this is possible the street department will begin cleaning within the next day or two.

Mrs. R. L. Fisher, Sr., South Church Street, reported that truck operators are using her sidewalk, threatening to break the walk. Council promised to make a survey of the conditions and consider methods to stop trucks using the sidewalks.

Council went on record for starting a movement that will open Lincoln Street from South Mineral to the Frank Snider property and increase the width of the street in that area 10 feet. Improvements will be started as soon as possible to make the street usable.

City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., was asked to go before the Mineral County Court and urge that steps be taken to provide for the appointment of a dog catcher and arrange for enforcement of a dog ordinance.

Complaints have been made that there are too many stray dogs running the streets.

Judge Reverses Settlement Of Old Will

See Takes Action In Mineral County

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See, in chancery action in Mineral County Circuit Court, handed down a ruling Monday, reversing the decision of Hal Reynolds, commissioner in the action involving settlement of the will of Jacob E. Miller, deceased. The case was brought in the local court by Audrey Rogers McDonald, et. al. against Charles Rinker, executor, et. al.

The action centered around the children of Mrs. Leona Rogers, who died before the will was made, and the interpretation of the commissioner in settlement. The court ruled on a portion of the conflicting matter several weeks ago. The ruling handed down this week is an opinion, covering in more detail the court's interpretation.

In this final ruling the court said, "The 'living children' applies to the time of death of the testator unless an intention to the contrary appears in the will. x x x No such intention appears in the will. It was probably the intention of the testator to have the will speak as of the time of his death. x x x There is no intention expressed or implied to disinherit any of his children.

"The court is further of the opinion the interpretation of this will by the commissioner of accounts, in 1933, together with the County Court in approving same, is null, void and of no legal effect."

The judge goes on to speak in reference to the children of Leona Rogers having acquiesced in 1933 or 1934, to an adjustment which excluded them from inclusion in settlement of a part of their grandfather's estate, and finds that they are not entitled to distributions made in those years, and added he finds no intention on the part of these children to question that part of the settlement. Their only notice as to action taken concerns actions in December, 1931, January, 1932 and February, 1932.

The court finds, in the final statement of the ruling "there was no act, word or order on the part of the plaintiff that would stop them from asserting their right to claim their share of the testator's estate, except as stated."

Engagement Is Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Crowe, South Water Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith E. Crowe, to Victor D. Rosso, son of Nicholas and the late Mrs. Rosso, Princeton, N. J.

Miss Crowe is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College where she was a member of the Phi Omicron Delta Sorority, and received her Masters Degree from the University of Maryland. At present she is a teacher at the Woodlin Elementary School in Silver Spring.

Mr. Rosso attended Parks College of St. Louis and is now a senior in the College of Business Administration at the University of Maryland. He served in the Air Force during World War II and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

Street Repair Needs Stressed

WESTERNPORT — Two complaints were received at the meeting of Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night Feb. 19, relative to streets needing repairs.

Fred Imhoff, Greene Street, and Mrs. Glenn Clark, McKinley Street, also in OakView, complained. Mrs. Clark said if the town will furnish the shale her husband will haul it in his truck.

Mayor Kight informed the complainants that the town would do something about it and that it has been an unusual bad winter and many streets need some repairs.

The rate for garbage collections effective April 1, will be increased. For homes the price was raised from 75 cents to $1 for three months, business firms from $1.50 to $2, and super markets from $6 to $9.

Some of the traffic problems were discussed and it was decided that a survey of the town be made before any action will be taken.

Pythian Sister To Make Visit

MIDLAND—Mrs. Viola McGann, district deputy grand chief, will make her official visitation at a meeting of Myrtle Temple No. 2, Pythian Sisters, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Red Men's Hall on Main Street.

Keyser To Study Fluoridation Of Water Supplies

Council Will Hold Night Meetings

KEYSER, W. Va.—A resolution submitted by local dentists providing for fluoridation of drinking water, was presented to the Mayor and Council Tuesday and a motion, was adopted in which the city promises cooperation.

The resolution was signed by Dr. Bruce O. Snider, Dr. Paul F. Giffin and J. W. Engle.

Council promised it will take up the matter after the new fiscal year begins, when provision may be made for meeting the expense.

According to the city report, the citizens of Keyser used 107,549,000 gallons of water last year. It was estimated the city would be able to provide fluoridation for Keyser water at about $229.40 a year.

The Council voted to hold one meeting at night and the other meeting in the afternoon to accommodate citizens who find it impossible to attend night meetings. The second meeting in each month will be held at 7 p. m., while the first meeting will be held at the customary 1 p. m. time.

Due to the recent rain and thaws streets have been dirty, with an accumulation on all streets, especially in the business area. Council discussed means of getting relief. The hose formerly used by the street department for flushing streets has deteriorated and the city is without funds to purchase new hose. The fire department reported it has only one good hose used to combat fires, and as street use is more wearing than fire operation, that was ruled out.

Councilmen believed they might be able to borrow several length of hose for cleaning the streets, and, if this is possible the street department will begin cleaning within the next day or two.

Mrs. R. L. Fisher, Sr., South Church Street, reported that truck operators are using her sidewalk, threatening to break the walk. Council promised to make a survey of the conditions and consider methods to stop trucks using the sidewalks.

Council went on record for starting a movement that will open Lincoln Street from South Mineral to the Frank Snider property and increase the width of the street in that area 10 feet. Improvements will be started as soon as possible to make the street usable.

City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., was asked to go before the Mineral County Court and urge that steps be taken to provide for the appointment of a dog catcher and arrange for enforcement of a dog ordinance.

Complaints have been made that there are too many stray dogs running the streets.

Judge Reverses Settlement Of Old Will

See Takes Action In Mineral County

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See, in chancery action in Mineral County Circuit Court, handed down a ruling Monday, reversing the decision of Hal Reynolds, commissioner in the action involving settlement of the will of Jacob E. Miller, deceased. The case was brought in the local court by Audrey Rogers McDonald, et. al. against Charles Rinker, executor, et. al.

The action centered around the children of Mrs. Leona Rogers, who died before the will was made, and the interpretation of the commissioner in settlement. The court ruled on a portion of the conflicting matter several weeks ago. The ruling handed down this week is an opinion, covering in more detail the court's interpretation.

In this final ruling the court said, "The 'living children' applies to the time of death of the testator unless an intention to the contrary appears in the will. x x x No such intention appears in the will. It was probably the intention of the testator to have the will speak as of the time of his death. x x x There is no intention expressed or implied to disinherit any of his children.

"The court is further of the opinion the interpretation of this will by the commissioner of accounts, in 1933, together with the County Court in approving same, is null, void and of no legal effect."

The judge goes on to speak in reference to the children of Leona Rogers having acquiesced in 1933 or 1934, to an adjustment which excluded them from inclusion in settlement of a part of their grandfather's estate, and finds that they are not entitled to distributions made in those years, and added he finds no intention on the part of these children to question that part of the settlement. Their only notice as to action taken concerns actions in December, 1931, January, 1932 and February, 1932.

The court finds, in the final statement of the ruling "there was no act, word or order on the part of the plaintiff that would stop them from asserting their right to claim their share of the testator's estate, except as stated."

Engagement Is Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Crowe, South Water Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith E. Crowe, to Victor D. Rosso, son of Nicholas and the late Mrs. Rosso, Princeton, N. J.

Miss Crowe is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College where she was a member of the Phi Omicron Delta Sorority, and received her Masters Degree from the University of Maryland. At present she is a teacher at the Woodlin Elementary School in Silver Spring.

Mr. Rosso attended Parks College of St. Louis and is now a senior in the College of Business Administration at the University of Maryland. He served in the Air Force during World War II and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

Street Repair Needs Stressed

WESTERNPORT — Two complaints were received at the meeting of Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night Feb. 19, relative to streets needing repairs.

Fred Imhoff, Greene Street, and Mrs. Glenn Clark, McKinley Street, also in OakView, complained. Mrs. Clark said if the town will furnish the shale her husband will haul it in his truck.

Mayor Kight informed the complainants that the town would do something about it and that it has been an unusual bad winter and many streets need some repairs.

The rate for garbage collections effective April 1, will be increased. For homes the price was raised from 75 cents to $1 for three months, business firms from $1.50 to $2, and super markets from $6 to $9.

Some of the traffic problems were discussed and it was decided that a survey of the town be made before any action will be taken.

Pythian Sister To Make Visit

MIDLAND—Mrs. Viola McGann, district deputy grand chief, will make her official visitation at a meeting of Myrtle Temple No. 2, Pythian Sisters, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Red Men's Hall on Main Street.

Guests from Morning Star, Lonaconing; Calanthe, Frostburg; Manhattan, Cumberland, and Garrett, Oakland, are expected to attend.

Among the visitors also will be grand temple officers of the State, past supreme representatives, past grand chiefs, grand trustees and grand press correspondents. A program will be followed by refreshments.

Bedford Farmers Supply Milk

Dairy farmers in the Bedford (Pa.) area received $1,441,644 in 1950 for milk shipped to Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company, Philadelphia.

Total payments to 320 farmers for 1950 were disclosed by the company as it announced that 65 farmers from this area would be honored at a meeting of Supplee producers to be held at 7:45 p. m. on Wednesday, February 28, at Bedford High School Auditorium.

The dairymen to be honored at Supplee's third annual achievement award meetings have been cited for doing "the topflight job of consistently producing high quality milk on a level month-to-month basis in this area", said John R. Edwards, Supplee assistant vice-president in charge of milk procurement.

Rec Board Plans Training Course

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Keyser Recreation Board met recently and decided to again sponsor a three-day leadership training institute in Keyser in April.

The institute will be for playlot leaders and supervisors under the direction of John G. Scherlacher, state recreation consultant, West Virginia University. The institute will be held in the Keyser Fire Hall.

The formation of a Little Baseball League was discussed with no decision reached. Albert Thomas represented the group interested in forming the league.

The board will hold a special meeting, open to the public, at the Court House February 27 at 7 p. m. for all those interested in a playlot on Armstrong Street Extended. A lot has been loaned to the city by W. B. Woolf.

Tri-Towns Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Chevy Chase, visited Mayor and Mrs. Harold Fredlock, Jones Street Piedmont.

The Tri-Towns District Scouters will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Odd Fellow's Hall, Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, district chairman, states.

The No. 1 side of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will hold a covered dish supper for members and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Johnson, 14 West Hampshire Street, Thursday 6 p. m. Feb 22.

The Alumni Association of St. Peter's High School will hold a public card party Wednesday February twenty-eighth, at 8:30 p. m. at Jake's Place, Bridge, 500, setback and canasta will be played.

Calanthe Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, will hold a card party at the temple, Thursday at 8 p. m. Five hundred and set back will be played.

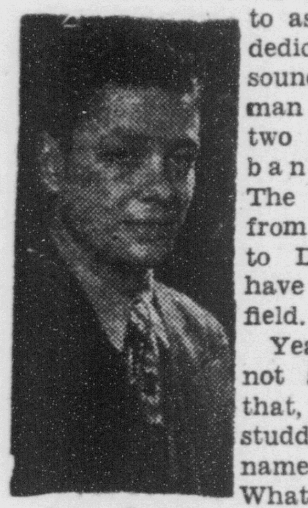
The Decline Of The Name Band



John Crosby

THIS is a highly vocal age and I don't pretend to understand why. If you prowl through "Variety's" list of top selling records, you'll find that 21 or 23 of what "Variety" generally refers to as platters are dedicated to the sound of the human voice. Only two are strictly band numbers. The vocalists, from Patti Page to Dinah Shore, have swept the field.

Years ago, and not so many at that, the list was studded with the names of bands. What has happened to the dance band, anyhow? Doesn't anyone dance any more? Many of the bands have been disbanded or are pulled together only occasionally—a loose collection of instrumentalists rather than a band—to make records. Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, Tommy Dorsey, Bob Crosby, to name only a few, could all attract a sizable crowd who came to listen, conceivably to dance, to the band. The singing was incidental. Where are they now? Benny Goodman has a quintet in Las Vegas. Bob Crosby long ago gave up the band and concentrated on singing where the money lies.

The big dance craze now is for Latin music—the samba, the momba and the rest of them. With all respect to our neighbors of the south, these are old men's dances. A fellow spends 20 years amassing a tall bundle of pelf during which he is too busy to dance. Suddenly, he feels life is slipping by and, in a burst of belated youth, he goes to Arthur Murray's where he learns to wiggle his hips in a stately fashion, a method of exercise suited to his aging bones.

The dances of the '20s and the '30s, the Charleston, Black Bottom, the jitterbug, the Big Apple, were anything but old men's dances. They were terribly strenuous and designed especially for the ebullient young, a method of expression of their own delight in their youth, their health, their gay spirits.

With the arrival of Mr. Frank Sinatra and his host of successors of both sexes, the dance band ceased to have much importance except as an accompanist. The kids stopped dancing, which is a form of participation, and fell to simple listening, a rather alarming form of passivity for our young. When I was a boy, the records were identified by the name of the band—Paul Whiteman, let us say—and by a single word, vocal, reminded you that there would be some singing on it. Today, it is the band that is anonymous, the Dinah Shores and Billy Eckstines get the billing.

In the '30s, Benny Goodman's band played on the Camel Caravan, depended almost entirely on band music and was very successful. The Camel Caravan has long since disappeared. The Hit Parade, originally a band program, has had to be hypoed by name singers to preserve its popularity. The only bands on television these days—apart from the Fred Waring type of thing which is essentially a big production number—are Cavalcade of Bands, which has run so short of bands that it has to repeat some of them like Xavier Cugat four or five times. Skitch Henderson "and his band" have appeared a couple of times, too. Actually, Skitch hasn't had a band in years. He simply recruits musicians for each performance.

In the fall of 1949, Victor records tried to arouse a little interest in bands again and issued a series of band albums which featured the music usually of one composer—Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers. These earned some $600,000, which is considered only so-so. This year they went back to the vocalists—Perry Como, for example, singing a selection of Billy Rose's old songs—and they expect to earn at least one-third more with them.

There are still some good bands in existence—Jimmy Dorsey, Woody Herman, Harry James—but not a single one has made a record which can compete, for heaven's sake, with Mel Blanc singing "I Taw a Puddy Tat," which is tenth on "Variety's" list.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The big dance craze now is for Latin music—the samba, the momba and the rest of them. With all respect to our neighbors of the south, these are old men's dances. A fellow spends 20 years amassing a tall bundle of pelf during which he is too busy to dance. Suddenly, he feels life is slipping by and, in a burst of belated youth, he goes to Arthur Murray's where he learns to wiggle his hips in a stately fashion, a method of exercise suited to his aging bones.

The dances of the '20s and the '30s, the Charleston, Black Bottom, the jitterbug, the Big Apple, were anything but old men's dances. They were terribly strenuous and designed especially for the ebullient young, a method of expression of their own delight in their youth, their health, their gay spirits.

With the arrival of Mr. Frank Sinatra and his host of successors of both sexes, the dance band ceased to have much importance except as an accompanist. The kids stopped dancing, which is a form of participation, and fell to simple listening, a rather alarming form of passivity for our young. When I was a boy, the records were identified by the name of the band—Paul Whiteman, let us say—and by a single word, vocal, reminded you that there would be some singing on it. Today, it is the band that is anonymous, the Dinah Shores and Billy Eckstines get the billing.

In the '30s, Benny Goodman's band played on the Camel Caravan, depended almost entirely on band music and was very successful. The Camel Caravan has long since disappeared. The Hit Parade, originally a band program, has had to be hypoed by name singers to preserve its popularity. The only bands on television these days—apart from the Fred Waring type of thing which is essentially a big production number—are Cavalcade of Bands, which has run so short of bands that it has to repeat some of them like Xavier Cugat four or five times. Skitch Henderson "and his band" have appeared a couple of times, too. Actually, Skitch hasn't had a band in years. He simply recruits musicians for each performance.

In the fall of 1949, Victor records tried to arouse a little interest in bands again and issued a series of band albums which featured the music usually of one composer—Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers. These earned some $600,000, which is considered only so-so. This year they went back to the vocalists—Perry Como, for example, singing a selection of Billy Rose's old songs—and they expect to earn at least one-third more with them.

There are still some good bands in existence—Jimmy Dorsey, Woody Herman, Harry James—but not a single one has made a record which can compete, for heaven's sake, with Mel Blanc singing "I Taw a Puddy Tat," which is tenth on "Variety's" list.

The mystic maze of the Amazon River, from its mouths on the Atlantic at the Equator up to the farthest source of its myriad tributary systems, leads 3,900 wild and winding miles westward across Brazil and southward through Peru. It ends in the glacial headwaters of the Apurimac, high in the Peruvian Andes 120 miles west of Lake Titicaca.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q W S B E Q W I X B V F R W P, H J W K J S R Z G K P S X C J E X B R W M C Q H E P S X—E H Q F C.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NAY, THEN, LET THE DEVIL WEAR BLACK, FOR I'LL HAVE A SUIT OF SABLES—SHAKESPEARE.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our wife and mother, C. Elizabeth Rizer, who died Feb. 21, 1946.

Your gentle face and gentle smile,
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
Sadly missed by her husband,
Charles G. Rizer and Daughters

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha M. Norris, who died thirteen years ago, February 21, 1938.

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more.
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Her loving children

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our wife and mother, C. Elizabeth Rizer, who died Feb. 21, 1946.

Your gentle face and gentle smile,
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
Sadly missed by her husband,
Charles G. Rizer and Daughters

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha M. Norris, who died thirteen years ago, February 21, 1938.

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Her loving children

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you be "truly in love" at fifteen?

Answer: You can feel as strongly at fifteen as at twice that age that one other person is the only thing in life that matters. But if "true love" mean love based upon a realistic mental picture of what being married to the loved one would mean, the emotions of fifteen will seldom answer this description. Love at fifteen generally represents a sort of magical solution of life's problems, either at home or outside, which the child feels he or she cannot solve by more natural methods. The truth is, however, that you must adjust yourself to life as a whole before you are capable of loving truly.

Is "demand feeding" hard on mothers?

Answer: It is pretty difficult for some of them, reports Dr. Hanna Colm in the Quarterly Journal of Child Behavior. Whatever we may feel are the ideal conditions for a baby, we must not forget that his mother has feelings also and that if we ask her to do more than she is capable of doing, the resulting tension and resentment will affect the baby in turn. The physician must take the mother's fear of being overworked or "tied down" into account and help her work out a feeding schedule that will involve the least possible strain on her.

Is patience a virtue?

Answer: It is a most valuable trait but it is not a virtue in the sense of being best achieved through effort and will-power. The psychiatrist has what may seem to an outsider to be "infinite patience" because he knows so well that emotional re-education cannot be hurried and that trying to put pressure on a patient only undoes any progress that he has made. Similarly, it is lack of understanding of their children and forgetfulness of their own childhood that makes parents expect youngsters to remember everything they are told the first time that they hear it.

Highway Accident Truckers Pay Fines

Two truckers involved in an accident January 28 at the intersection of Routes 45 and 50, about one mile east of Augusta, W. Va., recently were convicted in Romney on state motor charges.

Authorities said John D. Parsons, Winchester, Va., paid $50 and costs for reckless driving and had his license revoked until he acquires satisfactory liability insurance. Damage resulting from the mishap was estimated at more than $20,000.

Langford F. Leach, also of Winchester, was fined $25 and costs for hazardous driving. Both are employed by the Allegany Freight Lines.

Mayor Fredlock Talks About Radio

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Mayor Harold Fredlock reported to City Council Monday afternoon concerning discussions he previously had with mayors of Keyser, Westernport and Luke concerning the operation of the Keyser police radio station.

A device to keep the station on its beam, costing $290, is needed. The station has been getting off its beam and if the condition is not corrected the Federal Communications Commission will not permit continuance of the station, which connects police departments of Piedmont, Keyser, Westernport and Luke.

These Days

reading the letter because my mind wanders to the secret purpose of doing an "M" the hard way when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstrike. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky of the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is what is expected in penmanship. And the teacher rapped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

She estimates that there are a million stutterers in the U. S. today, all of them losing ground in school, business and social life because of the public's cruel hostility to the failing. Every one is different, she believes, and can be cured if properly and individually trained.

The year's most distinguished awards, those of Freedoms Foundation, will be announced this week on the birthdate of George Washington. Not enough has been written about this fine non-profit, nonsectarian and non-political organization.

Under its charter, Freedoms Foundation exists "to create and build an understanding of the spirit and philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights and of our 'bundle' of indivisible political and economic freedoms inherent in them . . . To inspire love of freedom and to support the spiritual unity born of the belief that man is a dignified human being, created in the image of his maker, and by that fact possessor of certain inalienable rights."

The awards total $100,000 in cash, 300 honor medals and 200 certificates of merit, and will be given for every American creative effort ranging from advertising campaigns to union publications.

Rally In Final Hour Brings Market Out Of Sharp Slump

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP) — A terrific recovery drive in the final hour of trading today brought the stock market out of a sharp slump.

After trading ended, the stock exchange reported an increase in the short interest as of Feb. 15 at 2,575,909 shares as compared with 2,499,970 shares Jan. 15. It was the largest short interest since May 19, 1932.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended unchanged at $95.00 with the industrial component off 30 cents, rails unchanged, and utilities up 10 cents.

The volume of trading came to 2,010,000 shares, an increase from Monday's total of 1,910,000 shares, but not too high as compared with recent markets.

The number of issues traded—1,184—was about average. There were 355 advancing and 582 declining only 16 new highs for 1950-51 were established, and one new low was reached. It was Standard Oil of California when issued.

Despite the wide difference between gainers and losers in the entire list, the 16 most active issues were well balanced with seven up, six down, and three unchanged.

The most active issue was Packard Motors up ¼ at 5⅞. The next four were New York Central up ¼ at 23, General Public Service up ¼ at 3½, Canadian Pacific up ⅝ at 27, and Baltimore & Ohio off ¼ at 21⅝.

The performance on the upside by Goodyear was outstanding, up three at 73⅛. Goodyear reported the highest sales on record and near record earnings for 1950.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

REFUSE TO ASSIST HIM

FOR SOME abstruse reason, there are bridge devotees who play their cards with the keenest acumen, but who seem never to get the hang of bidding with shrewdness. By the same token, some are splendid at using their canniness during the auction and then seem to be entirely different persons when the playing stage arrives. Just take one phase—refusal to help the opponents with information useful to them which would be of slight or no value to their own side. Some of these fellows are great at keeping their weapons concealed during one department of the game, but advertise them, thus aiding the enemy, in the other phase.

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

South 3-Spades, after North's jump fixed hearts as the declaration, was a cue-bid showing first-round control and asking North to show any of the same, which he did. South preferred that to Blackwooding, since one ace for North would not justify a slam if it was in clubs and left the diamonds unguarded, hereas the diamond A was what he sought.

Note, however, the way East kept his mouth shut, though not vulnerable. Many in his position, seeing a vulnerable game, perhaps slam, on the way, would have doubled or something to prepare their partners for a possible sacrifice. But he felt the chance of his opponents getting too high and then not playing him for all that strength was fine. He was right, but then he wasted all that caginess during the play.

South won the diamond Q lead with dummy's A and led the heart Q. East covered with the K and made it a cinch for South to play the A and then clear trumps with the J. Came next the spade A and K, a spade ruff, the heart 2 to the 8, a second spade ruff, heart 5 to the 7, the established spade 8 to discard the diamond 8, then the club 10. East came in with the A, assuring the contract. If East had played low, South said he would have guessed wrong, playing the J. The Q and A then would have set him. If East had not covered the heart Q. South said he would have played the A. So the same kind of tactical error was committed twice by that unfortunate defender.

Why is the spade K a much better lead than the fourth-best 6 by West against South's 3-No Trumps?

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you be "truly in love" at fifteen?

Answer: You can feel as strongly at fifteen as at twice that age that one other person is the only thing in life that matters. But if "true love" mean love based upon a realistic mental picture of what being married to the loved one would mean, the emotions of fifteen will seldom answer this description. Love at fifteen generally represents a sort of magical solution of life's problems, either at home or outside, which the child feels he or she cannot solve by more natural methods. The truth is, however, that you must adjust yourself to life as a whole before you are capable of loving truly.

Is "demand feeding" hard on mothers?

Answer: It is pretty difficult for some of them, reports Dr. Hanna Colm in the Quarterly Journal of Child Behavior. Whatever we may feel are the ideal conditions for a baby, we must not forget that his mother has feelings also and that if we ask her to do more than she is capable of doing, the resulting tension and resentment will affect the baby in turn. The physician must take the mother's fear of being overworked or "tied down" into account and help her work out a feeding schedule that will involve the least possible strain on her.

Is patience a virtue?

Answer: It is a most valuable trait but it is not a virtue in the sense of being best achieved through effort and will-power. The psychiatrist has what may seem to an outsider to be "infinite patience" because he knows so well that emotional re-education cannot be hurried and that trying to put pressure on a patient only undoes any progress that he has made. Similarly, it is lack of understanding of their children and forgetfulness of their own childhood that makes parents expect youngsters to remember everything they are told the first time that they hear it.

Highway Accident Truckers Pay Fines

Two truckers involved in an accident January 28 at the intersection of Routes 45 and 50, about one mile east of Augusta, W. Va., recently were convicted in Romney on state motor charges.

Authorities said John D. Parsons, Winchester, Va., paid $50 and costs for reckless driving and had his license revoked until he acquires satisfactory liability insurance. Damage resulting from the mishap was estimated at more than $20,000.

Langford F. Leach, also of Winchester, was fined $25 and costs for hazardous driving. Both are employed by the Allegany Freight Lines.

Mayor Fredlock Talks About Radio

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Mayor Harold Fredlock reported to City Council Monday afternoon concerning discussions he previously had with mayors of Keyser, Westernport and Luke concerning the operation of the Keyser police radio station.

A device to keep the station on its beam, costing $290, is needed. The station has been getting off its beam and if the condition is not corrected the Federal Communications Commission will not permit continuance of the station, which connects police departments of Piedmont, Keyser, Westernport and Luke.

Automobile Purchase Authorized By Board

Members of the Allegany Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized an advertisement for a new medium price four-door sedan in the medium weight range.

The car will be used by the Allegany County Roads Department. The bid must include the offered price for a 1950 sedan to be traded in on the new car.

Bids on the new car will be opened by the board at its meeting Tuesday, March 13, at 10:30 a. m.

reading the letter because my mind wanders to the secret purpose of doing an "M" the hard way when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstrike. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky of the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is what is expected in penmanship. And the teacher rapped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

She estimates that there are a million stutterers in the U. S. today, all of them losing ground in school, business and social life because of the public's cruel hostility to the failing. Every one is different, she believes, and can be cured if properly and individually trained.

The year's most distinguished awards, those of Freedoms Foundation, will be announced this week on the birthdate of George Washington. Not enough has been written about this fine non-profit, nonsectarian and non-political organization.

Under its charter, Freedoms Foundation exists "to create and build an understanding of the spirit and philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights and of our 'bundle' of indivisible political and economic freedoms inherent in them . . . To inspire love of freedom and to support the spiritual unity born of the belief that man is a dignified human being, created in the image of his maker, and by that fact possessor of certain inalienable rights."

The awards total $100,000 in cash, 300 honor medals and 200 certificates of merit, and will be given for every American creative effort ranging from advertising campaigns to union publications.

Rally In Final Hour Brings Market Out Of Sharp Slump

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP) — A terrific recovery drive in the final hour of trading today brought the stock market out of a sharp slump.

After trading ended, the stock exchange reported an increase in the short interest as of Feb. 15 at 2,575,909 shares as compared with 2,499,970 shares Jan. 15. It was the largest short interest since May 19, 1932.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended unchanged at $95.00 with the industrial component off 30 cents, rails unchanged, and utilities up 10 cents.

The volume of trading came to 2,010,000 shares, an increase from Monday's total of 1,910,000 shares, but not too high as compared with recent markets.

The number of issues traded—1,184—was about average. There were 355 advancing and 582 declining only 16 new highs for 1950-51 were established, and one new low was reached. It was Standard Oil of California when issued.

Despite the wide difference between gainers and losers in the entire list, the 16 most active issues were well balanced with seven up, six down, and three unchanged.

The most active issue was Packard Motors up ¼ at 5⅞. The next four were New York Central up ¼ at 23, General Public Service up ¼ at 3½, Canadian Pacific up ⅝ at 27, and Baltimore & Ohio off ¼ at 21⅝.

The performance on the upside by Goodyear was outstanding, up three at 73⅛. Goodyear reported the highest sales on record and near record earnings for 1950.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

REFUSE TO ASSIST HIM

FOR SOME abstruse reason, there are bridge devotees who play their cards with the keenest acumen, but who seem never to get the hang of bidding with shrewdness. By the same token, some are splendid at using their canniness during the auction and then seem to be entirely different persons when the playing stage arrives. Just take one phase—refusal to help the opponents with information useful to them which would be of slight or no value to their own side. Some of these fellows are great at keeping their weapons concealed during one department of the game, but advertise them, thus aiding the enemy, in the other phase.

South 3-Spades, after North's jump fixed hearts as the declaration, was a cue-bid showing first-round control and asking North to show any of the same, which he did. South preferred that to Blackwooding, since one ace for North would not justify a slam if it was in clubs and left the diamonds unguarded, hereas the diamond A was what he sought.

Note, however, the way East kept his mouth shut, though not vulnerable. Many in his position, seeing a vulnerable game, perhaps slam, on the way, would have doubled or something to prepare their partners for a possible sacrifice. But he felt the chance of his opponents getting too high and then not playing him for all that strength was fine. He was right, but then he wasted all that caginess during the play.

South won the diamond Q lead with dummy's A and led the heart Q. East covered with the K and made it a cinch for South to play the A and then clear trumps with the J. Came next the spade A and K, a spade ruff, the heart 2 to the 8, a second spade ruff, heart 5 to the 7, the established spade 8 to discard the diamond 8, then the club 10. East came in with the A, assuring the contract. If East had played low, South said he would have guessed wrong, playing the J. The Q and A then would have set him. If East had not covered the heart Q, South said he would have played the A. So the same kind of tactical error was committed twice by that unfortunate defender.

Violence Near Non-Union Mines Reported Ended

Railroad Property Damaged By Vandals

Law enforcement authorities in Garrett County and in Preston County, W. Va., are keeping on the alert for roving bands of pickets who have been causing a virtual "reign of terror" in the vicinity of some non-union coal mines the past four weeks but the authorities reported last night that there has been no violence in the area since last Thursday.

Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Edward J. Frantz said deputies from the sheriff's office and State Police had toured the western section of Garrett county five different mornings in the past two weeks looking for the roving pickets.

He stressed that the only incident in Garrett County occurred last Thursday morning when between 20 and 30 cars loaded with men drove past a non-union mine at Crellin but did not stop. There was no difficulty, he added.

Frantz also reported that virtually all of the Garrett County mines are non-union and nearly all of them are continuing to operate.

Property Is Damaged

Property belonging to two railroads was damaged last week in the Preston County area in and around Kingwood, according to Capt. Harry D. Schmidt of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad police here.

Capt. Schmidt said the only damage to B&O property occurred last Thursday morning when the pockets under two drop-bottom coal hoppers were opened at Manown, two miles west of Kingwood, dumping the coal of the ground. These hoppers were on a siding near a non-union mine, he stated. Only a couple of tons of coal were lost.

More serious damage was done to property of the West Virginia Northern Railroad at Kingwood, Capt. Schmidt said. Two cars were run off a tipple at a non-union mine and a Diesel motor belonging to that railroad was damaged by sand. All of this vandalism occurred last week.

25 Arrests Made

It is understood that the normal complement of three West Virginia State Police at Kingwood was increased last Thursday to six men. This may be one of the reasons why acts of terrorism have stopped since then.

FBI Agents also reportedly were called into the case after the railroad cars were derailed.

Some 25 persons in Preston County have been arrested on various charges since the pickets began to roam. This is reported to be only a small percentage of the pickets involved.

The number has been estimated at about 300 men, still far from a majority of the estimated 2,000 men who work in non-union mines in the two counties.

Local VFW Favors Bonus

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars is on record favoring legislation with a referendum on a state bonus for World War I and World War II veterans, according to Commander Raymond Whitehair.

At last night's post meeting it was pointed out that all posts in District No. 3, which includes Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties are in favor of the bonus legislation.

Whitehair recalled that several days ago, a press release from Maryland Department VFW headquarters indicated a majority of the posts in Maryland had gone on record opposing immediate action on the bonus. He explained that this story was based on only a partial report of posts in the state and did not include this district. In fact, he outlined, it included only about 40 per cent of Maryland VFW posts.

The local post also ordered telegrams sent to the Secretary of Defense urging the selection of Cumberland as the site for a new Army Quartermaster Depot.

Charles Bujac was named civil defense officer for the post, Whitehair announced.

News In Brief

An examination for all classes of radio operator licenses will be given at Room 331, Cumberland Post Office Building, Tuesday, April 10, at 9 a.m.

John Manges, 5 Grand Avenue, notified police Monday that his 1936 Plymouth sedan was stolen. The dark blue vehicle bears Maryland license 559-664.

Two AWOL soldiers identified as David W. Meyers, of Cresaptown, and Robert H. Bean, 219 Chase Street, are being held in the city lockup for military authorities.

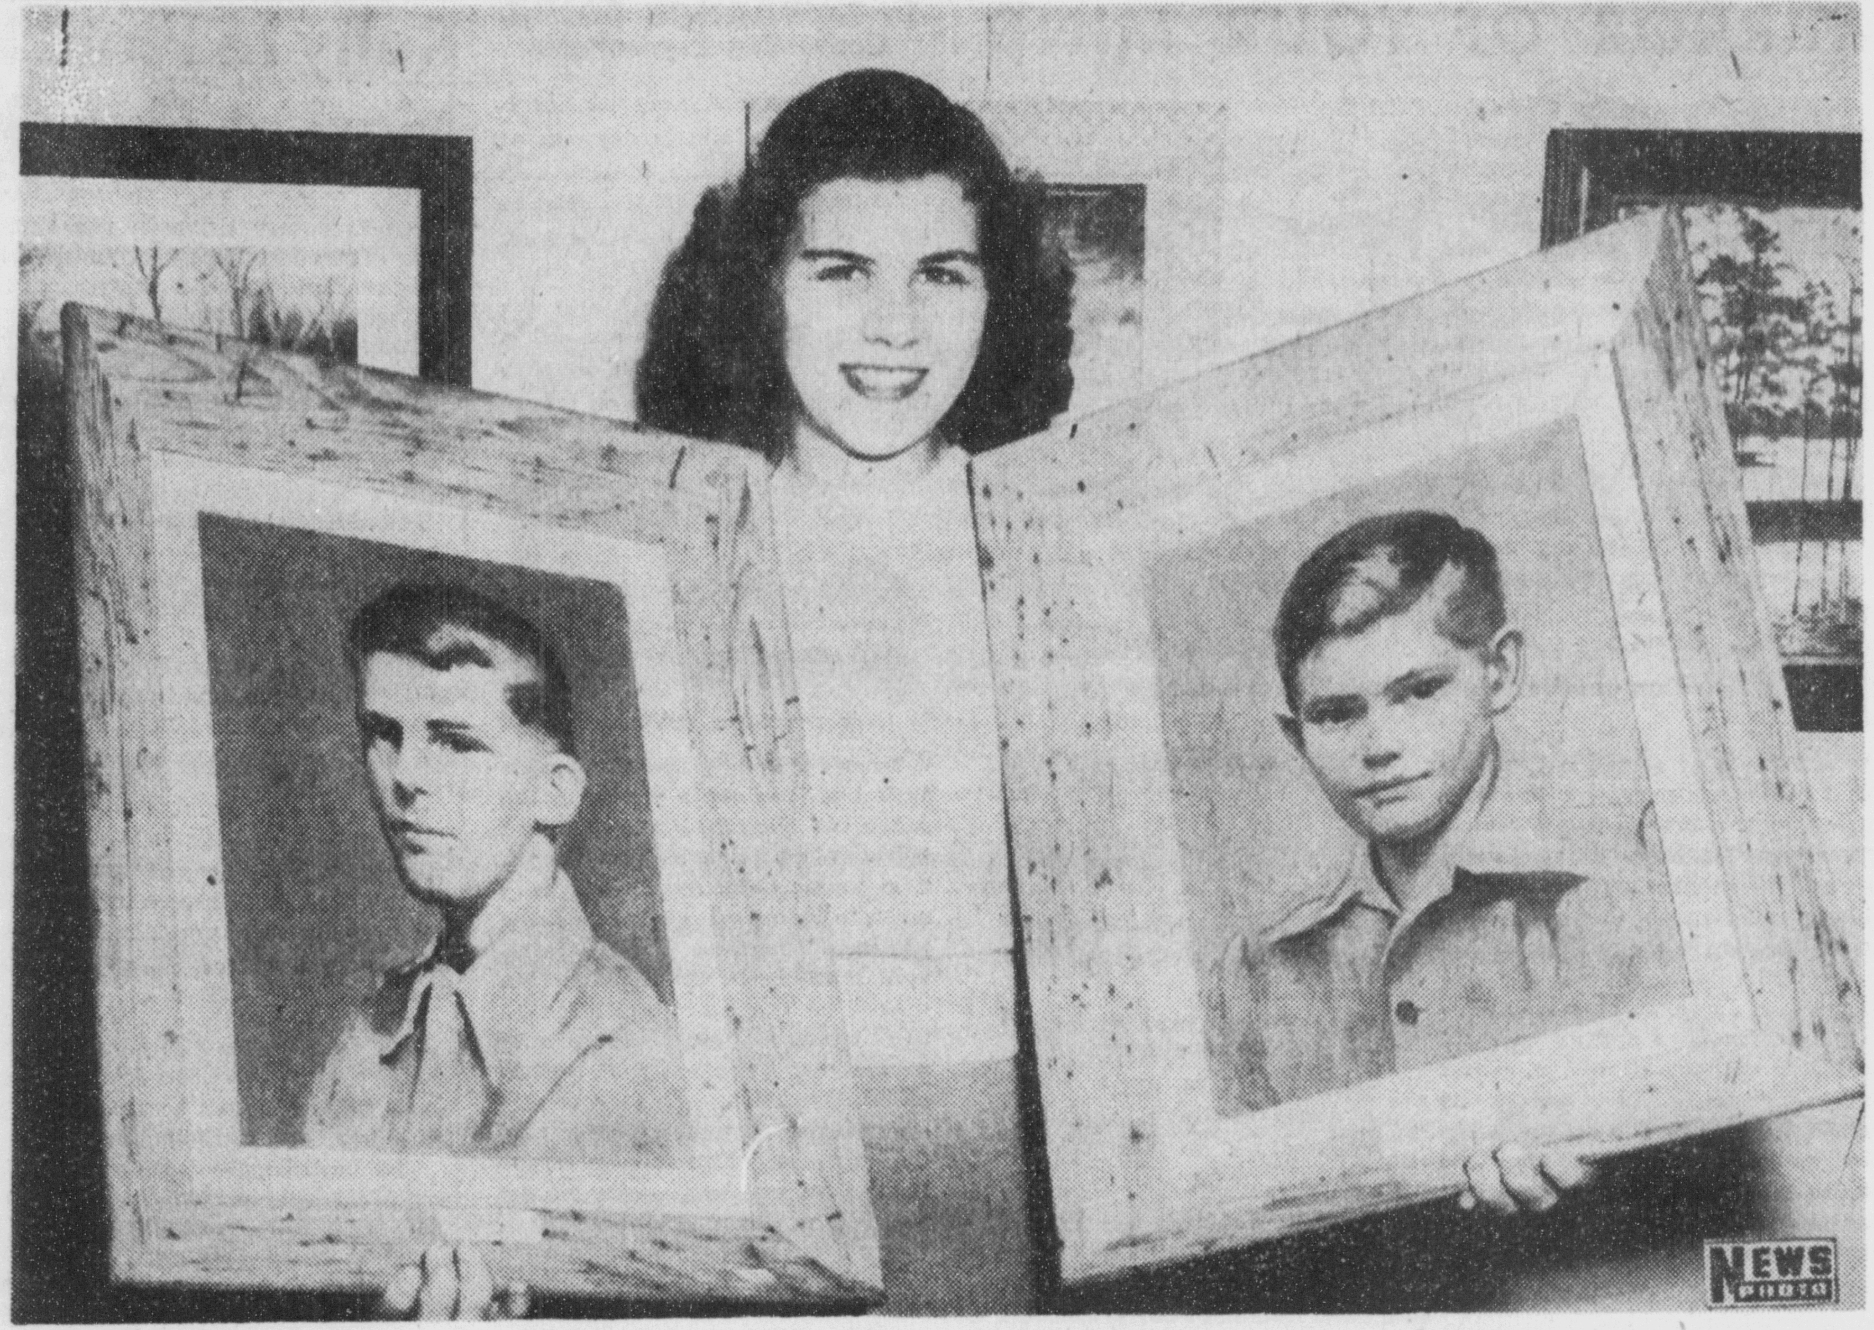
State Troopers William F. Baker and John F. Browning nabbed the pair early yesterday.

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, president.

Rabbi H. J. Wilner, of B'er Chayim Congregation, will speak at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va. Today in connection with the observance of Brotherhood Week under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

Court House To Close

Because tomorrow is the 219th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the Allegany County Court House will be closed all day.



Touch Of The Old Masters

The two portraits held by Miss Jeaneen Ruth Hartley, an assistant at the Cumberland Free Public Library, are featured in the current Tri-State Art Exhibit at the library. These portraits were done by Miss Ann D. Schuler, an instructor at the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. The subjects are her two nephews, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The painting at the left is a portrait of 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and at the right is the portrait of 13-year-old Schuler Briggs. The oil paintings were done by Miss Schuler through use of what she calls the "Maroger Medium." This medium attempts to reproduce the process which was introduced by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, founders of the Flemish school.

Paintings Exhibited Here Rediscover Van Eyck Process

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Two Christmas presents are giving visitors to the annual Tri-State Art Exhibit at the Cumberland Free Public Library an idea of the paintings of the old Flemish masters.

The presents are the oil painting portraits of two teen-age sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The boys are 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and 13-year old Schuler Briggs. They were done by their aunt, Miss Ann Didusch Schuler, an instructor at Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. She is Mrs. Briggs' sister. Dr. Briggs is European history professor at Frostburg Teachers College.

Miss Schuler gave the portraits to the boys as gifts last Christmas.

The process which the Baltimore artist used in these paintings is called the "Maroger Medium." Miss Schuler learned the medium from its discoverer, Jacques Maroger, also an instructor at Maryland Institute. As a matter of fact Miss Schuler is his assistant.

Long Experiment

Maroger believes his medium has rediscovered the process first developed by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, Flemish brothers considered the founders of the famous Flemish school of painting. For some 10 years Maroger experimented with his process, which he finally perfected about three years ago, according to Mrs. Briggs.

Hubert Van Eyck was born in 1366 and died in 1426. His younger brother, Jan, was born in 1385 and died in 1441. They are noted for working out a successful medium for oil painting. Their joint masterpiece is the renowned altar-piece in the Church of St. Bavon at Ghent. It is entitled "The Adoration of The Lamb," and is an elaborate triptych with many panels.

The "Maroger Medium" is not just oil, Mrs. Briggs explained in discussing her sister's fine paintings. The oil has an additional substance which makes it decidedly luminous.

However, the main advantage of the "Maroger Medium", is that the artist is able to lay one color over another without waiting for the first to dry. This cannot be done with ordinary oil.

Short Time

The chief value of this characteristic, Mrs. Briggs said, is that the portraits can be completed in a relatively short time.

For instance, Miss Schuler did seven portraits as Christmas gifts in a one-week period just before the holiday. One of these was the painting of the older Briggs boy, done from a photograph. The younger boy sat for his portrait last summer.

Mrs. Briggs entered her sister's paintings in the art exhibit because she thought art lovers in this area would like to examine this medium.

Conlon Reports $1,245 Received In Heart Drive

Theatre Collections Planned This Week

The Cumberland division of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund-raising drive has raised $1,245.26, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The contributions have largely been received from business and professional men, clubs and organizations and other groups who had been sent letters of appeal from the heart association.

In addition to the letter appeals tag day was held and collections were taken up at local basketball games.

Conlon reported the group is planning theatre collections with speakers to give short talks from the stages of each of the five local movie houses.

Robert Doty will appear at the Embassy Theatre at 8 p. m., at the Garden at 8:50 and at the Maryland at 9 o'clock tonight while Paul Weisenmiller is scheduled to speak at the same theatres at the identical times tomorrow night.

Mrs. Betty Kirk, visiting home nurse of the heart organization, is scheduled to make and appeal to audiences at the Liberty Theatre at 8:30 p. m. and at the Strand at 9 o'clock Friday. Another speaker not yet selected will appear at the Strand and Liberty theatres tomorrow night, Conlon said.

Members of the local Girl Scouts organization will take up the collections in the theatres under the direction of the Tag Day committee, Miss Effie Vogel, Mrs. Rachel Iames, and Mrs. Heyl Walker.

In breaking down contributions so far received by the Association Conlon reported $185 was received from clubs and organizations; $300 from Mayor and City Council; $250 from Allegany County Commissioners; $58.93 from basketball collections; $61.33 from Tag Day sale; $351 from business and professional organizations; and $39 from other sources.

Hitchcock Says School Children Were Smog Victims

The Senate Finance committee was told yesterday that a sudden illness of 2,304 Cumberland school children may have been due to smog.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer for this city, testified the children probably were felled on October 15, 1945, by an attack on their upper respiratory tracts from air pollution.

Hitchcock was among those who urged adoption of a bill to appropriate $100,000 a year for control and study of air pollution.

A report by a commission named to study air pollution in Maryland said Baltimore City and Cumberland were the worst smog areas, but that pollution of air was present over all of Maryland.

Get Beauty Franchise

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Miss Maryland contest, to pick the state's entry in the 1951 Miss America beauty pageant, will be held here at the Lyric Theater June 16.

The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event, announced the date today.

Weather

The weatherman promises continued mild temperatures today. Cloudy skies with occasional rain are forecast during the day. The high yesterday was 53 and the low 36 as recorded by the Constitution Park weather station. Precipitation was .01.

Mt. Savage Will Ballot On Tax Area Leaders

An election of members for the Committeee for Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area will be held April 2, with all bonafide resident property owners eligible to vote, according to Colin Bowers, chairman.

Five members must be chosen, the three highest to serve two years and the two lowest, two years.

A public meeting has been set for March 20 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. At that time a financial report is to be submitted and nominations for the coming election will be made.

Plans for the meeting and election were outlined February 12 at a meeting of the Special Taxing Area Committee.

Fire Chiefs To Formulate Plans For Mutual Aid

Further plans for mutual aid for civil defense needs will be made at a meeting of fire fighting officials of this county tonight.

A committee of the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association will confer tonight at 8 o'clock in the Public Safety Building with Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid, of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Prime targets will be set up and definite plans formulated for meeting such emergencies and at the same time giving adequate protection for the rest of the county.

Chief Reid said, for example, that if a disastrous fire broke out at the Celanese plant, the Cresaptown, Bowling Green and LaVale Volunteer Fire Departments and West Side Fire Company here would be dispatched to aid the plant's fire company.

At the same time, other departments would be alerted to step in immediately if another fire broke out in the territory normally protected by the companies sent to the industrial plant.

By having definite plans worked out, all companies would know their definite duties both on active fire fighting and on stand-by duty.

Volunteer companies which have already entered the civil defense fire set up are the Ellerslie, Corriganville, LaVale, Cresaptown, Bowling Green, District 16, Baltimore Pike, Bedford Road and Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Departments in Maryland, and the Ridgeley and Wiley Ford companies in nearby West Virginia.

Public Affairs Group To Study Legislation

The Public Affairs committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Chamber offices to review legislation which has been introduced at Annapolis.

The committee, headed by Douglas, R. Bowie, will present its report to the Board of Directors for action.

Tests Slated Today

Thirteen persons are eligible to take a Civil Service Commission examination today for the position of warehouse clerk and water department clerk. The test will be conducted at 7 p. m. in City Hall.

Street Workers Are Stymied By Muddy Conditions

Urgent Requests Receive Priority

The recent thaw, which turned many of this city's unpaved streets and alleys into seas of mud, has brought more problems than the Street Department can handle.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said the department has put all available manpower on the task but so far has been unable to meet all requests.

Recent rains only ruined work which has been in progress in many sections of the city.

For the past week, the department has been able to meet only the most urgent requests, such as providing passable roads where there is sickness, where coal deliveries and garbage collections could not be made and to keep bus routes open.

In a number of cases, Mrs. Roeder said, both street and alley routes to homes have been blocked by mud.

She assured citizens that their complaints are not being ignored since all available men are working on the problems.

In many cases, she added, complaints must be acted upon in the degree of their urgency, since immediate help is necessary in some cases.

In most cases, the only relief possible is to fill in wet spots with cinders, a temporary measure, but the only course possible in the present big thaw.

Where the use of power graders is practical, they are being used.

Mrs. Roeder said employes of some Baltimore Streets merchants are still sweeping dirt into the streets and catch basins.

In the future, she added, names of violators will be referred to the Police Department.

Zion Church To Hold Third Lenten Service

The third in a series of midweek Lenten services will be held tonight at 7:30. p. m. in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street.

The third motion picture in the Life of St. Paul, "The Years of Apprenticeship", will be shown. Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr., pastor, will speak on the theme "If Any Man Be In Christ, He Is A New Creature." The church choir will sing and the public is invited.

Chemical Workers Local Meets Today

The International Chemical Workers Union, Local 261, will hold its regular meeting tonight at the Cresaptown Fire Hall at 8 p. m., Richard Swartzwelder, recording secretary, announced yesterday.

Lynn Walker, president of the Western Maryland safety council will be the speaker and a movie, "No Life In Darkness," will be shown.

The public is invited to attend the meeting after 9 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

Moose Sends 50,000 Cards To Cerebral Palsy Group

The Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 271 shipped approximately 50,000 Christmas cards Monday to the United Cerebral Palsy organization in New York City.

Lonnie Jackson, governor of the local group, said last night the cards were shipped by a local trucking company and weighed about two tons.

The huge collection was in response to an appeal made by the Moose lodge earlier in the year for the cards to help in therapy work with cerebral palsied children. The response was immediate and overwhelming, Jackson related, and although the organization planned only to carry on the work about two weeks it actually took members over a month to prepare the cards which were sent to the lodge.

Individuals, civic organizations and high school groups aided in the collection of the cards and members of the lodge sorted and packed them for shipment, Jackson said.

Karl K. VanMeter, executive director of the New York organization reported this week that more than 25,000,000 cards had been received by United Cerebray Palsy, relating that more than 50 per cent of all mail handled at Radio City sub station, headquarters for the group, is for United Cerebral Palsy.

Bus Official Airs Crowded Conditions

Says Public Service Group Be Contacted

A. J. Hutton, manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines said last night that the matter of overcrowding school children into company buses is of concern to the Public Service Commission.

He said that operators have been given instructions to prohibit overcrowding and that the agreement was that a schoolboy patrolman would be on each bus to keep order and report any cases of overloading.

According to Hutton the Cumberland Transit vehicles are built in a manner to handle an extra heavy load. Reinforced brakes assure quick stoppage. As compared to County School busses he said that more safety precautions are involved in the city busses.

Twenty-six seats are available for passengers and any number of standees can ride the bus for the short distances within the city. Hutton said the present policy which has resulted in overcrowding is a matter of "economics." He said that the five-cent fare of 60 children does not even pay the operators two hour salary.

Nothing can be done under present conditions, Hutton said. Various details enter into the transportation problem such as weather, number of students dismissed from school at certain times and number of passengers on the bus prior to picking up school children.

Charging that the Cumberland Transit Lines has failed to comply with proposals to mitigate the overcrowding of school busses, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long indicated yesterday he will request City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey to prepare an ordinance to "control this unsafe condition."

In a letter to Guy M. Davis, coowner of the firm, he stated:

"A few weeks ago we had several meetings with you, relative to the overcrowding of school buses. At that time, you proposed: (1) The painting of white warning lines in the buses to keep the passengers away from the bus driver; and (2) That we check the buses periodically for violations of this accident prevention rule."

Commissioner Long attached a report by Officer James W. Brown and said it "is evidence that the condition continues to exist and the only alternative I have is to request ordinance that will control this unsafe condition before we experience a serious accident involving local persons."

Final Arguments Slated Today In Sewer Suit

Westernport Ends Its Defense

Closing arguments from rival attorneys and instructions to the jurors from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris today will wind up the lengthy trial in Allegany County Circuit Court of a $5,000 sewer damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport. The trial started Monday.

Defense Attorneys H. P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper yesterday sent 15 witnesses, most of them present or former Westernport officials, to the stand yesterday, before resting their case at 4:08 p. m.

Thomas Lohr Richards and H. G. Shores, Mrs. Droege's attorneys, then called William O. Droege, the plaintiff's husband to the stand as a rebuttal witness, but his testimony was cut short when the court ruled that his remarks were simply repetition of his earlier testimony and not in the nature of rebuttal. The plaintiff's attorney then rested their case at 4:10 p. m., after which Judge Harris excused the jurors until 9:15 a. m. today.

Two of the defense witnesses yesterday afternoon, Dr. Lewis F. Engle, Westernport dentist, and John Matthews, former town commissioner, both testified that rains in Westernport on July 12, 1949, the day the sewer broke under Mrs. Droege's house, were severe. Matthews said they were the worst he could recall in his 57 years.

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland civil engineer, who was the final defense witness, said he believed the Westernport sewer was constructed properly. He examined the sewer last Friday.

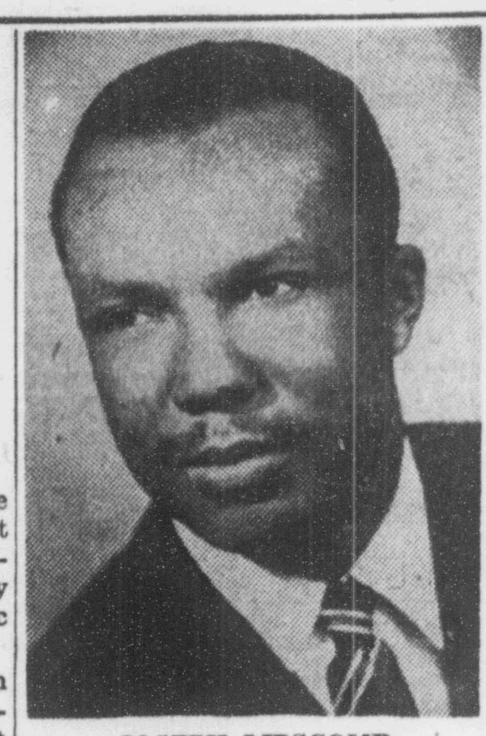
Church To Observe Week Of Dedication

Week of Dedication will be observed in the Ellerslie Methodist Church by different church organizations which will use "We Have An Altar," as their theme.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the choir will meet using the subject, "We lay our talents on the altar for a deeper consecration."

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the Woman's Society of Christian Service will discuss "A greater zeal for missions at home and abroad," while Friday at the same time the church school will meet on the theme, "More emphasis on decisions for Christ."

Layman's Day will be observed at Corriganville at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. Earl Miller will be the speaker. Miller will also speak at services at 11 a. m. at Cooks Mill. Rev. C. S. Patterson will be the speaker at 11 a. m. services at Ellerslie.



JOSEPH LIPSCOMB

Pittsburgh Tenor Has Opera Lead

Joseph Lipscomb To Portray Moses

Joseph Lipscomb, Pittsburgh tenor who has gained national attention, will sing the role of Moses in the National Negro Opera Company, Inc., Biblical story opera, "The Ordering of Moses," at Allegany High School auditorium, Sunday, February 25, at 8:30 p. m.

The opera which has a cast of over 100 singers and dancers from Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York, is under the direction of Mary Cardwell Dawson, founder of the group.

The text of the opera is based on Scripture and folklore with the song, "Go Down Moses," as the main theme. Colorful scenery and costumes are part of the feature attraction of the show.

The opera was written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett who also wrote the music, and is presented in four acts. Incidental dances and solos are presented by the opera ballet.

The National Negro Opera Company has been highly praised for its presentation of "Ordering of Moses," which has had successful showings in Chicago and New York.

William F. Jones and John E. Trimble are in charge of the local presentation and tickets are available at the Cumberland Music Shop, Baltimore Street.

Mayors Attend Meeting On Rubbish Disposal

Plan Would Avert Water Pollution

A proposal to eliminate pollution of the Potomac River by garbage disposal was discussed at a meeting held in the Keyser W. Va., Council Chamber last night.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Harold Fredlock, Piedmont, W. Va., Mayor Charles Dayton, Luke, Mayor John C. Freeland, Keyser and Police Commissioner R. A. Mulledy who represented Mayor George Kight Westernport. J. B. Dowling Md. State Sanitarian also attended.

The meeting was called by William Waller, senior sanitarian of District 5 of the W. Va., State Health Department to tell mayors of the Tri-Towns and Keyser just how the plan could be put in operation.

The proposal calls for the burying of garbage and other rubbish in trenches measuring twenty by one hundred feet in length and at a depth just above the water line. Disposal of garbage would be accomplished by dumping the rubbish in the trench and at the end of each day cover it over with a bulldozer and Clam Scoop. This measure averts flies, mosquitoes, vermin and other unsanitary conditions.

The plan proposed by the State Health Department has been successful in Baltimore and other eastern cities. Elkins is the nearest location where such a method of disposal is carried on.

The present proposal is being sponsored by Maryland and West Virginia in cooperation with the U. S. Government.

Another such meeting will be held in the near future at which time council members, representative of civic organizations and Chambers of Commerce will be present. A representative from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke will also attend. A movie explaining the new disposal method will be shown with explanations by state authorities.

TWUA To Act On Plan To Elect Delegates

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will vote tonight at 7:30 o'clock on an executive board recommendation concerning the election of delegates to the 1952 TWUA convention.

Melvin Harris, business agent, said the plan would call for the election of convention delegates in conjunction with the annual election of officers.

McKeldin Turns Thumbs Down On Education Bills

Says Magic Wand Won't Raise Funds

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — Governor McKeldin minced no words today in announcing his "firm opposition" to proposals by the State Department of Education for teachers' raises and other expenditures totalling $10,000,000 a year.

"Such vast sums cannot be come by waving a magic wand," the governor declared.

"In view of present conditions and prospects for the near future, the need, as I have said, is to hold the line," he reiterated in a statement.

"The people, including the teachers, will applaud such a decision."

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, and other officials of the system, submitted four bills to the governor last night.

They would increase teachers' salaries $500 each at a cost of $7,300,000 to the state, add $1,775,000 a year to the incentive fund for school buildings, and increase state aid to libraries by $800,000 annually.

In addition, the department wants a $35,000,000 bond issue to help the subdivisions build new schools.

The measures, contrary to expectations, were not introduced at today's session of the general assembly, but probably will be submitted tomorrow.

"The legislature and the people of this state should realize the meaning of these bills in terms of money," the governor said.

"Approximately $10,000,000 is being added to the budget—not as an appropriation for a single year merely, but annually from now on, indefinitely.

"Ten million dollars additional each year is not a trifle that this state can assume lightly.

Would Boost Debt

"This is in addition to the $35,000,000 in bonds which will have to be paid off with interest. This issue would raise the state debt by about a third of its present aggregate, which is the highest in the history of Maryland.

"These proposals spell taxes — heavy taxes—additional taxes, at once and indefinitely into the future."

The governor explained that his budget bill includes appropriations to provide automatic pay increases due teachers under the law.

His budget, he said, is "properly balanced with anticipated revenues and surplus resulting from the current year's operations."

It calls for expenditure of a record $160,000,000 during the year starting July 1.

The Board of Revenue estimates now predicts state revenues during the next fiscal year will be about $3,450,000 more than was figured on when the budget was drawn up.

That extra cash, the governor said, is "needed to pay the salary increases for underpaid state employes, an act of justice which everyone recognizes."

He said it is not the teachers themselves "who are pressing this enormous and back-breaking tax burden upon the people."

The governor indicated he felt that it was the "desire of certain officials and organizational leaders to bring fresh victories" that led to the Pullen proposal.

Would Boost Taxes

He said the teachers "will appreciate why I must at this time say 'no', and as good citizens they will approve my action."

One proposal advanced to finance teacher pay hikes of at least half of what Dr. Pullen suggested would put an additional $4,000,000 or so into the state treasury during the year by moving forward the due dates of corporation and some other taxes.

McKeldin turned thumbs down on it.

"This seemingly helps us, but only once," he explained. "Next year we will be unable to turn the trick again, and our levels of expenditure will have been increased by millions, thus compelling a huge tax raise next year."

First reaction from individual members of the General Assembly was almost wholly in agreement with the governor that the state cannot afford blanket $500 raises for teachers now.

However, several expressed the hope that some method can be worked out to give them about $200 additional to help meet the rising cost-of-living.

When he first suggested his $500-per-teacher plan a few weeks ago, Dr. Pullen said the raise would be necessary to keep them from leaving the classroom for better paid jobs in business and industry.

A $200 raise would not come close to meeting their needs he argued.

Pair Gets Suspended Sentences In Court

Robert William Herrell, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Blondell Cannon, city, each received suspended sentences yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Herrell pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons on February 16 and was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. Sentence was suspended and Herrell was paroled for two years.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti sentenced Cannon to 30 days in the county jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to stealing a pipe wrench and pipe cutter valued at $12 from Edward Schaidt. The sentence was suspended and the defendant paroled for one year.

Violence Near Non-Union Mines Reported Ended

Railroad Property Damaged By Vandals

Law enforcement authorities in Garrett County and in Preston County, W. Va., are keeping on the alert for roving bands of pickets who have been causing a virtual "reign of terror" in the vicinity of some non-union coal mines the past four weeks but the authorities reported last night that there has been no violence in the area since last Thursday.

Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Edward J. Frantz said deputies from the sheriff's office and State Police had toured the western section of Garrett county five different mornings in the past two weeks looking for the roving pickets.

He stressed that the only incident in Garrett County occurred last Thursday morning when between 20 and 30 cars loaded with men drove past a non-union mine at Crellin but did not stop. There was no difficulty, he added.

Frantz also reported that virtually all of the Garrett County mines are non-union and nearly all of them are continuing to operate.

Property Is Damaged

Property belonging to two railroads was damaged last week in the Preston County area in and around Kingwood, according to Capt. Harry D. Schmidt of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad police here.

Capt. Schmidt said the only damage to B&O property occurred last Thursday morning when the pockets under two drop-bottom coal hoppers were opened at Manown, two miles west of Kingwood, dumping the coal of the ground. These hoppers were on a siding near a non-union mine, he stated. Only a couple of tons of coal were lost.

More serious damage was done to property of the West Virginia Northern Railroad at Kingwood, Capt. Schmidt said. Two cars were run off a tipple at a non-union mine and a Diesel motor belonging to that railroad was damaged by sand. All of this vandalism occurred last week.

25 Arrests Made

It is understood that the normal complement of three West Virginia State Police at Kingwood was increased last Thursday to six men. This may be one of the reasons why acts of terrorism have stopped since then.

FBI Agents also reportedly were called into the case after the railroad cars were derailed.

Some 25 persons in Preston County have been arrested on various charges since the pickets began to roam. This is reported to be only a small percentage of the pickets involved.

The number has been estimated at about 300 men, still far from a majority of the estimated 2,000 men who work in non-union mines in the two counties.

Local VFW Favors Bonus

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars is on record favoring legislation with a referendum on a state bonus for World War I and World War II veterans, according to Commander Raymond Whitehair.

At last night's post meeting it was pointed out that all posts in District No. 3, which includes Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties are in favor of the bonus legislation.

Whitehair recalled that several days ago, a press release from Maryland Department VFW headquarters indicated a majority of the posts in Maryland had gone on record opposing immediate action on the bonus. He explained that this story was based on only a partial report of posts in the state and did not include this district. In fact, he outlined, it included only about 40 per cent of Maryland VFW posts.

The local post also ordered telegrams sent to the Secretary of Defense urging the selection of Cumberland as the site for a new Army Quartermaster Depot.

Charles Bujac was named civil defense officer for the post, Whitehair announced.

News In Brief

An examination for all classes of radio operator licenses will be given at Room 331, Cumberland Post Office Building, Tuesday, April 10, at 9 a.m.

Two AWOL soldiers identified as David W. Meyers, of Cresaptown, and Robert H. Bean, 219 Chase Street, are being held in the city lockup for military authorities.

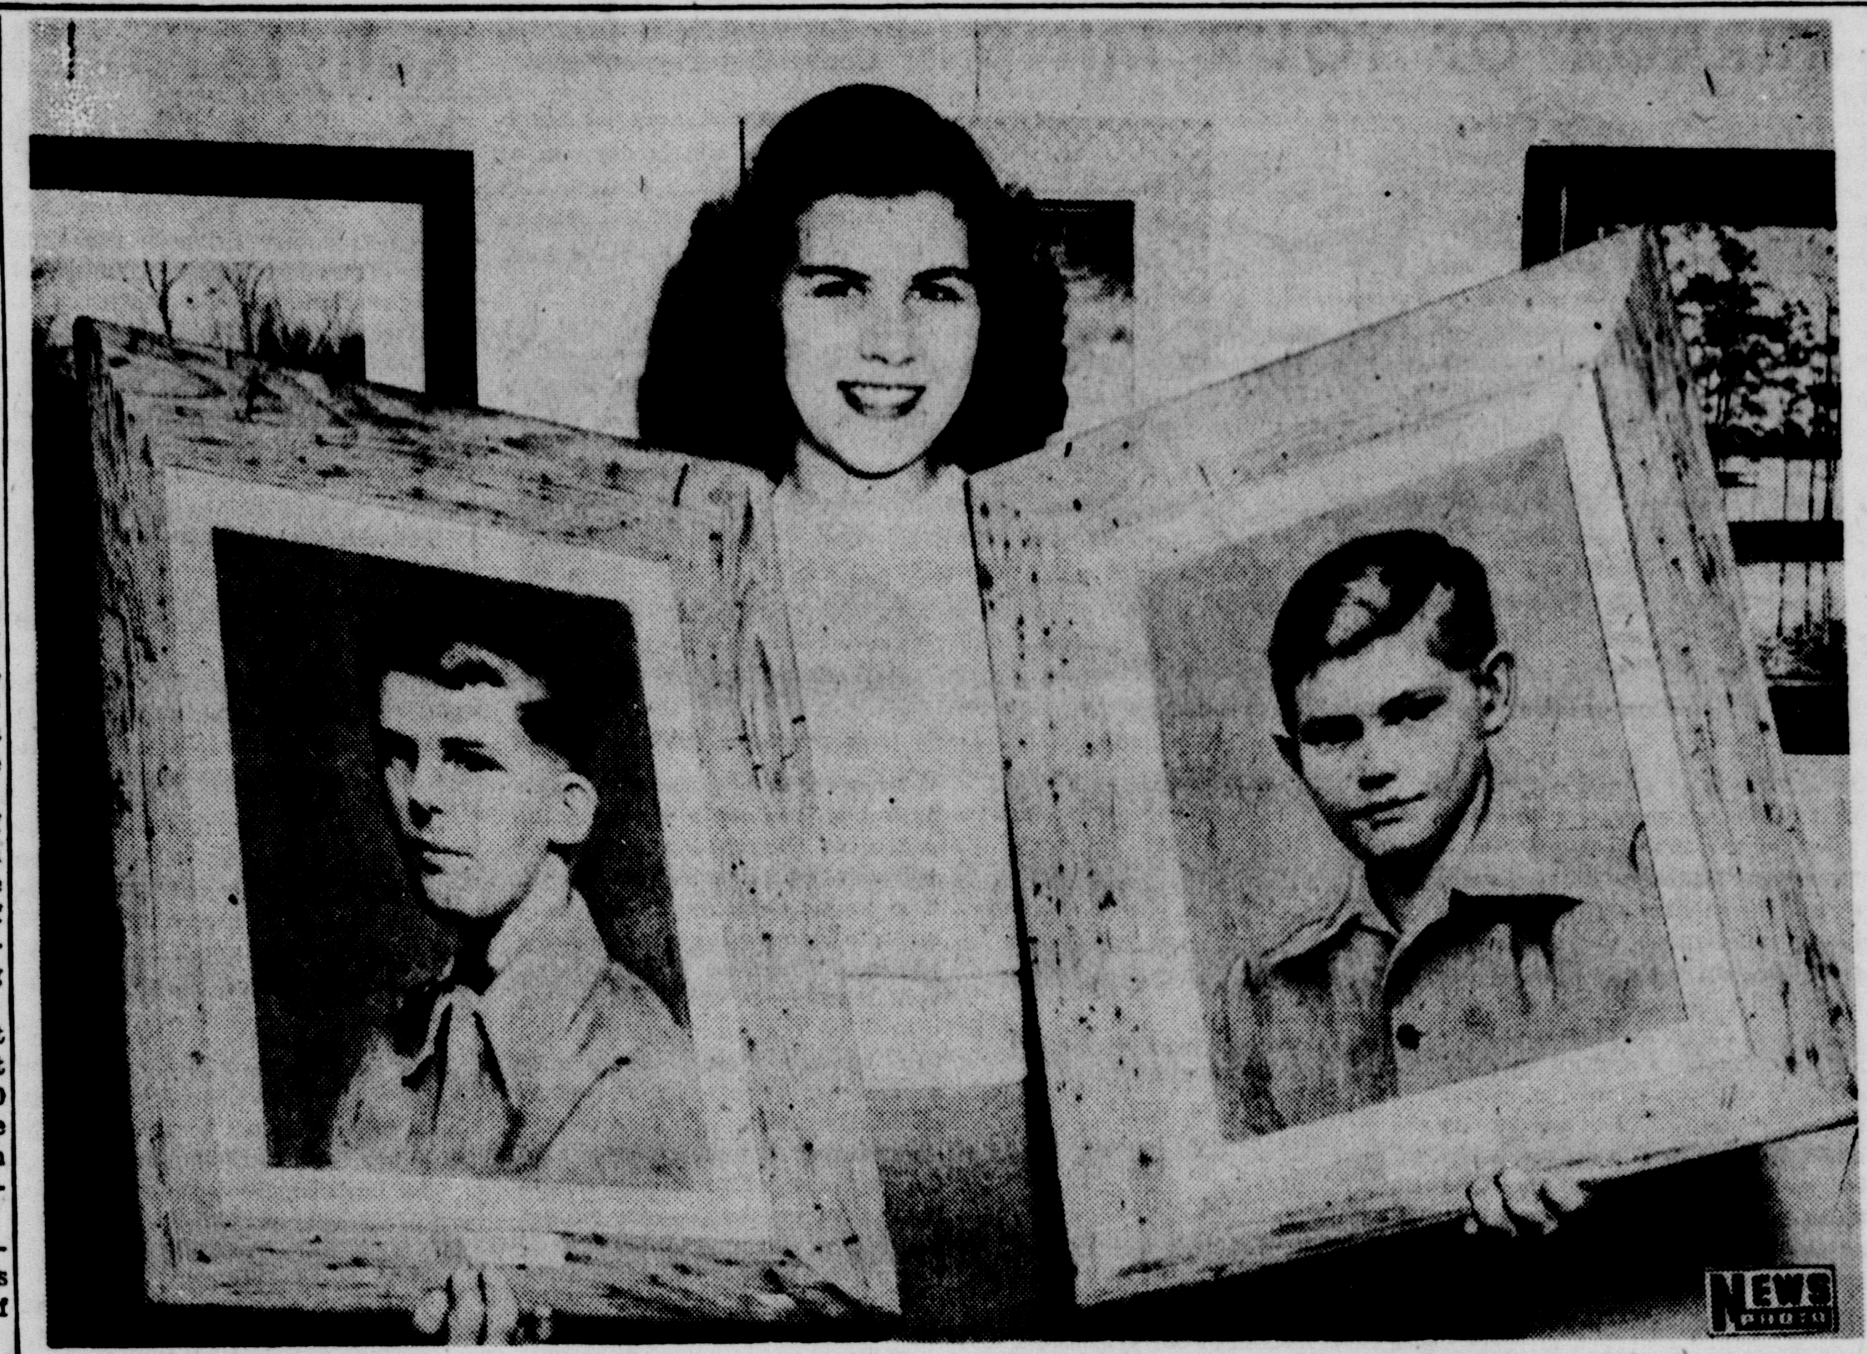
State Troopers William F. Baker and John F. Browning nabbed the pair early yesterday.

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, president.

Rabbi H. J. Wilner, of B'er Chayim Congregation, will speak at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va. Today in connection with the observance of Brotherhood Week under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

Court House To Close

Because tomorrow is the 219th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the Allegany County Court House will be closed all day.



Touch Of The Old Masters

The two portraits held by Miss Jeaneen Ruth Hartley, an assistant at the Cumberland Free Public Library, are featured in the current Tri-State Art Exhibit at the library. These portraits were done by Miss Ann D. Schuler, an instructor at the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. The subjects are her two nephews, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The painting at the left is a portrait of 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and at the right is the portrait of 13-year-old Schuler Briggs. The oil paintings were done by Miss Schuler through use of what she calls the "Maroger Medium." This medium attempts to reproduce the process which was introduced by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, founders of the Flemish school.

Conlon Reports $1,245 Received In Heart Drive

Theatre Collections Planned This Week

The Cumberland division of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund-raising drive has raised $1,245.26, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The contributions have largely been received from business and professional men, clubs and organizations and other groups who had been sent letters of appeal from the heart association.

In addition to the letter appeals tag day was held and collections were taken up at local basketball games.

Conlon reported the group is planning theatre collections with speakers to give short talks from the stages of each of the five local movie houses.

Robert Doty will appear at the Embassy Theatre at 8 p. m., at the Garden at 8:50 and at the Maryland at 9 o'clock tonight while Paul Weisenmiller is scheduled to speak at the same theatres at the identical times tomorrow night.

Mrs. Betty Kirk, visiting home nurse of the heart organization, is scheduled to make and appeal to audiences at the Liberty Theatre at 8:30 p. m. and at the Strand at 9 o'clock Friday. Another speaker not yet selected will appear at the Strand and Liberty theatres tomorrow night, Conlon said.

Members of the local Girl Scouts organization will take up the collections in the theatres under the direction of the Tag Day committee, Miss Effie Vogel, Mrs. Rachel Iames, and Mrs. Heyl Walker.

In breaking down contributions so far received by the Association Conlon reported $185 was received from clubs and organizations; $300 from Mayor and City Council; $250 from Allegany County Commissioners; $58.93 from basketball collections; $61.33 from Tag Day sale; $351 from business and professional organizations; and $39 from other sources.

Hitchcock Says School Children Were Smog Victims

The Senate Finance committee was told yesterday that a sudden illness of 2,304 Cumberland school children may have been due to smog.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer for this city, testified the children probably were felled on October 15, 1945, by an attack on their upper respiratory tracts from air pollution.

Hitchcock was among those who urged adoption of a bill to appropriate $100,000 a year for control and study of air pollution.

A report by a commission named to study air pollution in Maryland said Baltimore City and Cumberland were the worst smog areas, but that pollution of air was present over all of Maryland.

Get Beauty Franchise

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Miss Maryland contest, to pick the state's entry in the 1951 Miss America beauty pageant, will be held here at the Lyric Theater June 16.

The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event, announced the date today.

Weather

The weatherman promises continued mild temperatures today. Cloudy skies with occasional rain are forecast during the day. The high yesterday was 53 and the low 36 as recorded by the Constitution Park weather station. Precipitation was .01.

Paintings Exhibited Here Rediscover Van Eyck Process

Mt. Savage Will Ballot On Tax Area Leaders

An election of members for the Committeee for Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area will be held April 2, with all bonafide resident property owners eligible to vote, according to Colin Bowers, chairman.

Five members must be chosen, the three highest to serve two years and the two lowest, two years.

A public meeting has been set for March 20 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. At that time a financial report is to be submitted and nominations for the coming election will be made.

Plans for the meeting and election were outlined February 12 at a meeting of the Special Taxing Area Committee.

Fire Chiefs To Formulate Plans For Mutual Aid

Further plans for mutual aid for civil defense needs will be made at a meeting of fire fighting officials of this county tonight.

A committee of the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association will confer tonight at 8 o'clock in the Public Safety Building with Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid, of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Prime targets will be set up and definite plans formulated for meeting such emergencies and at the same time giving adequate protection for the rest of the county.

Chief Reid said, for example, that if a disastrous fire broke out at the Celanese plant, the Cresaptown, Bowling Green and LaVale Volunteer Fire Departments and West Side Fire Company here would be dispatched to aid the plant's fire company.

At the same time, other departments would be alerted to step in immediately if another fire broke out in the territory normally protected by the companies sent to the industrial plant.

By having definite plans worked out, all companies would know their definite duties both on active fire fighting and on stand-by duty.

Volunteer companies which have already entered the civil defense fire set up are the Ellerslie, Corriganville, LaVale, Cresaptown, Bowling Green, District 16, Baltimore Pike, Bedford Road and Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Departments in Maryland, and the Ridgeley and Wiley Ford companies in nearby West Virginia.

Public Affairs Group To Study Legislation

The Public Affairs committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Chamber offices to review legislation which has been introduced at Annapolis.

The committee, headed by Douglas, R. Bowie, will present its report to the Board of Directors for action.

Tests Slated Today

Thirteen persons are eligible to take a Civil Service Commission examination today for the position of warehouse clerk and water department clerk. The test will be conducted at 7 p. m. in City Hall.

Two Christmas presents are giving visitors to the annual Tri-State Art Exhibit at the Cumberland Free Public Library an idea of the paintings of the old Flemish masters.

The presents are the oil painting portraits of two teen-age sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The boys are 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and 13-year old Schuler Briggs. They were done by their aunt, Miss Ann Didusch Schuler, an instructor at Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. She is Mrs. Briggs' sister. Dr. Briggs is European history professor at Frostburg Teachers College.

Miss Schuler gave the portraits to the boys as gifts last Christmas.

The process which the Baltimore artist used in these paintings is called the "Maroger Medium." Miss Schuler learned the medium from its discoverer, Jacques Maroger, also an instructor at Maryland Institute. As a matter of fact Miss Schuler is his assistant.

Long Experiment

Maroger believes his medium has rediscovered the process first developed by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, Flemish brothers considered the founders of the famous Flemish school of painting. For some 10 years Maroger experimented with his process, which he finally perfected about three years ago, according to Mrs. Briggs.

Hubert Van Eyck was born in 1366 and died in 1426. His younger brother, Jan, was born in 1385 and died in 1441. They are noted for working out a successful medium for oil painting. Their joint masterpiece is the renowned altar-piece in the Church of St. Bavon at Ghent. It is entitled "The Adoration of The Lamb," and is an elaborate triptych with many panels.

The "Maroger Medium" is not just oil, Mrs. Briggs explained in discussing her sister's fine paintings. The oil has an additional substance which makes it decidedly luminous.

However, the main advantage of the "Maroger Medium", is that the artist is able to lay one color over another without waiting for the first to dry. This cannot be done with ordinary oil.

Short Time

The chief value of this characteristic, Mrs. Briggs said, is that the portraits can be completed in a relatively short time.

For instance, Miss Schuler did seven portraits as Christmas gifts in a one-week period just before the holiday. One of these was the painting of the older Briggs boy, done from a photograph. The younger boy sat for his portrait last summer.

Mrs. Briggs entered her sister's paintings in the art exhibit because she thought art lovers in this area would like to examine this medium.

Moose Sends 50,000 Cards To Cerebral Palsy Group

The Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 271 shipped approximately 50,000 Christmas cards Monday to the United Cerebral Palsy organization in New York City.

Lonnie Jackson, governor of the local group, said last night the cards were shipped by a local trucking company and weighed about two tons.

The huge collection was in response to an appeal made by the Moose lodge earlier in the year for the cards to help in therapy work with cerebral palsied children. The response was immediate and overwhelming, Jackson related, and although the organization planned only to carry on the work about two weeks it actually took members over a month to prepare the cards which were sent to the lodge.

Individuals, civic organizations and high school groups aided in the collection of the cards and members of the lodge sorted and packed them for shipment, Jackson said.

Karl K. VanMeter, executive director of the New York organization reported this week that more than 25,000,000 cards had been received by United Cerebray Palsy, relating that more than 50 per cent of all mail handled at Radio City sub station, headquarters for the group, is for United Cerebral Palsy.

Street Workers Are Stymied By Muddy Conditions

Urgent Requests Receive Priority

The recent thaw, which turned many of this city's unpaved streets and alleys into seas of mud, has brought more problems than the Street Department can handle.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said the department has put all available manpower on the task but so far has been unable to meet all requests.

Recent rains only ruined work which has been in progress in many sections of the city.

For the past week, the department has been able to meet only the most urgent requests, such as providing passable roads where there is sickness, where coal deliveries and garbage collections could not be made and to keep bus routes open.

In a number of cases, Mrs. Roeder said, both street and alley routes to homes have been blocked by mud.

She assured citizens that their complaints are not being ignored since all available men are working on the problems.

In many cases, she added, complaints must be acted upon in the degree of their urgency, since immediate help is necessary in some cases.

In most cases, the only relief possible is to fill in wet spots with cinders, a temporary measure, but the only course possible in the present big thaw.

Where the use of power graders is practical, they are being used.

Mrs. Roeder said employes of some Baltimore Streets merchants are still sweeping dirt into the streets and catch basins.

In the future, she added, names of violators will be referred to the Police Department.

Zion Church To Hold Third Lenten Service

The third in a series of mid-week Lenten services will be held tonight at 7:30. p. m. in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street.

The third motion picture in the Life of St. Paul, "The Years of Apprenticeship", will be shown. Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr., pastor, will speak on the theme "If Any Man Be In Christ, He Is A New Creature." The church choir will sing and the public is invited.

Chemical Workers Local Meets Today

The International Chemical Workers Union, Local 261, will hold its regular meeting tonight at the Cresaptown Fire Hall at 8 p. m., Richard Swartzwelder, recording secretary, announced yesterday.

Lynn Walker, president of the Western Maryland safety council will be the speaker and a movie, "No Life In Darkness," will be shown.

The public is invited to attend the meeting after 9 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

Bus Official Airs Crowded Conditions

Says Public Service Group Be Contacted

A. J. Hutton, manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines said last night that the matter of overcrowding school children into company buses is of concern to the Public Service Commission.

He said that operators have been given instructions to prohibit overcrowding and that the agreement was that a schoolboy patrolman would be on each bus to keep order and report any cases of overloading.

According to Hutton the Cumberland Transit vehicles are built in a manner to handle an extra heavy load. Reinforced brakes assure quick stoppage. As compared to County School busses he said that more safety precautions are involved in the city busses.

Twenty-six seats are available for passengers and any number of standees can ride the bus for the short distances within the city. Hutton said the present policy which has resulted in overcrowding is a matter of "economics." He said that the five-cent fare of 60 children does not even pay the operators two hour salary.

Nothing can be done under present conditions, Hutton said. Various details enter into the transportation problem such as weather, number of students dismissed from school at certain times and number of passengers on the bus prior to picking up school children.

Charging that the Cumberland Transit Lines has failed to comply with proposals to mitigate the overcrowding of school busses, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long indicated yesterday he will request City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey to prepare an ordinance to "control this unsafe condition."

In a letter to Guy M. Davis, co-owner of the firm, he stated:

"A few weeks ago we had several meetings with you, relative to the overcrowding of school buses. At that time, you proposed: (1) The painting of white warning lines in the buses to keep the passengers away from the bus driver; and (2) That we check the buses periodically for violations of this accident prevention rule."

Commissioner Long attached a report by Officer James W. Brown and said it "is evidence that the condition continues to exist and the only alternative I have is to request ordinance that will control this unsafe condition before we experience a serious accident involving local persons."

Final Arguments Slated Today In Sewer Suit

Westernport Ends Its Defense

Closing arguments from rival attorneys and instructions to the jurors from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris today will wind up the lengthy trial in Allegany County Circuit Court of a $5,000 sewer damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport. The trial started Monday.

Defense Attorneys H. P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper yesterday sent 15 witnesses, most of them present or former Westernport officials, to the stand yesterday, before resting their case at 4:08 p. m.

Thomas Lohr Richards and H. G. Shores, Mrs. Droege's attorneys, then called William O. Droege, the plaintiff's husband to the stand as a rebuttal witness, but his testimony was cut short when the court ruled that his remarks were simply repetition of his earlier testimony and not in the nature of rebuttal. The plaintiff's attorney then rested their case at 4:10 p. m., after which Judge Harris excused the jurors until 9:15 a. m. today.

Two of the defense witnesses yesterday afternoon, Dr. Lewis F. Engle, Westernport dentist, and John Matthews, former town commissioner, both testified that rains in Westernport on July 12, 1949, the day the sewer broke under Mrs. Droege's house, were severe. Matthews said they were the worst he could recall in his 57 years.

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland civil engineer, who was the final defense witness, said he believed the Westernport sewer was constructed properly. He examined the sewer last Friday.

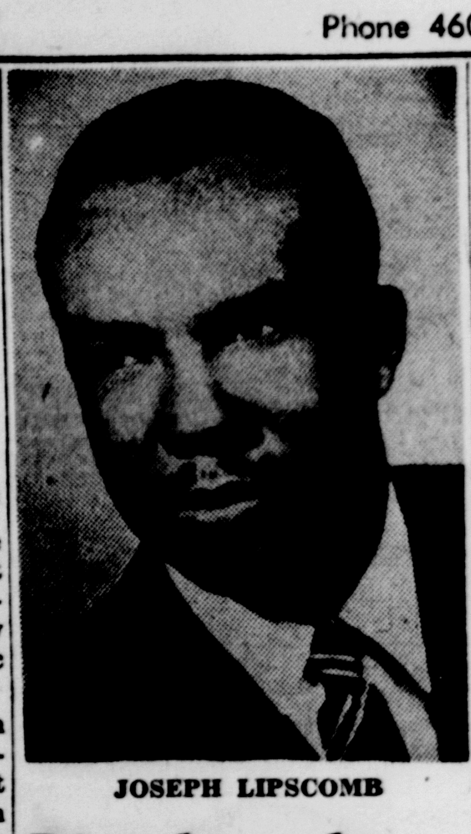
Church To Observe Week Of Dedication

Week of Dedication will be observed in the Ellerslie Methodist Church by different church organizations which will use "We Have An Altar," as their theme.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the choir will meet using the subject, "We lay our talents on the altar for a deeper consecration."

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the Woman's Society of Christian Service will discuss "A greater zeal for missions at home and abroad," while Friday at the same time the church school will meet on the theme, "More emphasis on decisions for Christ."

Layman's Day will be observed at Corriganville at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. Earl Miller will be the speaker. Miller will also speak at services at 11 a. m. at Cooks Mill. Rev. C. S. Patterson will be the speaker at 11 a. m. services at Ellerslie.



JOSEPH LIPSCOMB

Pittsburgh Tenor Has Opera Lead

Joseph Lipscomb To Portray Moses

Joseph Lipscomb, Pittsburgh tenor who has gained national attention, will sing the role of Moses in the National Negro Opera Company, Inc., Biblical story opera, "The Ordering of Moses," at Allegany High School auditorium, Sunday, February 25, at 8:30 p. m.

The opera which has a cast of over 100 singers and dancers from Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York, is under the direction of Mary Cardwell Dawson, founder of the group.

The text of the opera is based on Scripture and folklore with the song, "Go Down Moses," as the main theme. Colorful scenery and costumes are part of the feature attraction of the show.

The opera was written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett who also wrote the music, and is presented in four acts. Incidental dances and solos are presented by the opera ballet.

The National Negro Opera Company has been highly praised for its presentation of "Ordering of Moses," which has had successful showings in Chicago and New York.

William F. Jones and John E. Trimble are in charge of the local presentation and tickets are available at the Cumberland Music Shop, Baltimore Street.

Mayors Attend Meeting On Rubbish Disposal

Plan Would Avert Water Pollution

A proposal to eliminate pollution of the Potomac River by garbage disposal was discussed at a meeting held in the Keyser W. Va., Council Chamber last night.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Harold Fredlock, Piedmont, W. Va., Mayor Charles Dayton, Luke, Mayor John C. Freeland, Keyser and Police Commissioner R. A. Mulledy who represented Mayor George Kight Westernport. J. B. Dowling Md. State Sanitarian also attended.

The meeting was called by William Waller, senior sanitarian of District 5 of the W. Va., State Health Department to tell mayors of the Tri-Towns and Keyser just how the plan could be put in operation.

The proposal calls for the burying of garbage and other rubbish in trenches measuring twenty by one hundred feet in length and at a depth just above the water line. Disposal of garbage would be accomplished by dumping the rubbish in the trench and at the end of each day cover it over with a bulldozer and Clam Scoop. This measure averts flies, mosquitoes, vermin and other unsanitary conditions.

The plan proposed by the State Health Department has been successful in Baltimore and other eastern cities. Elkins is the nearest location where such a method of disposal is carried on.

The present proposal is being sponsored by Maryland and West Virginia in cooperation with the U. S. Government.

Another such meeting will be held in the near future at which time council members, representative of civic organizations and Chambers of Commerce will be present. A representative from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke will also attend. A movie explaining the new disposal method will be shown with explanations by state authorities.

TWUA To Act On Plan To Elect Delegates

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will vote tonight at 7:30 o'clock on an executive board recommendation concerning the election of delegates to the 1952 TWUA convention.

Melvin Harris, business agent, said the plan would call for the election of convention delegates in conjunction with the annual election of officers.

McKeldin Turns Thumbs Down On Education Bills

Says Magic Wand Won't Raise Funds

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — Governor McKeldin minced no words today in announcing his "firm opposition" to proposals by the State Department of Education for teachers' raises and other expenditures totalling $10,000,000 a year.

"Such vast sums cannot be come by waving a magic wand," the governor declared.

"In view of present conditions and prospects for the near future, the need, as I have said, is to hold the line," he reiterated in a statement.

"The people, including the teachers, will applaud such a decision."

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, and other officials of the system, submitted four bills to the governor last night.

They would increase teachers' salaries $500 each at a cost of $7,300,000 to the state, add $1,775,000 a year to the incentive fund for school buildings, and increase state aid to libraries by $800,000 annually.

In addition, the department wants a $35,000,000 bond issue to help the subdivisions build new schools.

The measures, contrary to expectations, were not introduced at today's session of the general assembly, but probably will be submitted tomorrow.

"The legislature and the people of this state should realize the meaning of these bills in terms of money," the governor said.

"Approximately $10,000,000 is being added to the budget—not as an appropriation for a single year merely, but annually from now on, indefinitely.

"Ten million dollars additional each year is not a trifle that this state can assume lightly.

Would Boost Debt

"This is in addition to the $35,000,000 in bonds which will have to be paid off with interest. This issue would raise the state debt by about a third of its present aggregate, which is the highest in the history of Maryland.

"These proposals spell taxes — heavy taxes—additional taxes, at once and indefinitely into the future."

The governor explained that his budget bill includes appropriations to provide automatic pay increases due teachers under the law.

His budget, he said, is "properly balanced with anticipated revenues and surplus resulting from the current year's operations."

It calls for expenditure of a record $160,000,000 during the year starting July 1.

The Board of Revenue estimates now predicts state revenues during the next fiscal year will be about $3,450,000 more than was figured on when the budget was drawn up.

That extra cash, the governor said, is "needed to pay the salary increases for underpaid state employes, an act of justice which everyone recognizes."

He said it is not the teachers themselves "who are pressing this enormous and back-breaking tax burden upon the people."

The governor indicated he felt that it was the "desire of certain officials and organizational leaders to bring fresh victories" to the Pullen proposal.

Would Boost Taxes

He said the teachers "will appreciate why I must at this time say 'no', and as good citizens they will approve my action."

One proposal advanced to finance teacher pay hikes of at least half of what Dr. Pullen suggested would put an additional $4,000,000 or so into the state treasury during the year by moving forward the due dates of corporation and some other taxes.

McKeldin turned thumbs down on it.

"This seemingly helps us, but only once," he explained. "Next year we will be unable to turn the trick again, and our levels of expenditure will have been increased by millions, thus compelling a huge tax raise next year.

First reaction from individual members of the General Assembly was almost wholly in agreement with the governor that the state cannot afford blanket $500 raises for teachers now.

However, several expressed the hope that some method can be worked out to give them about $200 additional to help meet the rising cost-of-living.

When he first suggested his $500-per-teacher plan a few weeks ago, Dr. Pullen said the raise would be necessary to keep them from leaving the classroom for better paid jobs in business and industry.

A $200 raise would not come close to meeting their needs he argued.

Robert William Herrell, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Blondell Cannon, city, each received suspended sentences yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Herrell pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons on February 16 and was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. Sentence was suspended and Herrell was paroled for a year.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti sentenced Cannon to 30 days in the county jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to stealing a pipe wrench and pipe cutter valued at $12 from Edward Schaidt. The sentence was suspended and the defendant paroled for one year.

Steel For Cars, Other Goods Cut 20 Per Cent

Slash Ordered By Government Starting April 1

Further Cutbacks Due Later In Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The National Production Authority today announced a cutback on steel that may lead to smaller autos and dwindling supplies of radio and television sets, refrigerators and other household appliances.

The agency said that beginning April 1, steel for passenger automobiles and other goods will be slashed 20 per cent below the average level of the first half of 1950.

NPA Chief Manly Fleischmann said the program is designed to save about 1,000,000 tons of steel for defense production.

NPA officials said a 30 per cent cut may be necessary in the third quarter of this year, beginning July 1.

Fleischmann told reporters that the auto industry will be free to make as many cars as it can with the steel it gets. He said some manufacturers may choose to make smaller, less expensive cars.

Copper, Aluminum Use Cut

In Detroit, industry sources predicted that almost as many cars will be built in the first half of this year as in the same period last year.

Despite the cutback, Fleischmann said it will be possible to continue the production of consumer goods at high levels—"in most instances at levels never attained before 1949 and 1950."

Keyed with the steel cut, NPA announced a 25 per cent reduction in copper and a 35 per cent cut in aluminum below the average level during the first half of 1950. These will apply to products affected by the steel cutback.

Elsewhere on the mobilization front:

1. The three labor members of the Wage Stabilization Board, who quit in a huff last week over the administration's proposed wage-control policy, issued a statement blasting the government's anti-inflation program.

Labor Leaders, Johnston Confer

The labor men declared:

"The basic causes of inflation have not yet been seriously attacked. Prices are still rising rapidly, although allegedly frozen; profits, although fantastically high, are being guaranteed; an equitable tax program x x x has not been adopted."

2. Labor union leaders representing nearly 16,000,000 workers talked at length with Eric Johnston, economic mobilization chief, on their multiple complaints about the mobilization program.

Their chief protests have been that "big business" has dominated the program, with labor left out in the cold, and that a proposed federal wage ceiling is unfair to labor.

Johnston met with public members of the wage board, as well as labor union men, and told reporters later he was "trying to find the basis for complete labor support" of a wage ceiling formula.

3-Way Pacific Pact Discussed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States is considering a formal defense alliance with Australia and New Zealand as a start toward a broad Pacific pact modeled after the North Atlantic defense treaty.

Britain, France and Portugal would be excluded, however, under present planning because of their "colonial' background.

A triangular defense arrangement with Australia and New Zealand is now being discussed, it was learned, by John Foster Dulles Secretary of State Acheson's Republican foreign policy advisor.

Dulles, who is now touring the Pacific, already has talked this possibility over with Gen. MacArthur and Prime Minister Yoshida in Japan and with the Australian and New Zealand foreign ministers in a joint meeting at Canberra, Australia. He is expected to stop off in New Zealand shortly to discuss the broad problems of security in the Pacific and the Japanese peace treaty with New Zealand Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland.

Charges "Deliberate Lies"

Former Sen. Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, tells a Senate Elections subcommittee that "deliberate lies" were used in the Maryland senatorial campaign which led to his defeat last year. He said the "lies" were contained in a tabloid circulated during the campaign for Sen. John M. Butler.

"U. R. Swindled's" Check For $3.50 Goes A Long Way

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 20 (AP)—Nobody knew the $3.50 check was phony until it showed up at the bank for payment. Then it was found the signature read: "U. R. Swindled."

Ralph Volm, assistant cashier of the Illinois National Bank of Quincy, today told this story:

A Quincy wholesale grocer firm got the check from a Macon, Mo., grocer and deposited it in the Quincy bank. It was drawn on a Macon bank.

It went through the Quincy clearing house and the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis before it finally reached the Macon bank.

Then the signature was noticed and the check marked "no such account." The Macon grocer can't recall who gave him the check.

RFC "Influence" Hearing Ordered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—E. Marl Young, who in 10 years rose from a $1,080-a-year assistant messenger boy to a $28,000-a-year executive, gets his chance tomorrow to say whether he ever claimed he could influence million-dollar government loans.

The Senate Banking subcommittee today ordered a full hearing on charges of political influence in Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loans.

Also due to testify tomorrow: Young's accuser, Ross Bohannon of Dallas, lawyer for the Texmass Petroleum Co.

On Feb. 2 the subcommittee, in a bitter report on the RFC entitled "Favoritism And Influence," had a special section set aside for Texmass.

It said Bohannon had testified that Young had offered to help Texmass get a loan from RFC.

Young's price tag on his influence, according to Bohannon, was $85,000.

Bohannon said he told RFC Chairman Harley Hise about the offer, that Hise said no such influence was needed and that Young never was hired.

In May, 1950, Texmass got a $10,100,000 loan from RFC. The company reorganized an went into receivership after getting the money.

Tydings Charges "Lies" Beat Him In Last Election

Sen. Butler Labels Attacks Unjustified

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Millard Tydings, for 24 years a Democratic senator from Maryland, said today that "lies" beat him in the last election. But the man who defeated him, Sen. Butler (R-Md), said Tydings is resorting to "reckless and unjustified attacks upon me."

These two views were presented to a Senate Elections subcommittee. It's studying the Maryland election, won by Butler by 43,000 votes.

Tydings said he hopes the committee will recommend criminal libel action against those who spread the "lies."

"Fishing Expedition"—Butler

Butler said the investigation is a "fishing expedition." He asked what grounds the committee had for continuing it since, he said, the proper Maryland authorities had certified his election.

Thus the investigation began on the same note on which the campaign ended — with harsh name-calling.

Nor was the end likely to come soon. The committee put off cross-examining Tydings until mid-March. It will meet again Tuesday, but it was not disclosed who the witnesses would be.

Tydings brought in a copy of a four-page tabloid called "From The Record," which was circulated during the campaign.

He said this "scurrilous literature" contained a "faked photograph" showing him with Earl Browder, former Communist Party secretary.

Tydings Accuses Pair

Tydings said the tabloid was "conceived, printed and circulated in moral squalor by the dishonorable conspiratogs and perpetrators, who knew in advance it was a tissue of lies from beginning to end."

Tydings said those responsible for "From The Record" were Frank Smith, former editorial writer for the Washington Times Herald and now administrative assistant to Butler, and Jon M. Jonkel, Chicago

U. S. Officer In Korea Tells Of Experiencing "Miracle"

ATLANTA, Feb. 20 (AP) — Little Carolyn Purcell's escape from blindness or death was a "miracle" half way around the world, on a frozen battlefield of Korea.

A battle-hardened officer wrote of experiencing the "miracle" as he prayed for Carolyn and "the tears froze on my face."

His letter was delivered today to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, who once feared their four-year-old daughter might lose her sight or life from cancer. A later diagnosis, however, was inflamation of the eye and Carolyn is now recovering.

The letter to the Purcells was signed Lt. John F. Phillips, APO 301, Care of Postmaster, San Francisco. It recounted that he read the story of Carolyn's affliction in Time magazine and it "stopped me cold."

"It was unbearable, even to think of it," the letter continued. "And then for the first time since I have been in Korea I started praying.

"Even as the tears froze on my face a soldier handed me a late issue of 'Stars and Stripes.'

"The first headline I saw was 'doomed child found to be free of cancer.' x x x

"I want you to know that x x x faraway x x x an American soldier rejoiced with you and little Carolyn."

U. S. Proposes Big 4 Meeting In Washington

Note Blames USSR For World Tension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The United States has proposed to Russia that a Big Four foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions be held in Washington provided a "mutually acceptable basis" for it can be agreed upon.

The American note, made public tonight, was delivered in Moscow last night to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Parallel notes were delivered by Great Britain and France.

The U. S. note declared that the primary cause of the tense world situation is the "general attitude" of the Soviet Union.

Preliminary Talks In Paris

It suggested that a preliminary meeting of representatives of the four powers be held in Paris March 5, on condition that Russia agree to talk about the real causes of international troubles.

Russia has accused the Western Allies of seeking to build up aggressive forces in Western Germany and has said this is a prime cause of tension. But the U. S. note denied this charge as "totally without foundation."

"The U. S. government wishes to emphasize, moreover," the note said, "that in Western Germany there do not exist any German military forces, or any German war industry and that the only 'fait accompli' (thing accomplished) in this field in Europe, is the existence of the huge armaments maintained by the Soviet bloc which include forces raised in East Germany.

Yes Or No Answer Due

"In short, the serious tension which exists at present arises in the first instance from the general attitude adopted by the government of the U. S. S. R. since the end of the war."

The U. S., British and French notes were worded in such a way as to get the Soviet government to give a yes or no answer to the western conditions for holding the preliminary Paris talks. The Russians have wanted to discuss only Germany but have said it was possible for other subjects to come up.

Laborites Defeat Censure Motion

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Labor government defeated a Conservative motion of censure by a vote of 302 to 295 tonight on the issue of its peanut-growing scheme in Africa.

The motion in the House of Commons was the fifth try this month by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to overthrow Prime Minister Attlee's government.

Churchill demanded that the House of Commons reject a government bill to write off a loss of £36,500,000 ($102,000,000) in a venture by the government's overseas corporation to raise peanuts on a gigantic scale in Tanganyika.

The government bill proposed to spend £6,000,000 ($16,800,000) more, but on experimental projects alone, and turn the scheme over to the Colonial Ministry. The Food Ministry had supervision of the original plan to clear thousands of acres in Tanganyika to grow peanuts for food fats.

Police Officer Denies Gambler's Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — George F. Richardson, Philadelphia's deputy police superintendent, indignantly denied before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that he had ever accepted gifts and hospitality from a big-time gambler.

The gray-haired policeman rushed down from Philadelphia to challenge the testimony of Harry (Nig) Rosen, once the city's numbers racket boss, that he had showered Richardson with expensive gifts and entertained him at fancy night spots.

"He couldn't get near me with a million dollars," Richardson shouted. He referred to Rosen as "a yellow cur," and "a bum."

U. S. Destroyer Struck Twice By Red Shells

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The U. S. destroyer Ozbourn was hit twice by Communist shore battery shells February 18 off Wonsan, Korea, the Navy disclosed today.

A spokesman said two men were slightly injured but were able to return to duty. One gun director was knocked out by shells believed to be of 75 mm caliber, he said.

U. S. Army Plans To Release Guardsmen And Reservists As Federal Duty Completed

No More Divisions Will Be Called Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Regular Army divisions will form the backbone of the Army under plans which call for the release of about 233,800 National Guardsmen and reservists when they have completed their current federal duty.

The Army's chief of training and planning, Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, disclosed this today. He also said that no more National Guard divisions than the six now in service will be called unless the world situation forces more complete military mobilization.

There was no immediate explanation of the effect of today's announcement on the possible use of guard divisions overseas.

Exact Number Withheld

However, one army official said later he would not assume that this precludes possible assignment of at least some of the divisions to overseas duty.

Gen. Taylor said that 98,000 guardsmen in units ranging from small detachments to divisions were on duty at the beginning of this year. This total did not include about 19,800 guard officers and men who entered federal service Jan. 16 with the 31st and 47th National Guard Divisions.

The Army has declined for security reasons, to disclose the exact number of guard and reserve personnel on active duty today.

Gen. Taylor asserted that the Army was now conferring with National Guard and state administrations to solve the problem of what to do with the six guard divisions when they have completed their statutory service. Existing regulations provide that guardsmen and reservists serve 21 months. The universal military service law now being debated in Congress seeks to extend this service to 24 or 27 months.

Laws Provide Return

Present laws also provide the return of National Guard divisions as a whole to the states when they have completed their federal service.

Gen. Taylor said that for historical and for state pride reasons it would probably be best to return the names of the divisions to the states when they came. The Army would hold the framework of their trained strength, however, by giving new regular army designations to the non-guard officers and men now training with the divisions.

Price Of Sunday Sun Increased Five Cents

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers announced today it is increasing the price of the Sunday Sun five cents because of "severe and continuing increases in the cost of operation."

The new prices become effective with next Sunday's editions.

The newspaper delivered by carrier or purchased from dealers or on the street on Sundays will cost 15 cents. The price has been 10 cents.

Purchased from dealers or on the street Saturday evenings, the newspaper will cost 20 cents. It has been 15 cents.

Epidemic Deaths Rise

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 20 (AP)—Deaths from Calcutta's raging smallpox epidemic broke all known records to total 462 for the week ending Feb. 17, it was reported today. This was an increase of 145 over the previous week.

Italian Catholic Action Reports Communism Declining In Europe

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP)—Communism is losing ground throughout Europe, the press office of Italian Catholic Action reported today.

The office, which works under the presidency of the organization, made its findings available after conducting a series of inquiries in Catholic Action circles of other countries.

In France alone, it said, the Communist Party has lost 120,000 members during the past two years.

The office did not estimate the status of the Italian Communist Party, second largest outside the iron curtain. Last month it still claimed 2,500,000 members.

Truman's Troop Stand 'Puzzling'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Former Sen. Hawkes (R-NJ) said today Americans following the Great Debate on foreign policy wonder why President Truman wants to act on his own authority in the troops-for-Europe issue.

Hawkes, one-time president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said he has recently talked with great numbers of Americans on an 8,000-mile trip, and he told a Senate hearing:

"They are all wondering why the President does not crave congressional authorization and approval of such a momentous question as sending hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of our boys into foreign countries to engage in a possible World War III."

Hawkes testified at a hearing on the troops-for-Europe issue before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. He said:

Earlier, Calvin B. Baldwin, secretary of the left-wing Progressive Party, had told the senators that the administration's policy toward Russia is an "utter failure" and is leading this country to war.

Rep. Smith (R-Wis), another witness, declared he would vote against any proposal to send U. S. ground troops to Europe, but said he would be willing to send big air and naval forces there.

Plot To Deliver Inferior Meats To Army Bared

Packing Firm, Two Soldiers Accused

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20 (AP) — A meat packing firm and two soldiers today were charged with a $1,000,000 conspiracy to deliver inferior meats to the Army.

The group was indicted by a federal grand jury and accused of "a scheme to defraud the government."

Acting U. S. Attorney Grover Richman estimated the amount of the alleged conspiracy at $1,000,000.

"Corrupted" Inspectors

Ben Grunstein and Sons Co., of Hoboken, N. J., the Justice Department said, had "corrupted the Army inspectors" by gifts of money and payments in order to have them approve for "delivery to the Army large quantities of inferior meat."

In addition, those named in the indictment were the firm's vice president and secretary, William Grunstein, 37; former Army Capt. John F. Jones, 29, Easton, Md., and Army Sgt. Samuel A. Auman, 35, Dothan, Ala.

A spokesman at the firm's office declined comment.

These were the general allegations contained in the indictment, the Justice Department said:

Jones Accepted $600

Jones and Auman were assigned to inspect Army conrtact meats at the Grunstein plant at various times between April 1, 1947 and May 1, 1950.

Auman received between $50 and $100 a week from company officials, and Jones accepted $600 from the company to finish paying for an automobile.

If convicted under the indictment, the company could be fined up to $30,000; Grunstein would be subject to $30,000 in fines and 20 years imprisonment; and each of the Army men would be subject to $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

"World's Smallest Woman" Is Expectant

LOUISIANA, Mo., Feb. 20 (AP) — The woman who claims she is the "smallest woman in the world" is expectant.

She is Mrs. Lavonda Evans, 31, years old and about 24 inches tall.

Private Bill Gave Vaughan Secretary U. S. Citizenship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The White House confirmed today that a pretty 41-year-old Australian brunette, who became a permanent resident of the United States under special legislation passed by Congress, is acting as secretary to President Truman's Army aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

The secretary is Mrs. Veronica Jolly, a $4,600-a-year civilian employe of the Army. She served with a long series of high-ranking American officers in the Pacific during World War II.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told a news conference that Mrs. Jolly was assigned to the White House on Dec. 1.

Cholly Knickerbocker, columnist for the New York Journal-American, wrote in the newspaper yesterday that "a former Australian who got her United States citizenship in no time at all" had set the capital "buzzing."

The column went on to say that the White House was "whispering about Harry Vaughan's beautiful private secretary who was rushed into her American citizenship and is now firmly established in the White House."

When a reporter asked whether it was a policy to offer a national of another country a job inside the White House, Short replied:

"She was engaged as secretary for generals during a critical war handling much more confidential matters than she is handling in the White House."

Targets North Of 38th Blasted By 'Mighty Mo'

Allies Erase Dent In Central Front

TOKYO, Wednesday, Feb. 21 (AP)—A day-long bombardment by the battleship Missouri 170 miles north of the 38th parallel was announced today as the Allies carried the fight to the Reds in Korea by land, air and sea.

A quick rundown of the three-way initiative:

Naval—The 45,000-ton "Big Mo" Tuesday blasted bridges and other targets at Tanchon on the northeast coast. To the south, other warships shelled the big east coast port of Wonsan for the seventh straight day.

Planes Fly 875 Sorties

Air—Allied warplanes flew 875 sorties Tuesday and spotted more enemy tanks than they have seen since mid-December. They knocked out six and damaged three.

Allied troops in the Chechon area erased a deep dent in the front.

North Korean troops broke and ran in the face of a tank-and-artillery-powered U. S. task force which hammered out the dent, once 10 miles deep.

The task force then captured Chuchon, 10 miles north of Chechon. The North Koreans in their push had closely menaced Chechon, road and rail key to any enemy advance into South Korea.

A U. S. Tenth Corps briefing officer said the enemy was pulling out of positions around Chuchon which is 18 miles east southeast of pivotal Wonju in the mountains.

Reds Sighted Moving North

Air observers reported sighting 20 Communist groups ranging from 200 to 300 men moving northward throughout the day up snow-crusted mountain trails.

On the west central front Associated Press War Correspondent Tom Bradshaw said strong reconnaissance patrols pushed five miles northeast of Chipyong before smashing into Chinese rear guards covering the main Chinese route of withdrawal toward the 38th parallel.

On the western front American, British and Turkish troops brought their lines up tight against the icy Han River in a continuous line all the way from Central Korea to Seoul and the Yellow Sea.

These frontline developments gave dramatic emphasis to Gen. MacArthur's personal order to field commanders to resume the offensive against the Communists.

MacArthur's order was given during his 11th visit to the Korean war front Tuesday for a first hand inspection of the central sector.

Two "Unidentified" Planes Bomb Allies

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Feb. 21 (Wednesday) (INS)—Army authorities disclosed today that two "unidentified" twin-engine bombers dropped an undetermined number of bombs Tuesday night in the Chuchon area on the Korean central front near Chechon.

"All About Eve" Wins Film Writers Award

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20 (INS) — Hollywood screen writers held their annual awards party tonight and named "All About Eve" the best-written comedy and "Sunset Boulevard" the best written drama of the year.

Prize-winners were Joseph Mankiewicz and Mary Orr for "All About Eve"; Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder and D. M. Marshman Jr. for "Sunset Boulevard"; Michael Blankfort and Elliott Arnold for "Broken Arrow," best written western; and Carl Foreman for "The Man," which captured the Screen Writers' Guild's top trophy, the Robert Meltzer award for the picture which "best depicts the American scene."

Compromise UMST Bill Is Made Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — A compromise universal military service bill, providing for the drafting of youths at 18½ and lengthening the active service from 21 to 27 months, was made public today by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee.

Witness At Tax Hearing Quizzed About Loyalty

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — A labor union witness advocating reduced taxes for low income groups ran into questions from the House Ways and Means Committee today about his loyalty to the U. S.

Russ Nixon, Washington representative of the United Electrical Workers Union, denied that he is a Communist but protested answering further questions about whether he had ever been one.

Nixon was in the midst of a statement on President Truman's request for $16,500,000,000 new taxes when he was interrupted by Rep. Harrison (D-Va). Nixon had been advocating considerably higher tax exemptions for lower income groups.

Harrison said he thought it was important to determine whether Nixon was primarily interested in the well-being of this country or some other country. Nixon said he didn't understand the question, so Harrison asked:

"Are you a member of the Communist Party?"

"No Sir," Nixon replied.

"Well, have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?"

"I think my answer was adequate. I told you that I am not a member. I'm not going into a whole train of discussion on that."

Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa.) supported Nixon's contention that he should not be asked about political connections, but should be allowed to resume his tax recommendations. But Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he wouldn't attempt to curb the questioning.

Nixon's union was driven out of the CIO on grounds that its leadership was pro-Communist, a point raised by several committee members. Nixon, however, said the union "is a loyal group of American citizens, and so am I."

Several committee members suggested that Nixon be invited to leave the witness stand without concluding his testimony, but Chairman Doughton let him finish.

State Office Building Bill Strikes Constitutional Snag

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — A bill to locate part of any new state office buildings in Annapolis ran into a sudden dead end against the Constitution today.

The Senate had appeared on the verge of adopting the bill's favorable report tomorrow. Then the Senate was pointedly reminded the Constitution forbids consideration of any appropriation bills until the budget is passed.

The sponsor now is forced to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee tomorrow, and then to kill it. Then he'll start all over again by introducing a similar bill that will have to await the final few days of the 90-day session for action.

The Senate Finance Committee, over charges of "railroading," approved the bill containing an appropriation of $5,000,000 this morning. Its sponsor, Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), and Finance Chairman Goldstein (D-Calvert) opposed vigorously a motion to delay Senate action even one day.

They finally agreed to wait until tomorrow for a Senate vote, but Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) already had hinted it might be unconstitutional.

Over in the House Ways and Means Committee, Delegate Whitworth (R-Allegany) argued successfully for favorable report on a bill to eliminate the $2,500 state commissioner of tobacco marketing.

Spokesmen for labor and insurance companies disagreed before the committee over a proposed sickness insurance plan.

Labor representatives said working people not in voluntary sick benefit plans are entitled to aid. The Baltimore Association of Commerce and two insurance groups called the plan "socialistic."

They were arguing on a bill to impose a one per cent payroll tax, divided equally by employer and employe, to create a sickness insurance fund.

State Senators Favor 3-Year Assessment

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP)—A compromise plan for reassessing property every three years was favored today by the State Senate.

It is a compromise between the present system of assessing every five years and a bill to do it every year.

Senator from 20 of the 23 counties and the six from Baltimore City approved the three-year plan in a closed session. Sen. Sybert (D-Howard), chairman of a finance subcommittee working on a compromise, said only one county senator favored retention of the five-year system.

It is planned to divide each county and Baltimore City into three taxing districts instead of the present five. Each will be assessed in turn.

But the assessments will not be used for the basis of taxation until all three have been surveyed. All the assessments will be made on the basis of full market value during one of the three years.

Bills Would Increase Teachers' Pensions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — Three bills to raise the pensions of retired school teachers were introduced today by Delegate Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges).

One would give supplementary payments varying from 10 per cent to flat $300 a year increases.

Ex-Soldier At 13 Gets Home Late

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)— Brooklyn's 13-year-old soldier got home tonight, eight hours late but in time to stop his father from sending a posse after him.

The Army, said Eight-Grader George Raymundo, Jr., is "pretty tough," but he plans to rejoin as soon as he is 17.

Meanwhile, he'll go back to school.

George arrived home just as his father was getting ready to start a new search for him, speculating that "he's probably gone to California to try to get into the Army again."

But George explained it was just a mixup over train schedules.

The boy got into the Army with an altered birth certificate saying he was 18.

After his father tracked him down, the Army discharged him yesterday from the Army Proving Grounds at Aberdeen, Md.

He told his father by telephone he wanted to stay overnight and say goodbye to his Army buddies, and would arrive here by train at 1 p. m. (EST) today.

Three and a half hours and a half dozen trains later, Raymundo, Sr., was still waiting at Pennsylvania Station. He gave up and went home.

'Flu Cases Rise Sharply At Philadelphia, Fort Dix

[By The Associated Press]

A sharp upsurge of colds and influenza cases was reported by Philadelphia and a New Jersey Army camp, and other areas still have more than the usual number of stricken. The outbreaks in some sections of the nation, however, seemed to be dying down.

Philadelphia hung up an unwanted record of the most influenza cases since 1943, and the number of patients at Fort Dix, N. J., hit a three-week high.

Troops exposed to England's recent epidemic are believed to have brought back influenza to Fort Dix, N. J., where the number of patients yesterday jumped to 916.

Doctors insisted there was no epidemic but banned visitors at the post hospital.

Several barracks across from the hospital have been turned into wards and 192 fresh cases, including soldiers, their wives and children, were admitted to the hospital by midnight last night.

Philadelphia reported 34 new cases Monday, bringing the total since Jan. 1 to 202. Last year over the same period, there were 12 cases. Six grade schools suspended classes because of absentees.

Stock Market Booms As People Put More Money In It Than Ever Before

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK—(AP)—If you've got any extra money kicking around, would the stock market be the place for it?

More people right now apparently are putting more of their cash money into the stock market than ever before.

Why?

Fear of the ravages of inflation is one popular answer. By that is meant the fear that the purchasing power of the dollar will decline still further and that certain types of common stocks will provide a satisfactory hedge against inflation. Everybody knows that the dollar won't buy as much today as it did ten years ago. Lots of folks say we have a 50-cent dollar. Perhaps we have, give or take a few cents.

In any event, holding on to dollars isn't profitable. If your dollar isn't working it isn't earning any money.

You certainly have a safe and liquid investment when you hold dollars. Is there anything safer or more readily available than an iron pot full of silver dollars buried in your basement?

Silver dollars are pretty imperishable things in themselves, and the value of the melted down silver alone is worth nearly 70 cents!

Or suppose you put your money ten years ago into the highest yield government bond — the "E" bond. It would pay off 2.9 per cent today. That's the return when you get back $100 in ten years for your original $75.

And now this stock market thing. Suppose you put your money into common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange back in 1941. Prices in the stock market in 1941, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, hit a high point for 1951 — $96.90.

If you had "bought the averages" so to speak, back in 1941 you could have sold ten years later at a profit of more than 115 per cent.

Not all common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange went up that high in ten years. Some went considerably higher. Others didn't do so well.

All the while your dollars would have been growing in the stock market, and they would have been working and earning money.

The New York Stock Exchange shows that of the 1,039 common stocks listed on the exchange at the start of this year, 930 of them paid cash dividends in 1950. The median rate of return last year was 6.7 per cent.

On the same basis your money would have earned 9.3 per cent back in 1941, the highest rate of return in the last ten years. The lowest was 3.6 per cent in 1945.

There are two things to consider in buying common stocks—income and capital appreciation — and neither one is guaranteed.

You get as much guarantee of a profit in the stock market as you do in any business. In fact you might say "exactly as much as in any business" because common stocks represent ownership of business itself.

Can you "lose your shirt" in the stock market? You certainly can. But as things are today you would have to be mighty stupid to be "wiped out" in the sense that you would lose everything.

To begin with, members of the New York Exchange stress investment and not speculation in their approach to the general public. They aren't interested in getting the business of the so-called "little fellow" who "wants to take a flier."

You just can't walk into a broker's office and demand that he take your order. He can—and will—refuse to do business with you for any number of reasons, including the fact that he might not think it wise for you to put your money into the stock market.

Don't get the idea that brokers stand at their doors with baseball bats to keep people away. Brokers like customers.

The New York Stock Exchange and its members spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year to educate the public in the ways of the stock market.

Ask any broker about any company, and he immediately will make available to you all of the information on the company that is available to anybody including the president of the New York Stock Exchange himself.

Then you make your own decision, with the help of your broker, about what to do with your spare cash. And don't be surprised if he recommends that you leave it in your savings account or buy government bonds.

But if you do invest in stocks, what do you want? An old-line dividend payer? There is one that's been paying every year for more than 100 years. About 90 per cent of the common stocks listed on the stock exchange paid cash dividends last year. The total came to $5,403,664,000.

Or do you want the investment type, the liberal income stock, the good quality issue, or the speculative security? They all are for sale, and they sell fast.

In fact last year the volume of trading was the highest since 1933. It totaled 524,799,621 shares. The biggest year on record was 1929 when trading piled up to the total of 1,124,800,410 shares.

Medical Manpower

The military force of 3½ million, now scheduled for mid-1951, will require the services of 13,000 doctors, 6,500 dentists, and 16,000 nurses. These are the estimates of the Defense Department, which has authority to call on Selective Service for doctors and dentists, but not nurses, if requirements are not filled through volunteering.

The medical men needed before the first of July represent something over eight per cent of all doctors and dentists now in private practice in the United States. The very much larger numbers that would be needed under full mobilization are compelling consideration of how best to meet military requirements without reducing health care of the civilian population to the danger point.

Expanding military calls on the nation's resources in health personnel come at a time when these resources are already inadequate in some sections. Sixteen states have over twice as many people per doctor in private practice as New York, where the doctor-population ratio is most favorable. Twenty-one states have twice as many people per dentist. The shortage of nurses is widespread. Generally speaking, urban areas are better supplied than rural districts.

Whether or not the present overall supply is adequate for civilian needs in peacetime, there is no question that even the largest cities would suffer acute shortages of health personnel in case of enemy attack. Telling of health planning by the National Security Resources Board, Dr. H. A. Rusk said, January 9: "We realized we coud not be profligate again, as we were in the last war, for if we got into a catastrophe it would be a different kind of a blow, and we would not have enough facilities to do the job." The President in his State of the Union message called for legislation "to increase the supply of doctors, nurses, and other trained personnel critically needed for the defense effort."

Before commencement of the current rearmament program, the U.S. Public Health Service estimated that, at current rates of graduation from medical schools, the country would be short 15,000 doctors, 5,000 dentists and perhaps 50,000 nurses by 1960. Now it is estimated that the doctor shortage will exceed the figure estimated for 1960 in 1954 if the armed services are expanded at an annual rate of 500,000 after mid-1951.

Proposals for enlarging the country's resources of medical personnel must reckon with the fact that the professional schools are now operating at capacity and the further fact that most of them are operating in the red. Last year's deficits of the 79 approved medical colleges were estimated at $10 million, about a fifth of their combined budgets. Three-quarters of the qualified appicants for enrollment were turned away. Bills now awaiting action by Congress would authorize federal grants to professional schools to help meet the widening gap between cost of instruction and income available from tuition, endowment, and other sources. Also proposed is rapid expansion of training facilities for practical nurses.

The Army has estimated its present requirements on the basis of four doctors, two dentists and five nurses per 1,000 servicemen. These ratios, particularly for doctors, have been criticized in Congress as needlessly extravagant and far out of line with the peacetime ratio of one doctor to about 1,000 civilians.

In support of the 4 : 1,000 ratio, the Army points out that the military medical officer, in addition to caring for battle casualties, must control living conditions of the men in his charge and exercise other preventive techniques which are usually outside the civilian doctor's responsibilities.

To safeguard civilians, the National Security Resources Board has set up a health advisory committee which, with affiliated state citizen committees, will classify health personnel as either essential to their local communities or available for military service. This committee will advise Selective Service if the doctor-dentist draft law is invoked. According to the Defense Department, drafting cannot be long delayed unless there is a rapid step up in the rate of volunteering.

Nothing On Faith

With the peope of the United States facing an unprecedented burden of taxation, Congress will be acting in the public interest if it accepts nothing on faith. Demands for money for defense should be no less carefully scrutinized than demands for money for the regular operations of the government.

There are indications that Congress may follow such a course. Representative Sheppard, Democrat, chairman of a House subcommittee on appropriations, says no item will be cleared solely because it bears a "defense" label. Representative Taber, Republican, promises similar attention to details.

It is no criticism of the men of the military establishment to suggest that there may be a certain amount of "fat" in the military budget. They believe in playing it safe at all times. As a result they are in the habit of overestimating their financial needs and adding a few millions here and there in order to provide an emergency cushion.

In these days, however, the government must cut its cloth a little closer than that. Nobody is in favor of neglecting the national defense and it must have a priority status, but taxpayers certainly do not want to see money thrown away.

The proper course, then, is for Congress to assume that there is nothing sacred about any budget, whether military or civilian.

Treaty's Anniversary

It was just a year ago that Communist China and Soviet Russia became formally allied. To mark the anniversary, Stalin and Mao Tse-tung have exchanged congratulatory telegrams. Mao's said that the Chinese-Soviet treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual aid has been "not only a great help to the reconstruction of a new China, but also a powerful assurance in opposing aggression and maintaining peace and security in the Far East and the world."

Stalin's wire is reported to have expressed the belief that the treaty will be beneficial to friendship between the two nations "and to world peace."

These messages hold grim irony for the non-Communist world. The treaty, which Russian and Chinese leaders so proudly hail, has brought Asia not peace but a bitter war. It has given the Chinese confidence to embark on aggressive ventures on several fronts. And it is threatening to plunge the world into another global war.

In the doubletalk of communism, this is the equivalent of bringing peace and prosperity to Asia and the world!

The Course Of Migraine Headache

ALTHOUGH MAN PRIDES himself on using his head, the structure is one of his greatest sources of annoyance. A day rarely passes in the life of a busy physician when he is not consulted about headache. It may be the only complaint or one of many stemming from a more generalized disorder.

The migranous type is not the most serious but is one of the most bothersome. Since the discovery that it involves the blood vessels of the head, many remedies have been devised. Ergotamine preparations, for example, help 70 to 90 per cent of all victims. Nicotinic acid dilates the blood vessels and often gives relief. Histamine azoprotein is another drug that is being tried with encouraging recults. In addition, more is known about the possible role of allergy, water retention, and the emotional factors. In this respect, greater assistance can be given to the sufferer than ever before.

There are three phases of migraine. The first is constriction of the blood vessels of the brain causing a reduced blood flow to this organ. These spasms are responsible for the bizarre and unusual sensations (the aura) preceding the period of distress, including spots before the eyes, blurred vision, and sensitivity to light. Occasionally irritability, fatigue, restlessness, and inability to concentrate are noted.

To an old victim of migraine, symptoms of this nature mean that headache is in the making and, within three to 10 hours, it will strike with fury. This is the second and most unpleasant phase of the condition. It results from dilatation, or stretching, of the blood vessels, which produces excruciating headache, first on one side and later over the whole head and neck. Pain is throbbing and, with each pulsation of the heart, the roof of the head feels as though it were about to come off. Speech is disturbed, the hands and feet may feel numb, and confusion sometimes occurs. Many encounter nausea and vomiting, which seem to ease distress.

In the third, or last stage, the arteries return to normal. This is accompanied by a letdown feeling and the individual becomes exhausted and often breaks out into profuse perspiration.

• — • — •

Heredity appears to play a role, as many tell of having a relative who is bothered. Sometimes authorities have come to the conclusion that symptoms are more severe when the condition is inherited from the paternal side. There also may be a family history of allergy or epilepsy. Many sufferers have similar personality traits and, as a result, authorities have coined the term, "migraine personality." These persons are perfectionists who develop headaches when the going is tough or things do not turn out as they should. The tension created affects the vasomotor system and leads to the changes described in the arteries of the brain.

STERN PAPA

Mrs. B. writes: Does the emotional outlook of a new father improve as more children come along? My son-in-law is so hard on his first child that he has us all upset.

REPLY

Not necessarily, except that as many of us gain in experience we become more mellow. In this respect every succeeding child appears to be handled with greater ease. On the other hand, any man who becomes emotionally disturbed over the responsibility of one child will not improve having two. If anything, he becomes worse. Furthermore, it might be advisable to have the problem analyzed by an expert who will be able to determine the father's side of the story as well as yours.

What is your blood count? Cherry red lips occur in carbon monoxide poisoning and if you work in a garage or as a traffic cop on a busy intersection, this disorder should be considered. If your lips are dark red or have a bluish cast, this may mean that you have too many red cells (polycythemia) or suffer from a heart or lung ailment. These possibilities should make you see the advantage of consulting a physician.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The bitter row over labor participation in the mobilization picture boils down partly to a clash with Gen. Lucius Clay, former military governor of Germany, now right-hand man to Defense Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson. There is also a lot of peeve against Harry S. Truman personally.

Clay, a hard-hitting, hard-working Army officer, accustomed to giving and taking orders, was continually clashing with civilians when he served as right-hand man to War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes in World War II. Later, while in Germany, he established what is probably a record for any American official. He cabled his resignation to the State Department as military governor of Germany three times in one day.

Illustrative of Clay's difficulties with labor leaders is one backstage incident involving the appointment of a manpower commissioner.

President Truman had telephoned Mobilization Czar Wilson asking him to appoint ex-Sen. Frank Graham of North Carolina as manpower commissioner. Former president of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Graham served as a member of the War Labor Board in World War II and played a potent part in keeping labor relations on an even keel.

Wilson, seemed to welcome Truman's suggestion, but later, when Graham called on Wilson and General Clay, the latter made it clear that Graham would be only one of six assistants, and would report not to Mobilizer Boss Wilson but to Clay through Wall Street Investment Banker Sidney Weinberg.

Under these hamstringing conditions, Graham politely declined.

NOTE — Graham subsequently went to Alaska, showed how skillful he was in handling labor relations by smoothing out a difficult situation threatening to stop vital construction of Air Force housing and Army fortifications.

Clay Stages A Vishinsky

On another occasion General Clay had called a closed-door conference attended by Secretary of Labor Tobin, Selective Service Director Hershey and Presidential Aide Daniel H. Stowe, to discuss manpower problems.

Clay, at that time, was all set to announce his own man as manpower commissioner, but he had scarcely begun to talk when White House Assistant Stowe interruped. He advised that he had instructions from the President that the manpower commissionership was not to be discussed.

Stowe did not say so, but the President know, even then, how vigorously labor felt on the subject, and he did not want General Clay dictating the appointment.

Faced with this message from the White House, Clay got red under the collar and stamped out.

Later he got his way. His own candidate, Arthur Flemming, of the Civil Service Commission, because manpower commissioner—after being pushed through by Wilson himself.

This is one of the reasons labor is so sore.

Big Business Tycoons

Another reason is the number of big business tycoons around Wilson and the manner in which they dominate the mobilization picture. Here are some of them:

General Clay, on leave from Continental Can; Fred Searls, on leave from Newmont Mining, a J. P. Morgan firm; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs, investment bankers; Howard Chase, of General Mills; Alfred Howse, of the Forest Land Development Co., general economic adviser to Wilson. The operations of Weinberg's Goldman, Sachs investment house during the depression, incidentally, was one of the reasons why Congress passed the Securities and Exchange Act.

While these are skilled businessmen, they serve as "no-dollar" men. In other words, they are paid not by the government but by their own companies, thus are in the difficult position of serving one master but being paid by another.

These businessmen can do an important job for their government, but they need to be counterbalanced by labor representatives. Roosevelt appointed labor men among the top executives of war mobilization, so labor was always a part of the war effort. Now labor has scarcely been consulted.

Long Tom Connally

Sen. "Long Tawm" Connally of Texas is famous for his gruff side remarks, but it wasn't until the hearing on Atlantic Pact strategy that one of his remarks made television.

The colorful Texan was presiding at the Joint Foreign Relations-Armed Services quiz of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As he called the roll, and came to the name of crime-busting Sen. Estes Kefauver, there was silence. "He's off chasing crap-shooters," Connally grumbled into an open microphone.

There were roars of laughter from the audience. "That's off the record," boomed "Long Tawm," and went on.

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE Great Debate has reached the stage of formal hearings before committees of Congress. This will be followed by debate in that body, crystallizing of opinion both there and among the people and ultimate action by Congress.

This was apparently not contemplated by the Administration heads who planned the project of sending troops to Europe and were in process of carrying it out when ex-President Hoover's December 20 speech precipitated public concern and gave rise to the debate. These were presumably President Truman and the heads of the appropriate departments in his Administration, Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. They apparently contemplated, certainly President Truman obviously did, that the troops would be sent by order of the President, that approval would not be asked of Congress.

The project was portentous, it was by no means adequately described by the phrase "troops to Europe." It was to send unspecified numbers of American troops to Europe there to remain indefinitely as part of a joint permanent standing army which would be subject to unforeseeable contingencies. The contingency against which this army was being created was war, and if war should come it was to be expected that installments of American troops would be sent. All this was to be done as an act of the Administration without participation by Congress.

Indignant Rejection

After Mr. Hoover's December 20 speech and alarmed public reaction, it was proposed that President Truman should ask approval of Congress. To this Mr. Truman's desponse was almost indignant rejection. He assumed that sending the troops was his prerogative as President, and for that assumption had some technical Constitutional justification. As for the unforeseeable train of possible consequences that made the present project extraordinary, apparently Mr. Truman's imagination did not take that in.

In Mr. Truman's early resistance to letting Congress have a part in the decision about sending troops to Europe lies the overall tragedy of our time. Under our political system the country has a President who, having been in control of our foreign relations for nearly six years, will continue in control for two years more. His past six years have been an era of tragedy, his Administration covers the whole period during which our relations with Russia have deteriorated into what amounts to war, with us at a disadvantage. The country, tragically aware of the fact, naturally feels the emotion and intellectual reaction that is an inevitable consequence. It is contrary to ordinary human judgment and common sense that the Administration which made mistakes should be entrusted with the course which must be devised as a consequence of the mistakes.

This is recognized in countries having parliamentary government such as Britain, where an administration in office can be displaced and another substituted by simple passage of a resolution in the House of Commons. When Chamberlain, conducting relations with Hitler, appeased him to bring about "peace in our time" and the appeasement turned out vain, Chamberlain was replaced with Churchill without commotion or loss of time.

Should Be Humble

For Mr. Truman in the present condition the appropriate attitude would be humility. He is not President at this time as the outcome of a recent election nor is he the present expression of proponderant public opinion, he is President because our political system prescribes fixed Presidential terms. He cannot be unaware that he can hardly command preponderant confidence on the part of the people. He must recognize indeed that the great wish and need of a deeply disquieted people is for rescue from a kind of situation which Mr. Walter Lippmann eloquently described the other day as "where the people no longer knew where to look for leadership in time of trouble."

To give the people solace from their disquiet ought to be Mr. Truman's dominating purpose. Practical expression of it would call for deference to Congress. Though he cannot as President surrender prerogatives conferred on him by the Constitution, he can waive meticulous exercises of them. When the matter of sending troops to Europe came up, his prompt attitude should have been to ask approval of Congress even though he felt sure that the Constitution did not require him to. On the contrary his early attitude (though he has modified it since) was one of truculent insistence on his prerogatives. When Mr. Truman seemed unwilling to defer to Congress, that body came to the determination to exercise a larger part in foreign relations than it has hitherto thought of. The new attitude applies not only to the Senate, which has considerable Constitutional authority in foreign relations, but to the House which has power as a forum of public opinion and by its control of the purse.

2 Precedents May Arise To Plague Defense Effort

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — Two very bad precedents have been recorded in the last few days which can rise to plague the whole defense effort.

One is a walk-out on the Wage Stabilization Board aimed really at the absence of a labor man at the top level in the Defense Mobilization Office. Even though the government has gone to the only place where it could possibly go to find management ability to supervise the production program for defense, labor thinks this management function must somehow be divided and an equal voice given to labor.

The other precedent is a repudiation of signatures affixed by the presidents of four railroad unions at a White House conference with Mediator Steelman and the claim that no union agreement is valid unless ratified by another group of representatives with presumably higher authority.

Way Open For Delays

This opens the way for management representatives to do the same thing. They, too, apparently now can sign agreements and, if their higher officials don't like them, cry out that the agreements were only "tentative" and subject to ratification. Thus a board of directors of a big corporation can upset the applecart by claiming that the president of a company either exceeded his authority or that he was acting only on the assumption that his board of directors would later have a chance to approve or disapprove. Conceivably the way is open to stockholders to go still further and by their vote reject an agreement approved by a board of directors.

The truth of the matter is that collective bargaining is doomed if it runs up against such a blind alley. Labor union chiefs might well ponder what they are doing to the cause of collective bargaining by reversing their historic attitude in support of the viewpoint which it has taken so long for the National Labor Relations Board and the courts to establish—namely, that the employer is responsible for the acts of his agents even down to the foreman. Certainly no NLRB or court decision would ever hold that the agreement made by a bona fide negotiating committee for the employer was without binding effect.

The railroad brotherhoods are among the oldest and hitherto have been considered among the best of America's trade unions. Their record for honorable dealing has been without blemish. But now the brotherhoods are in the public position of claiming that a signature by a union president who has been negotiating for his union isn't worth its weight in fountain-pen ink.

Much more realistic is the view that any negotiating representative who isn't fully acquainted in advance with the limits that will be acceptable to his union should not have been entrusted with the task of negotiation in the first place. There is need for a further examination of the powers of negotiating representatives before they enter mediation conferences on disputes which, if unsettled, can bring hundreds of millions of dollars of losses to innocent bystanders.

The revolt against the Wage Stabilization Board appointed by Defense Mobilizer Wilson is a step calculated by the labor union leaders to force a division in the management of the defense program. They openly concede they are not objecting so much to the 10 per cent formula for wage controls as they are to the process by which it was made. They are attacking Mr. Wilson for venturing even to suggest the program for consideration by the wage board. The two-headed Hillman-Knudsen arrangement in the last war didn't work, and such a set-up will not work this time.

Up To Truman

Equal representation with management on boards that decide labor questions is the unequivocal right of labor unions, but this is as far as labor representation should go unless labor can come forward with someone of the managerial genius of Charles E. Wilson of General Electric. In such a contingency the genius, no matter where he came from, should have complete control at the top, just as Mr. Wilson has today. The latter was appointed because he knows how to exercise management functions and how to deal with managements which are entrusted with billions of defense orders. He wasn't chosen for ideological reasons, and any effort to make it appear that way merely breeds dissension and makes impossible an efficient set-up at the top level.

If political pressure is to decide who shall really manage the defense program, then defeat on the production front is a distinct possibility. The mere fact that the labor unions are running to Mr. Truman in the hope of exerting political pressure is a sign that they think that's the way to get one of their partisans appointed to coequal authority with Mr. Wilson. It remains to be seen how Mr. Truman will react to this pressure.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Reading And Writing

LIKE MOST in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laboriously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor Semitic nor Slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of non-objective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three verticle lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M," I am often prevented from

Daily Lenten Devotional

And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made.

Acts 16:13 (K. J. V.)
Read Matthew 17:14—21;
Timothy 2:1—8

One can hardly think of Jesus facing life and its problems without praying. It was communion with his Father that gave a lift to his soul, courage to his sometimes fainting heart, strengthened his belief in the rightness of his cause, and gave poise to his wavering spirit.

Nor can one think of the early Church attempting to carry on in the face of tremendous odds without its handful of believers joining their hearts in common prayer for each other, and finding their way through to God, who alone could sustain them in their hour of peril and cheer their hearts as they followed on in the cause to which they were committed.

Has the Church of our time outgrown the necessity of prayer? When a cause needs support do we pray or do we engage in a controversy? When a great movement such as church unity comes to the fore, do we pray God to show us the way, or do we ask God to sustain us in our little opinions?

Let Us Pray: O Lord and Master of mankind, we would still our hearts and calm our spirits as we wait in they presence. Make known thy way unto us, and grant us an abundance of thy Holy Spirit, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Bull Wrestler— A Philadelphia Story

BILL McCARNEY, the old Carpetbagger, had more color than the prize fighters he managed, and some of them looked like rainbows at that. Once he thought he had a heavyweight champion in big, handsome Luther McCarthy, and he matched him against Arthur Pelkey, believing it would be a waltz. Instead the underdog hit McCarthy a punch from which he never recovered, killing him in the ring.

To sit down with Mr. McCarney for an evening when he was on fire was like listening to O. Henry and Damon Runyon telling their own stories of the town, and the sports and other characters who made up its roster. There is one tale which sticks in my memory about a Mexican who appeared in his Philadelphia office one day, and found our hero in a low state of mind.

"I don't want to book any more foreign punks," said Mr. McCarney, taking the offensive.

"No. I fight the bull," replied his caller who was dressed for the part, high-heeled boots and all.

"Yeh, but it's against the law in this town, brother," answered the unemployed impresario, brushing off the applicant.

"But I wrestle him. The police can't kick."

McCarney pricked up his ears. Times were hard, so he made a percentage deal. His star produced lurid-looking posters which were pretty gory, and these were pasted around the city, announcing a fearless toreador would wrestle a vicious bull at the risk of his life. The gendarmes called on the promoter, and it took some fast talking to convince them it would be an entertainment as harmless as a match at tiddlywinks. A chute was built into the ring for the grand entrance of the party of the second part. The day before the show, the Mexican called on Billy.

"Have you got the bull?" he asked.

This came as a surprise and shock, like producing Hamlet without Hamlet.

"I figured you furnished him," countered Mr. McCarney.

"You think I keep one around with me in my hotel bedroom?" he asked.

The boss called the stockyards in North Philadelphia and found they had collected overnight some mild-mannered steers, and he dispatched two messengers to bring the wildest looking one to his showroom. In a couple of hours his agents returned leading a bedraggled, limping animal which seemed to have gotten sore feet enroute.

"Well, he's here," said the men triumphantly, "but we had a hell of a time making it, because he didn't want to walk, and we had to pull and push him most of the way. He stopped once and held up a street car for ten mintues." This didn't sound too promising.

"Feed him up good," advised McCarney and touched a luck charm he always carried in his pocket.

The house was crowded for the unique show, and everything was set to touch it off. The Mexican had strutted around the ring bowing right and left and there was a fanfare for the "bull's" grand entrance, as the spectators, on the edges of their seats, looked to the head of the chute, but nothing happened. A voice was heard to say,

"Give him a shove."

Finally the animal strolled down and into the ring, while the toreador began to circle him with the steer paying no attention, only looking around as if counting the house. At last the star closed in, grabbed his horns, and began to act like Gorgeous George. McCarney felt it was too risky to stay and retired to the box office, crouching under the counter, so he could not be found when his customers demanded their money back as he expected they would. Suddenly the show broke up, and the crowd started out. He heard one man say,

"Greatest thing I ever saw. Wonder he wasn't killed." Others echoed these enthusiastic sentiments as they passed. The promoter moved into the lobby, strolling around bowing and beaming. It was a success. That is only one of the many stories about the old carpetbagger of the prize ring.

George Washington, visiting Barbados in 1751 on his only trip abroad, commented that the island's rum was of excellent quality but "extravagantly dear"—at two shillings a gallon! Under Washington as first President, notes the National Geographic Society, two shillings were equivalent to the exorbitant sum of 45 cents in United States coin.

The Customer is the real Boss at Amcelle

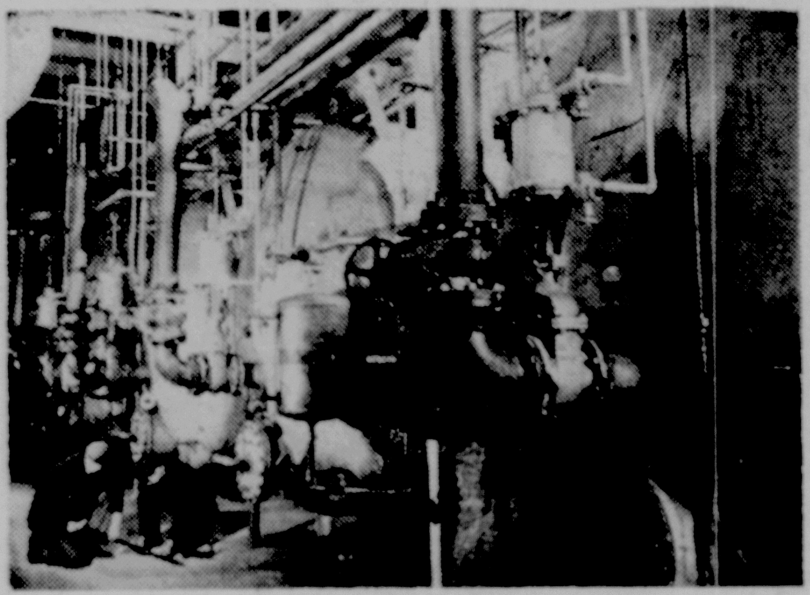
Jobs depend on customers, the people who buy what we have for sale.

Customers decide how much acetate yarn we'll make, and what kinds, for there's no sense in making anything they don't want. By buying, or by not buying, they also decide how many of us will work, and at what wages.

The simple truth is that without customers there can be no jobs.

It all comes down to this. Wages and jobs in any business depend on how well the product meets the customer's idea of price and quality. We at Amcelle have to produce quality yarns at prices customers are able and willing to pay, or see orders go to some competitor.

On the other hand, the higher the quality and the lower the cost of production, the more competitive Amcelle and the corporation can be. Which is another way of saying "job security." Customers help to decide on that, too!



Celanese
CORPORATION OF AMERICA
AMCELLE PLANT

Into the price of food, automobiles, acetate yarn, or any other product, go all the costs of running the business. Wages, materials, machinery, maintenance, taxes, sales and other costs—but you don't add them together to get a selling price. That figure is set by the public.

No product, however desirable, can be sold for long at too high a price. If a manufacturer, or a dealer, charges too much, the customers just stop buying. Goods pile up on the shelves and the manufacturer's business slows down or stops.

Only prices that customers are willing to pay will attract the buyers who make it possible for a business to continue to provide jobs and pay wages. Employees thus have a personal stake in helping their company cut production cost. Lower cost means more customers, and steadier jobs.

400 Attend 4-HSponsored Style Revue

A style review, sponsored by the Allegany 4-H Trail, was held Saturday with approximately 400 4-Her and Homemakers from Allegany and Garrett counties attending.

Miss Thelma J. Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, welcomed the group and introduced Miss Helen Shelby, state extension clothing specialist from the University of Maryland; and Miss Ada May Marshall, who acted as moderator for the program.

All models were Allegany county 4-H Girls.

An all wool traveling suit, with reversible topper, checked on one side and Navy on the other was modeled by Khrista McKenzie. With it she wore a white pique vestee bouse. Celeste Steiding showed a beige and brown wool suit with a button detail in a vertical line in the back of the slim skirt. The jacket is of contrasting brown and white check. Marlene Wilson wore skirt and blouse of cocoa brown eyelet, and a short white pique bolero jacket with rounded collar and perky cuffs, which can be used on other dresses.

Carol Yutzy modeled a dress of bright apricot linen finish fabric, that buttoned down the front. A simple cloche and bag of black linen, contrasted with it.

Clothes for the teenagers consisted of a dress with detachable white pique collar and cuffs worn by Barbara Frizzell, who also had an alternate plaid plastron (dickie) creating a different vostume; a red cotton dress with detachable washable collar and cuffs worn by Frances Crable; a blue terrycloth housecoat and stripe blue and white pajamas, Anna Grace Baer; Helen Borror, a tulip print sundress with V neckline with a bow at the shoulder, and bolero jacket with a pocket in one sleeve; Naomi Lee Martin, a Navy polished cotton sun bra and pleated shorts, with a red checked jacket coverall.

Rhea Shanholtz showed a sundress in blue and yellow plaid, with a bodice buttoned to the waistline. Its jacket had three quarter length sleeves and nipped in waistline. A border print dress for square dancing was worn by Shirley Lucas. It was made with a vestee and puffed sleeves and full skirt. Betty Brewer wore a New Bermuda violet "chemise dress" with V neckline and self matching stole with plaid lining. Lena Shanholtz, showed a Navy polished cotton full skirt, with a sleeveless blouse to match. She added a white organdy overskirt changing it to a party dress. Shirley Miller modeled a sheath dress in horizon blue rayon with matching short sleeved bolero. For dress up she had an organdy plaid overskirt to add.

Jane Iliff modelled a strapless evening dress consisting of an underdress of embroidered organdy with outer bouffant skirt and jacket of plain green organdy.

The girls in the woolen costumes were escorted by Donald Short and Fred Gillner from LaVale Boys Club. Fashion assistants to Miss Marshall were Roberteen Boll, Jacqueline Barth and Janet Pfieffer. Ushers were Patricia Fisher, Nancy Long and Mary Coffey. Miss Maude A. Bean closed the program.

Sondra Lee Rice Celebrated Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Weatherholt, 101 Park Street, entertained in honor of their daughter, Sondra Lee Rice, with a party in celebration of her 14th birthday, Saturday evening at their home.

Games were played and refreshments were served. The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations, favors and table appointments.

Democratic Women To Hold Card Party Style Show

Favors Jury Duty For Women

The United Democratic Women's Club of Cumberland formulated plans for its card party and went on record favoring jury duty for women at the regular meeting last night at the Algonquin Hotel. Mrs. Ada Conley Long and her officers continued in office due to the illness of Mrs. Nora Fleming, who was to have assumed her duties with the new officers.

April 17 was set for the party and style show by Lazarus, which will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club. It originally was to have been held next month. Miss Mary J. Schellhaus was named general chairman for the party and Mrs. Selden Landis, Ticket chairman.

The club favoring women jury duty, signed the petition and decided to solicitate signers. A $5 donation was made to the Red Cross and Miss Schellhaus reported on the executive committee meeting in Baltimore the 18th. A special meeting will be held in March to complete plans for the card party.

Behind the velvet curtains in the State Department a tense little drama has been played out . . . But neither the plot nor the cast of characters has been known by the general public . . . So let me turn drama critic and tell you about the play . . . It might be titled, "A Switch in Time Saves Embarrassment."

The cast of characters includes:

JOHN CARTER VINCENT—Now our Envoy to Switzerland . . . Senator McCarthy charges he belonged to the pro-Russian bloc in the State Department . . . Vincent was to have been transferred from Switzerland and made ambassador to Costa Rica.

RICHARD C. PATTERSON—Who was to have taken Vincent's place in Switzerland . . . Patterson, former ambassador to Yugoslavia, was sort of invited to resign from his last post, ambassador to Guatemala . . . In an attempted revolution in that country Patterson was supposed to have sided with the losing side. The Guatemalan Government told the U. S. to recall him. They would no longer be responsible for his safety . . . So he has been cooling his heels in Washington, itching to get a new post.

ROBERT BUTLER—Former ambassador to Cuba who resigned about a week ago.

RUDOLPH SCHOENFELD—Former ambassador to Rumania, a loyal, able career diplomat with more than 30 years in the service.

Hard to follow and involved, the plot runs something like this:

The career men in the State Department resist moving John Carter Vincent out of Switzerland. "Keep him in the background, where he won't be such an easy target," they say.

But the career men are over-ruled, pressured to put Patterson in the job . . . Patterson, a personal friend of Truman's, is tired of sitting around in Washington since his recall from Guatemala.

In the next act the Government of Switzerland declares that Mr. Patterson is acceptable to them . . . Costa Rica says that they would be delighted to have Mr. Vincent . . . Everything seems all set for the switch.

But enters the villain! In a move that's almost unprecedented, the State Department starts stalling . . . They hold up John Carter Vincent's nomination as ambassador to Costa Rica . . . They keep Patterson waiting to go to Switzerland . . . Nobody can understand what goes on.

"Well, what goes on is simply that if John Carter Vincent's name goes before the Senate for confirmation as ambassador to Costa Rica, an investigation of his background would inevitably be stirred up . . . And he has definitely had a finger, in fact a whole fist in that smelly pie—our foreign policy in China . . . He was in charge of the Far Eastern Division at the State Department, and prior to that, counselor of our embassy in China . . . So rather than risk putting his name up before the Senate for confirmation, the State Department is keeping him where he is.

So we come to the end of the drama . . . Vincent stays in Switzerland . . . Patterson will become ambassador to Cuba, replacing Robert Butler, who resigned about a week ago . . . And to the post Patterson left vacant in Guatemala will go Rudolph Schoenfeld. CURTAIN

The question remains, gentle audience, is this drama a mystery—or a tragedy?

MY FASHION experts say no woman will want to be without at least on stole in the seasons ahead. While this costume-making extra wasn't born yesterday, in review its performance is so solid that a long run ahead can be predicted.

You may have already discovered that everything this season from a bathing suit to an evening dress can be found assembled with its own striking stole. Designers, of course, have the special knowledge of how to combine color and fabric to create perfect harmony in such costumes.

Expert Combinations

To add a stole to any suit, coat, day or after-five dress already in your wardrobe, let yourself be guided by these principles which are the secret of the experts' success:

1. The stole's color must not only be complementary but interesting with whatever you wear it over. (Exception: Luxury fur. It enhances almost everything but your budget.)

For example, you might take all the trouble to knit yourself a shawl-type stole in the new-deep and lovely lilac shade only to find, too late, that over your Kelly green wool it looks as past as a greeting card reads. Or when topping your mauve tweed, there is no contrast, no match, no nothing. A rich, dark red would be better all around.

How to Combine Colors

Three safe ways to use color are by contrasting a color of high intensity (very bright, as red-violet) with a color of low intensity (very pale, as ice blue or very dark, as burnt gold); by exactly matching colors; by using two tones of the same color in low intensities such as pink and rose.

2. Equally important to the successful use of a stole is the choice of fabrics. Make sure those combined are interesting and compatible when put together. The woman who wears a nubby tweed stole over a shaggy fleece coat and with a rough straw hat hasn't learned that even in the season of the textured look you can have too much of a good thing! But matching the fabric of her stole to the fleece of her coat and saving the tweep to top a smooth-finish fabric such as gabardine would mark her as a woman of fashion wisdom.

When in doubt, either match textures or strive in contract smooth against rough.

Jack Benny saves many a penny
. . . with his modern Electric Range!

Jack Benny, star of "THE JACK BENNY SHOW," heard every Sunday over CBS, coast to coast

"The mythical Jack Benny of the radio isn't really stingy—he merely hates to spend money," says Mrs. Benny (Mary Livingstone to all her radio fans), "but although the real Jack Benny is most generous, he still considers our Electric Range real economy."

Sure—you have economical operation with the modern Electric Range—but that's only one feature. It's almost human—different from any range you've ever tried. You don't guess at the cooking heat. Flip a switch, and you get just the heat you need. You don't peek or watch while things are in the oven. You know the automatic controls are doing that for you. Nothing new to learn—except how much better, how much easier cooking can be when you have a modern Electric Range. You can learn all about it at your dealer's!

8 Good Reasons Why You Need an Electric Range
Better cooking results
It's clean • It's easy to use
It's thrifty • It's cool • It's fast
It's automatic • It's modern

The only way to enjoy all these benefits is to have an Electric Range. No matter what make you choose, be sure it's ELECTRIC, and you're sure of having a really modern automatic range!

APPLE CRUMB PIE Jack Benny's delight
7 cups peeled, sliced apples
½ cup orange juice
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sifted, enriched flour
½ cup butter or margarine
Whipped cream

Place apples in greased deep pie pan; add orange juice. Combine sugars, orange rind, spices, salt and flour. Cut in butter or margarine with 2 knives or pastry blender. Spread evenly over apples. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F. 1 hour. Top each serving with flavored and sweetened whipped cream. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Reds' Petroleum Industry Bit Shy Of Its 1950 Quota

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA, Australia—(AP)—Although pumping furiously, the Russians haven't been able to siphon all the oil they want from their Eastern and Central European captives.

Romania, the Soviet's biggest foreign source of oil, has announced officially that the petroleum industry was a bit shy of its 1950 quota—its estimated 4,750,000 tons being 1.2 per cent off the beam.

Hungary is reported to have met but 75 per cent of its quota, amount unknown—although Hungary's 1946 oil production was 684,000 tons.

But Austria's Soviet-owned Zistersdorf fields yielded 1,450,000 in 1950, more than double what it was in 1945. About 60 per cent of the Austrian production goes east.

It is not known here whether the Romanian and Hungarian disappointments may have any effect on the Soviet Union's international political aims. Russia's own oil output in 1950 has been estimated at 37,000,000 tons.

(British Correspondent Arthur Mooge, reporting in the Hindustan Times on a visit to Communist China, said that Red China's Korean adventure had stripped it of gasoline and that the shortage of motor fuel raised "an urgent practical question of supply." Moore added the observation that China's relations with the Soviet were "consistently cordial.")

Western observers in Bucharest believe Russia had hoped for much quicker recovery of the great Romanian oil fields, destroyed partially by Allied bombing during World War II. They feel that it may take the Communists two years more to reach the prewar level of 7,000,000 tons a year, attained by the now kicked-out American, British, and Dutch oil companies.

Westerners see three factors contributing to the slow postwar comeback from the 1947 low of 3,810,000 tons. They list these as the loss of western management and technicians, inadequate labor, and Russia's inability to supply replacement equipment.

These informants estimate that 95 per cent of all Romanian oil goes to the Soviet Union, with rationing in effect to both Hungary and Romania.

Take ANAHIST FAST!

No need for you to suffer needlessly!

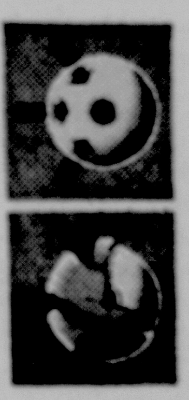
ANAHIST checks sneezes, sniffles, running nose, watery eyes and stuffed-up nose at the very start!

ANAHIST brings your family a revolutionary new kind of cold therapy, based on the scientific principle of attacking directly early cold symptoms which, when neglected, can cause discomfort and misery. (See Diagram)

No wonder READER'S DIGEST originally hailed ANAHIST as "the best health news of the year"! Now see the new February READER'S DIGEST, pages 39 to 43, for authoritative medical evidence reporting antihistamines' effectiveness in studies covering more than 20,000 cold cases.

Don't take a chance on a sniffle or a sneeze. It's important to take ANAHIST upon exposure, or when you feel a cold coming on. Wonderful, prompt relief from hay fever distress, too. Full instructions with package.

Here's How It Works!



1. Diagram shows how the histamine-like substance attacks cells in nose and throat, producing sniffles, sneezes, watery eyes, stuffed-up and running nose. BUT when ANAHIST is taken promptly...
2. ...it blocks the action of this histamine-like substance. Thus, ANAHIST can check the distressing miseries of a cold at the very start. You feel better in hours!

Veterans Asked To File Claims

Veterans of World War II entitled to P.O.W. benefits are reminded that March 1 is the deadline for the filing of applications. If a serviceman has died since the end of the war or was killed in action after release, his dependents may file an application.

Under provisions of the Geneva Convention held in July 1929, a soldier interred in an enemy prisoner of war camp is allowed $1 a day reimbursement as the result of the enemy failing to "provide quality or enough quantity of food.

Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant State Service Officer, said yesterday that veterans who have applied for benefits are asked not to write to the War Claims Department until June. Applications now under consideration entail much checking and screening.

Application forms may be obtained at the branch office of the Maryland Veterans Commission, Room 311, Liberty Trust Building. Garrett and Allegany counties come under this branch office.

German Doctors Plug Gap In U. S. European Force

By DANIEL DE LUCE

FRANKFURT (AP) — Eighty per cent of the U.S. Army's doctors on the front line in Europe are Germans.

If war erupted overnight, dozens of American battalions would have to be committed to battle without a single American medical officer.

Military sources, confirming this medical shortage in combat units, said it is "a grave worry to the Army command in Europe and an obvious indictment of organized medicine's policies in the United States."

(In Washington, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, chairman of the Defense Department's armed forces medical policy council, said the above statement was "full of prunes."

(When asked to comment on the Frankfurt dispatch, Dr. Meiling also said that "positively" all American doctors needed for combat units are in Europe and are concentrated in hospitals for maximum use instead of with units in the field. German doctors, he said, can handle such duties as sick calls, but Americans are ready and trained for mobilization with units within less than an hour in event of combat.

(The policy, Dr. Meiling continued, is a great improvement over World War II practice of keeping full combat medical complement with units and avoide "terrific waste of medical manpower."

(He expressed doubt that the situation was causing grave worry to the Army command because the Army in Europe has not asked for more American doctors.)

U.S. divisions in Germany now have only five or six American medical officers on their respective staffs. Their table of organization calls for 25 to a division.

None of these medical officers are reported serving on a battalion level, although every combat battalion is supposed to have one.

Peacetime medical care of American troops occupying Germany has not suffered, however, because skilled German civilians have been employed to plug the gap.

German physicians and surgeons run battalion dispensaries but they are not soldiers. They are under no obligation to accompany American units into war.

The U.S. Army's enforced reliance on Germans extends through its hospital system. A large proportion of the personnel is German under American supervision.

West Germany, since an influx of millions of refugees in 1945, has a surplus of doctors and nurses. The Army has had no difficulty in hiring as many as it needs to keep peacetime medical services at a high standard.

The Army command now is vigorously converting its forces from routine occupation duty to round-the-clock defense of Western Europe's frontier.

The command policy is: Be ready to fight at any moment against a surprise attack. Infantry and armored troops spend at least a third of their time in winter months in field training, and will be out on combat exercises almost constantly this summer.

Government Orders Use Of Copper Curbed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The government has banned or limited the use of copper in more than 50 products effective April 1 but lifted its bar on copper in home water systems.

The National Production Authority said it is lifting the ban on home water systems on March 1 "at least temporarily" to help the home building industry.

Many homes could not be completed on schedule because there is not enough galvanized water pipe available to substitute for copper, the NPA said.

The new restrictions on copper include coffee makers, home and farm freezers, waffle irons, refrigeration and air conditioning equipment and other items.

Landon May Be Ofered Administration Post

OMAHA, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Omaha World-Herald said yesterday the White House is giving serious consideration to offering administration post to Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican standard bearer in 1936.

In a dispatch from John Jarrell, the paper's Washington correspondent, the World-Herald said it had learned there had been a series of conferences relative to approaching Landon with an offer of an appointment.

If ever a time imposed a test, not alone of strength, but of character, upon our people, this is the time.

Recent Thaw, Wet Weather Damages County Roadways

Roads in Allegany county are in the worst condition in years due to recent rainy weather and thawing, according to J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department.

Chapman's statement was borne out by numerous complaints received by his department and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

In low-lying sections the roads are a quagmire and there's not much that can be done to remedy the situation at present the supervisor declared. When roads are rutted and covered with mud more than a foot deep they can not be worked by employes of the Roads Department, according to Chapman.

Most of the roads in the eastern section of the county are almost impassable and even the hard surfaced roads have been damaged by the sudden thawing of recent days.

School buses, which use mostly hard surfaced roads have been able to continue their schedules, but on two occasions buses were stuck on dirt roads. One foundered on Warrior Mountain Road and another on the Oliver Beltz Road in the eastern section of the county the latter part of last week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of the school bus system.

Complaints have been received from Ross and Ralph Shaw concerning the Baer Hill Road near Oldtown, Mrs. Gladys Merica, of Little Orleans; Wayne Twigg, M. R. Lewis, J. J. Zaph, and Donald Stedman, all of Oldtown. This latter group complained of roads within Oldtown itself.

Leslie Kolb said the Dickinson Road was impassable and the Wilson Road was also reported in bad shape.

There are many other roads which are in bad condition.

Members of the county board said they intend to concentrate on cleaning ditches and maintenance of the present hard surface roads during the next year. Some work will also be done on dirt roads in an effort to place them in shape for the coming year.

Board Gets Reply On Proposed Lab Site

A reply to a telegram sent by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners last week urging the location of the proposed new multimillion dollar Army research laboratory here was received yesterday.

Robert Frye, secretary of the site committee, said that Cumberland's unemployment condition has been taken into consideration and the committee has forwarded the information to General George Marshall, secretary of defense, who will make the final section for the laboratory.

Recalled To Navy

Deputy Sheriff William "Scotty" Orr has been recalled to active duty with the Navy and reports Friday to Baltimore for his physical examination.

Orr served with the Navy during World War II in the Pacific and was a baker, second class. He resides with his wife and family at Midland. Orr has been deputy sheriff since shortly after returning home from military service.

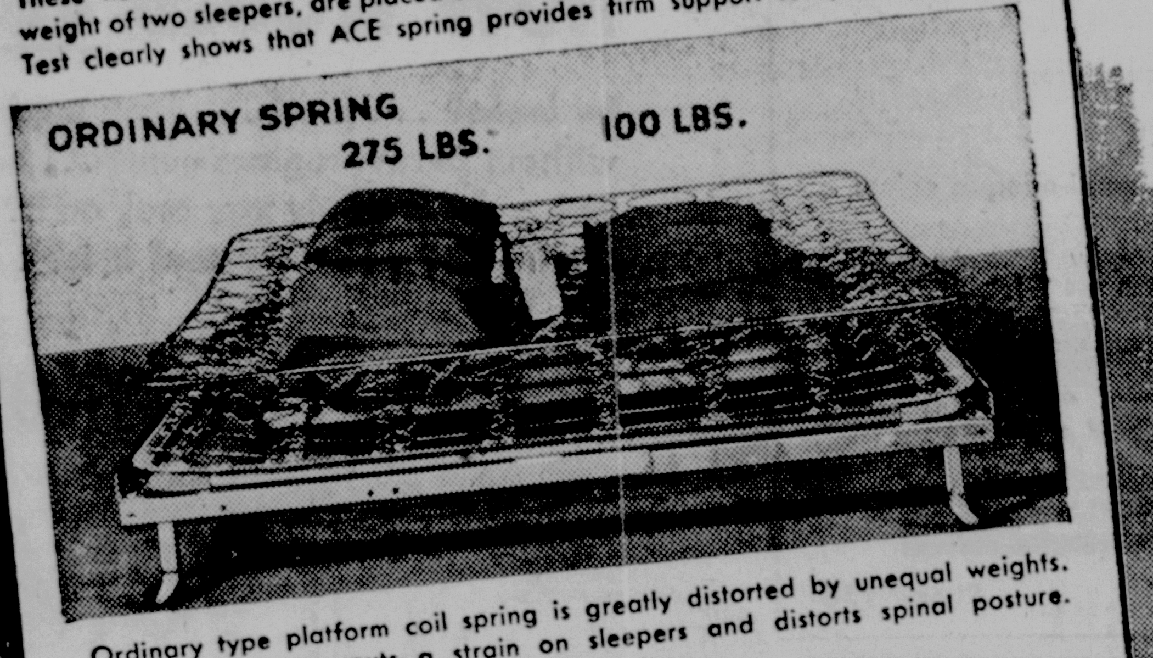
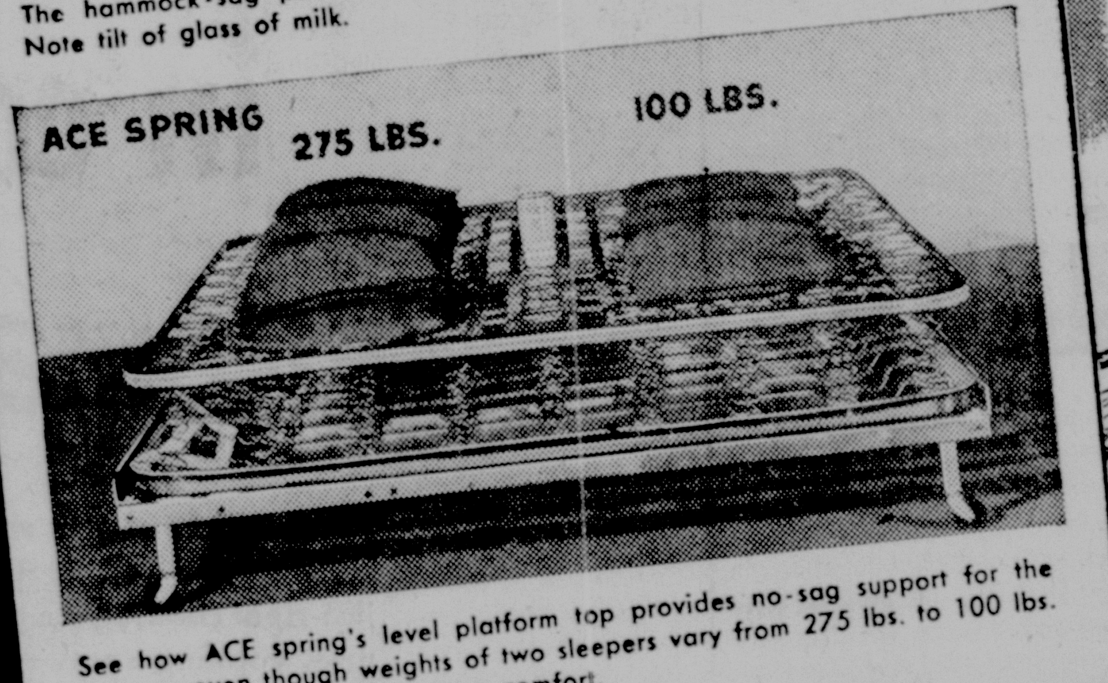
SAND BAG TEST SHOWS WHY ACE SPRING GIVES YOU MORE COMFORT

These head-on views reveal what happens when sand bags, representing weight of two sleepers, are placed on an ordinary spring and on an ACE spring. Test clearly shows that ACE spring provides firm support for your mattress.



Ordinary type platform coil spring is greatly distorted by unequal weights. The hammock-sag puts a strain on sleepers and distorts spinal posture. Note tilt of glass of milk.



See how ACE spring's level platform top provides no-sag support for the mattress even though weights of two sleepers vary from 275 lbs. to 100 lbs. Controlled resilience gives more comfort.

New Instrument May Teach The Blind To "Read" By Ear

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New hope of teaching the blind to "read" by ear is offered by an instrument that looks something like a fountain pen, a Michigan psychologist reports.

Dr. Wilma T. Donahue of the University of Michigan said the instrument, known as a "photo-electric stylus," is designed to be drawn across a line of printed type—converting the letters into characteristic sounds heard by the "reader" through an earphone.

She said the instrument is not yet ready for the market. But she declared that in tests it had shown distinct promise of being a practical aid for the blind.

Dr. Donahue told the National Psychological Research Council For The Blind, at a meeting here, that blind persons participating in the tests had learned to read short words with a brief period of training and then progressed to ordinary text from printed books within a few weeks.

She said some had attained a "sound" vocabulary of 200 words in as little as 25 hours of training.

The council is a non-governmental group which was initiated by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Federal Security Agency.

Dr. Donahue said the research project has been carried on in various parts of the country under the sponsorship of the National Research Council which also sponsored development of the "stylus" instrument.

"I feel confident," she said, "that a blind person with sufficient practice could read newspapers and even letters written by hand, although no tests have been made in either field to date.

"However, in our tests, blind persons have 'read' type as small as newspaper type which was printed on a finer grade of paper. Newsprint paper does not provide the proper background for the stylus in its present stage of development."

Declaring that the entire apparatus—stylus, earphone, batteries and photoelectric cell—can be packed into a case about the size of a woman's small handbag and can be carried slung from the shoulder by a strap, Dr. Donahue gave this outline on how it works:

The pen-like "stylus" scans the letters as it is drawn across the line of type. The instrument is designed so that minute changes in light passing there will be translated into different sounds.

Thus, the different shapes of the letters produce sounds of varying pitch. For example, the letter "O" registers a sound of medium pitch. Letters like "P" and "Q" which have an appendage below the line register both a medium and low-pitched sound. And letters like the small "D" which have a projection above the line, register a medium and high-pitched sound.

Students gradually learn to distinguish the different sounds and build them into words.

HOW WOULD YOU PICK A RANGE?

by looks? . . . cost? . . . how modern it is? . . . how long it will last without burner replacement? . . . how low your cooking fuel bills will be? . . . how easily you cook on it? . . . how fast things cook? . . . how clean it is? . . . how cool it is? . . . how easy it is to keep clean?

no matter how you judge, your best buy in cooking is an automatic GAS range

Modern GAS ranges are the last word in cooking efficiency, economy, and enjoyment! Sleek, beautiful exteriors . . . thousands of heat selections for just-right cooking temperatures . . . automatic cooking . . . durability, cleanliness, cooking speed—you can't beat modern GAS ranges for out-and-out quality, speed, convenience!

Take GAS Oven-Cooking! Air-circulated, even heat—heat you can't get in any other type range—gives the same golden-brown done-ness in any part of the oven. With automatic GAS cooking, your dinner is ready, piping hot, at dinner time, even though you've been out all afternoon!

See how superior GAS top-of-stove cooking is! You choose not one out of five or seven different heats—but one out of thousands. The exact heat that cooks each food perfectly! Things cook faster with GAS, so your dinner doesn't take nearly as long to prepare!

Wonder-broiling—with GAS! Flame broiling—the kind that makes things extra-delicious—is yours with an automatic GAS range. No smoke worries. You close the broiler door—keep cooking heat inside, on the food, not dissipated into the kitchen through an open broiler door.

Low price, low upkeep, low fuel bills! The low price you pay for a GAS range is usually your final range cost—no replacement of burners is ever necessary. And your low cooking-fuel bills will be a constant source of economy for years!

So what's your logical choice?

Why, an AUTOMATIC GAS RANGE!

See the new models at your GAS Appliance Dealer's or your GAS Company Office.

Barton Stops Fort Hill's 17-Game Winning Streak, 56-46

Bill And Bob Kirk Score 34 Points As Braves Win

Race May End In Tie Friday; AHS, Central Chalk Up Victories

Beall	4	5	.444
Central	3	6	.333
Bruce	0	9	.000

Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School Braves shattered the 17-game winning streak of Fort Hill High School before a packed house at Barton last night and handed the Sentinels of Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh their first defeat of the 1950-51 compaign by the score of 56 to 46.

Barton's triumph also cracked Fort Hill's eight-game string in the W.M.I. League and put the Braves one full game out of first place in the race that is scheduled to end on Friday. Barton has a 7-2 record in the six-team circuit.

The race would end in a tie if Allegany spills Fort Hill at Campobello and Barton defeats Beall at Frostburg on Friday.

Braves Always Ahead

Bill Kirk's field goal shortly after the opening whistle gave Barton a lead it never relinquished in last night's battle. The Thomasmen were out in front at the quarter, 16-3, at the half, 24-13, and 40-23 when the third period ended.

The Kirk Brothers—Bill and Bob with 18 and 16 points—were Barton's scoring aces in this important victory. Lynn Beightol kept the Sentinels in the ball game by meshing 16 points and Glen Wilson contributed nine.

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called—22 on Barton and 16 on Fort Hill—and three players were ejected. George McGregor of Fort Hill was thumbed out by Eddie Diehl for talking back in the 2nd quarter and Arnold Tichnell and Don Bean of Barton went out via five personal fouls in the fourth period.

AHS And Central Win

Allegany High School moved into 3rd place by handing Bruce High School its 9th straight loss of the league campaign at Westernport, 61-48.

John Eversole's 21 points sparked the Campers' offensive while Shimer contributed 14 to lead Bruce. Coach Walter L. Bowers' team held a 32-24 lead at half time. Reeves and Phares were banished on personal fouls.

In the preliminary game, Allegany's Jayvees avenged an earlier loss by defeating Bruce, 76-44.

At Lonaconing, Central High's Tigers took the measure of Beall High, Frostburg, 59 to 37.

Kenneth Burt racked up 10 field goals and 23 points for the victors. Workman topped Beall with an even dozen markers.

'Coney held the long end of a 26-16 score at intermission.

Hawkins and Blank of Beall made their exit on personal fouls.

Vincent Farrell Will Be Speaker At Dapper Dan Banquet On Sunday

New Jersey Arbiter Joins Other Notables

Vincent "Vinnie" Farrell of Newark, N. J., prominent eastern collegiate and professional basketball official, has been added to the growing list of celebrities who will speak at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club on Sunday at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home.

Vincent Farrell

Arrangements for Farrell's appearance here were completed yesterday by William V. Keegan, chairman of the club's executive committee.

A six sport athlete, Farrell has been an instructor of athletics for the past quarter century, officiated in numerous college and pro games in Madison Square Garden, and handled AAU games in Central America two years ago.

A graduate of St. Benedict's Prep, Panzer College and Rutgers University, Farrell has officiated at more than 2,200 sports events in the U. S. A. and several foreign counties.

"Vinnie" is regarded as a talented speaker, has a fine collection of unusual sport stories and once was a candidate for the New Jersey legislature.

Among the other sport notables expected to attend the banquet which is being held for the benefit of the Allegany League for Crippled Children are Johnny Michelosen, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Lefty Joe Page, New York Yankees pitcher; Coach Herman Ball and Harry Dowda of the Washington Redskins. Bill Dudley of the Redskins also may appear here.

LaSalle Will Play Men Of LaSalle In Booster Cage Game

The Booster basketball game between LaSalle's varsity quint and the Men of LaSalle is definitely set for Saturday and will be staged on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock, it was announced last night by Joseph F. Stakem, president of the Men of LaSalle.

There will be a preliminary game between St. Mary's and SS. Peter and Paul of the K. of C. Youth League at 7 o'clock.

The program is being staged for the benefit of both LaSalle and the Men of LaSalle and proceeds will be split 50-50.

Bobby Stakem is coaching the Men of LaSalle and a squad of 16 reported for practice last Thursday.

Among the former LaSalle players in the Men of LaSalle lineup will be Tom Cumiskey, Francis Chapman, Joe Nolan, and Jimmy Stakem.

St. Mary's Beaten By St. Michael's

St. Michael's quint of Frostburg moved a step closer to winning both halves of the split season race in the K. of C. Youth Basketball League race by defeating St. Mary's cagers last night on St. Mary's court, 38-25.

The victory was St. Michael's 5th of the second half race. St. Mary's has won three and lost two.

Mike Finn led the winners in scoring with 11 points to his credit. Bob Andrews paced St. Mary's with 11 markers. St. Michael's held a 20-9 advantage at half time. Lineups:

Scandal Leads LIU To Quit Intercollegiate Athletics

University Cancels Its Remaining Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—College sport's greatest scandal tonight led Long Island university—with four star basketball players accused of taking $18,500 to fix seven big-time games — to abandon intercollege athletics.

It was the aftermath of a district attorney's crackdown on players of three major New York cage teams alleged to have taken gamblers' money to insure desired results in a number of games.

Three top players of the City College of New York—last year's national kingpin in the college basketball world — and one from New York University had been taken into custody earlier on similar charges.

Authorities said the eight basketball players admitted obtaining a total of $25,000.

Long Island University President T. W. Metcalfe sent a telegram to Ned Irish, Madison Square Garden basketball promoter, informing him LIU is cancelling its remaining games of the season there, Feb. 22 and March 1. Two other non-Garden tilts also are being cancelled.

At the same time it was announced that the university's trustees decided to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

A statement from the board of trustees said it concluded that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

The trustees said they were shocked by revelations of players taking bribes to fix games and "are concerned with the broader implications involved insofar as both the boys and their families are concerned."

However, fullest confidence was expressed by the board in the LIU basketball coach, Clair F. Bee.

Three Colleges Shun NIT Games

By International News Service

Three universities — Bradley of Peoria, Ill., the University of California and Southern Methodist University — announced today that their teams will not appear in this year's National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

SMU athletic director Matty Bell said that the school's athletic committee voted last week not to send its team to the tourney.

Hartman Scores 62 Points For New Tri-State Record

Grabs Title In PVC, Ridgeley Wins, 84-61

Carl Hartman hung up a new scholastic scoring record for the tri-state district last night when he collected 62 points as Ridgeley High School defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney on the Ridgeley court by the score of 84 to 61.

Hartman's total is the highest ever turned in by a tri-state schoolboy cager and his scoring spree last night enabled him to win the scoring championship of the Potomac Valley Conference with a grand total of 348 points for 12 games, nosing out George Fisher of Moorefield. The latter had 332 points in 17 contests. Hartman scored 29 field goals and four free throws.

Ridgeley led at the quarters, 30-11, 52-19 and 69-34.

Pyles with 28 points and Boyd with 22 accounted for 50 tallies for the Silents. The lineups:

Scandal May Bring Ban On Basketball At Summer Resorts

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, encompassing 91 institutions, probably will put a ban on summer resort basketball when it meets next month.

Asa Bushnell, ECAC commissioner who said boys playing the resorts are "exposed to easy money and a demoralizing atmosphere," declared the matter would be brought up at the spring session.

Here's EXTRA VALUE in cold-engine starting...

ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

If you have experienced engine stalling on cool, damp days, especially in the first 10 minutes of driving, try this entirely new kind of gasoline. The only gasoline on the market which combats cold-engine stalling. Before you blame your car, try a tankful. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. And it doesn't cost a penny more than other premium gasolines!

ROAD-TESTED FOR FIVE MONTHS on eleven makes of cars... Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline practically eliminates cold-engine stalling.

Again, here's news of "something more" at the Esso Sign—the kind of extra value that keeps millions of motorists coming back for more!

Detroit's Automotive Engineers...

say that cold-engine stalling has been a persistent problem for years. Under certain conditions, powerful gasolines required for today's high-compression engines evaporate and freeze moisture out of the air, "icing up" the carburetor and causing temporary stalling. This stalling is practically eliminated by the new Esso Extra Gasoline. (No gasoline, of course, can correct stalling caused by mechanical faults or electrical failure.)

Four LIU Stars Charge With Accepting $18,500 To Fix Seven Cage Tilts

White, Bigos, Smith Nabbed; Shaved Pojnts In Return For Bribes

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Four Long Island University stars, drawn into the greatest scandal in college sports history, were charged today with taking $18,500 to fix seven big-time basketball games.

It was the fourth and largest cage scandal since 1945.

Three of the LIU players were arrested today, bringing to eight the number of local college players or ex-players who allegedly sold out for an overall total of $25,000 in gamblers' bribes.

The fourth, who played last year but not this year, already was charged with taking part in an earlier bribe attempt that broke the fix case wide open.

Fixed Seven Games

Authorities said the four players admitted fixing seven games—three last year and four this season, and one of them in the National Invitation Tournament. They said the last game they fixed was on Jan. 4 when LIU played Bowling Green.

Finally, the players were quoted as saying, they sickened of the deal and shrugged off further tainted money to go straight a month ago.

The latest three players nabbed in the spreading betting coup included Sherman White, 22-year-old negro forward and the nation's leading scorer. The gangling star was regarded as a cinch for All-America honors this year.

Charged with bribery along with White were LIU's other star forward and team captain, Adolph Bigos, 25, and Le Rou Smith, 21, a classy negro guard.

Held In $15,000 Bail

They were held in $15,000 bail each.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the three cracked under night long questioning and finally admitted their part in the seven LIU fixes.

The fourth LIU man involved was Edward Gard, said by Hogan to have been bribed first when he played on the LIU squad last season.

He is accused of drawing his three teammates into the setup.

Then, with his playing days over, Gard was accused of acting as a go-between to help bribe players from other schools.

Besides the four LIU players, four from other schools have been arrested since the scandal broke Sunday.

Seized then were three members of City College's "Cinderella" team of last season which swept to the National Invitation and NCAA championships for basketball's first and only grand slam. The three were Ed Warner, ranked in 1950 as one of the nation's top players, Ed Roman and Al Roth. The fourth player was NYU's Harvey (Connie) Schaff.

Admit Shaving Points

All of the cage stars, Hogan said, admitted "shaving points"—in return for bribes— to beat the "point spreads" designated by bookmakers.

The point spread is the margin by which the bookmakers think the favored team should win.

The district attorney said that seven LIU games, including three played last season, were involved in the fixing plot.

The payoffs per player for each of the fixed games ranged from $1,250 to $500, Hogan said, with $1,000 per player per game being the average.

Hogan said the plot eventually backfired on its alleged mastermind and "money man," Salvatore T. Sollazzo and his go-between, Edward Gard, member of last year's LIU team.

Sollazzo, jewelry manufacturer and ex-convict, also was named as the man who allegedly bribed the other four players arrested Sunday.

Bail Is Denied

Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter refused during the day to free Sollazzo on bail. Earlier, in felony court, bail also had been denied him.

Said Justice Hofstadter:

"I can hardly see a more despicable crime—the corruption of youth at the very fountainhead."

Sallazzo's pretty wife, Jeanne, a mink coat around her shoulders, broke down and wept in court during the hearing. She is a former Powers model.

Hogan said that after the seventh game involved in the conspiracy — played Jan. 4 against Bowling Green, with LIU meeting the specified six points spread exactly in winning 69-63—all three LIU players "resolutely agreed" not to have anything more to do with the plot.

Games That Were Fixed

The three kept their agreement, the district attorney said, despite the insistence of Sollazzo.

"Sollazzo took an awful licking," Hogan asserted, referring to the Jan. 16 game in which LIU beat Duquesne 84 to 52. LIU was the favorite.

The six other games affected by the "fix" Hogan said, were:

LIU vs. North Carolina State, Jan. 17, 1950, won by North Carolina State, 55 to 52.

LIU vs. Cincinnati, Feb. 23, 1950, won by Cincinnati, 83 to 65.

LIU vs. Syracuse, March 11, 1950, first round of the National Invitation Tournament. Syracuse won 80 to 52.

LIU vs. Kansas State, Dec. 2, 1950, won by LIU 60 to 59.

LIU vs. Denver, Dec. 7, 1950, won by LIU 58 to 56.

LIU vs. Idaho, Dec. 25, 1950, won by LIU 59 to 57.

Hogan said Gard alone was involved with Sollazzo in the initial stages of the plot. The district attorney related this story of the plot's development:

Gard first approached Bigos in January, 1950.

Bigos evinced interest. An agreement was reached under which each would get $1,000 a game from Sollazzo for "shaving the winning margin in accordance with instructions."

After the North Carolina State game, the manufacturer handed $2,000 to Gard who turned over half of the money to his fellow conspirator.

White Joins Conspiracy

White got into the coup after the N. C. State game by accusing Bigos and Gard of "laying down" and playing "pretty phony" basketball.

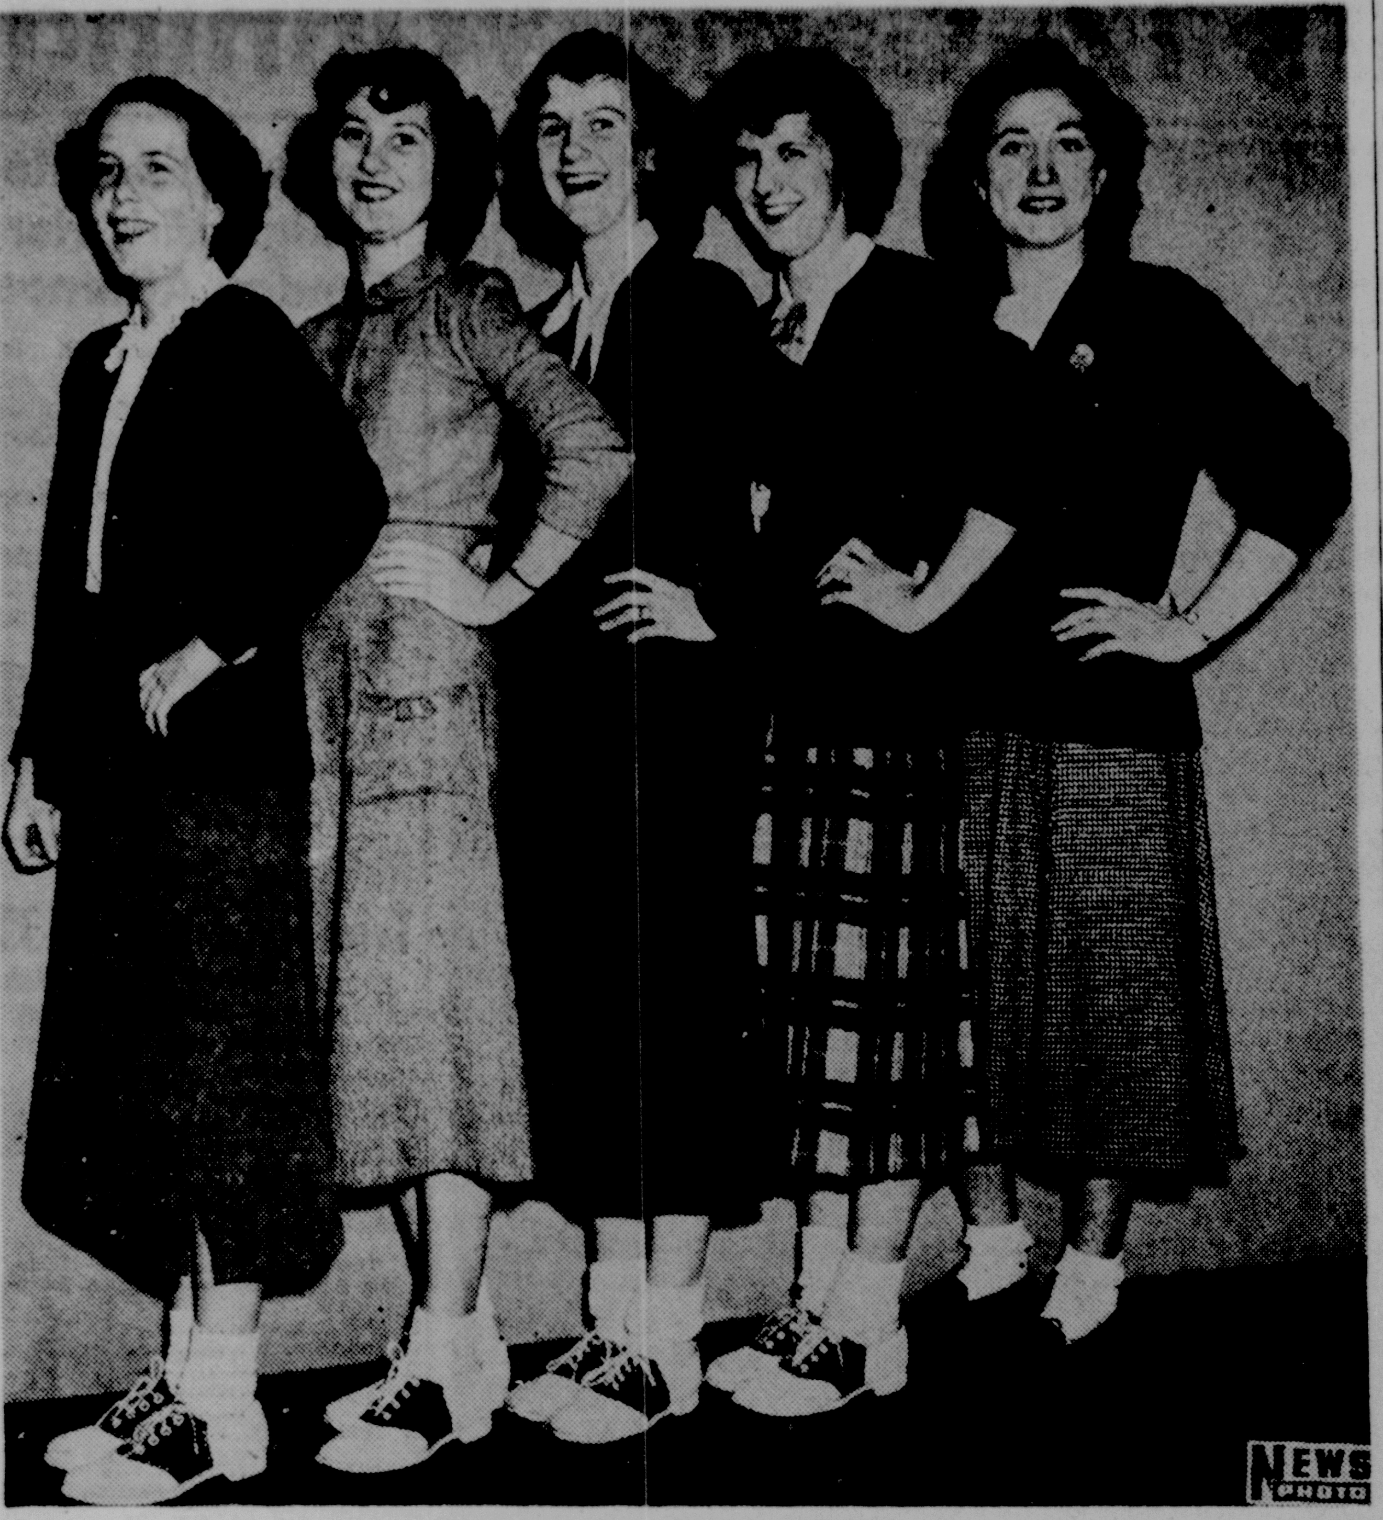
Two days later, Gard admitted to White he and Bigos had been bribed to "shave points," and urged White to join the conspiracy and make some "easy money." White agreed to go along.

The tactics of the three players, according to Hogan, included "kicking the ball all over the floor" and deliberately aiming for the rim of the basket on foul shots.

In the seven fixed games, Hogan said, Bigos received a total of $7,250; White, $6,250 and Smith, $2,000. Gard, he added, was paid $3,000 for the 1949-50 games.

The players and Sollazzo were charged with violating the state penal law dealing with "bribery of participants in professional or amateur games."

On conviction they could receive a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.



RIDGELEY TEAM WINS DUX TOURNEY—The Ridgeley (W. Va.) Kinsman Cops Hialeah Park Feature Race

Survives Foul Claim, Beats High Bracket

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP) — Mrs. J. Carson's Kinsman was a blessing in disguise for the battered form players when he survived a claim of foul to win the featured Bok Tower Purse of $5,000 at Hialeah Park today.

He was the first choice of the day to make good, paying $5.50. It was also the Whirlaway colt's second straight at the meeting.

Well ridden by Ira Hanford, Kinsman drew out by three lengths at the end of the mile and a furlong, covered in 1:50 3-5. D. Shaer's High Bracket was a stopping second, a half-length before John Marsch's Whirlaway Dough, while Frangine got fourth in the field of eight routers.

After the race, Jockey Boulmetis, who soon will be called into the army, lodged what appeared a frivolous claim of foul against the winner. He was up on High Bracket, which tired as Kinsman got to him near the eighth pole.

When Kinsman did move over on the rail, he did not appear to bother High Bracket. The stewards dismissed they claim readily.

It was a two-horse race from the start, for High Bracket cut out the running, with Kinsman, under light restraint, in closest pursuit. Hanford flicked his mount twice with the whip when he made his move, then it was all over. Whirling Dough finished stoutly and might have been second in a few more jumps.

Area Farmers Notified To Increase Crops

County Agent Urges More Vegetables

Allegany county farmers are being notified by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, to increase their 1951 crops of summer melons, and summer and fall vegetables for fresh marketing and processing.

The national goals call for increasing the acreage of vegetables for processing 22 per cent over the 1950 planted acreage figure. Emphasis is placed on sweet corn and tomatoes—with an increase of 40 per cent suggested for sweet corn, and 35 per cent for tomatoes. A 15 per cent gain is suggested for green peas, 10 per cent for snap beans, and five per cent for lima beans.

In discussing the goals, Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, said, "no state goals have been announced and it is possible that none will be given."

Continuing with the national figures he said, " A four per cent increase in acreage of vegetables for fresh market is suggested for both summer and fall crops."

For summer vegetables, these increases are suggested: 25 per cent for early tomatoes, 15 per cent for early onions, 10 per cent for snap beans and beets, and five per cent for lima beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, sweet corn and cucumbers.

For fall vegetables, these increases are suggested: Ten per cent for late tomatoes, and lima beans, and five per cent for carrots and late celery.

No change is recommended in 1951 acreage of cantaloupes in the 1951 vegetable acreage suggestions.

Employe Gets Watch For 25-Year Service

Harrison C. Givens, Jr., manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation, Monday presented a wristwatch to John W. McKenzie, B Street, LaVale, on his completion of 25 years service at the plant.

A native of Cumberland, McKenzie served an apprenticeship as a painter with Robert H. Maloney, painter contractor of Elkins, W. Va. He was employed for four years as a painter by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company before going to the Celanese plant June 12, 1924. He is employed as a painter in the workshop.

William J. Elvin, plant engineer, presented McKenzie with a 25-year pin and certificate.

Observation Cars Added To B and O Train

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has placed in service two new observation lounge cars on its Ambassador, between Baltimore and Detroit, the railroad announced yesterday.

The cars are named "Metcalf" and "Dana" after towns of the same name in Indiana, which are closely connected with the early life of Colonel R. B. White, president of the B & O. He was born in Metcalf, Ind., and as a lad of 16 took his first railroad job as a telegrapher at Dana, Ind.

State Police Give Accident Report

State Police reported yesterday there were 48 traffic deaths on Streets and highways during January, an increase of 45 per cent over the same period last year when 33 fatalities occurred.

The category in which fatal mishaps increased most sharply was the death of pedestrians in the day time. There were seven last month, compared to three in January, 1950. Another nine persons were killed in accidents at night.

Accidents of all types totaled 1,895 during the month, seven per cent higher than January, 1950.

Extension Director Will Visit Here

Dr. James W. Gwin, recently named director of the Agriculture Extension Service of the University of Maryland, will make an official visit to the office County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry on Thursday.

Dr. Gwin succeeded Dr. T. B. Symons, who for many years headed the Extension Service. After conferring with McHenry and Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, Dr. Gwin will go to Oakland to visit the Garrett county farm agent.

He is on his way to Indianapolis, Ind., and decided to stop off here while enroute.

John W. Magruder, county farm agent leader for Maryland, will accompany Dr. Gwin.

Truck Overloading Violations Continue

The overloading of trucks operating on state highways continues, according to reports of the State Roads Commission.

The most recent report lists an overload of 43,700 pounds on a single truck and the violation resulted in a fine of $157.25 against C. J. Langenfelder and Son, Inc., Baltimore.

Recent violations and fines include Enoch F. Price, Frostburg, $33; Ray Knapp, Cumberland, $50.75; Randall Riley, Accident, $62.90, and Walter L. Puffinburger, Green Spring, W. Va., $35.45. Records show 14 violations charged against Price since January 1, 1950.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20 (INS)—Seldom has Jack Warner been more excited over any screen story than he is over Harlan Ware's new novel, "Come, Fill The Cup." He feels he has just the right star to play the tough city editor in James Cagney. This editor, once a drinking man, reforms and you never see him take a drink in the picture. For that I'm glad. I thoroughly dislike stories about drunken newspaper men.

A few days ago I said that Jimmy was all set to do "Angels In The Outfield" for M-G-M in place of Clark Gable. There are two good reasons why the deal fell through. Jimmy's salary is $250,000, high these days. And, after reading Ware's book he decided in favor of the home lot movie.

Producer Henry Blanke tells me the exciting newspaper yarn will be ready to go before the cameras in eight weeks.

You needn't be surprised if Lee J. Cobb plays the role in "Death Of A Salesman" on the screen which he created on the stage.

He has been in a huddle with Stanley Kramer and it looks favorable. There's no truth in the report that Frederic March has the inside track on the role.

Well, there couldn't be any better actor than the man who lived and breathed the character of the salesman for so long.

Alida Valli telephoned to say that she is well again and will soon be Italy-bound to visit her mother.

"David Selznick has been so kind," Alida said, "and as soon as I came out of the sanatorium he gave me permission to take a three-month leave of absence until I regain my health."

So Alida is motoring east with friends. Then she'll board a slow boat and take a leisurely cruise to her native Italy, where she'll spend at least two months in her home and with her mother.

Ava Gardner, in Palm Springs seeing Frankie Sinatra, of course, was unhappy after reading the script of "Scaramouche," her next picture. She felt Elizabeth Taylor and Stewart Granger had much more important roles than she and she believed the picture would hurt her.

So now the script is being rewritten and Ava's part built up. M-G-M biggies, including her director, George Sidney, say that her complaint was justified, although one of them said she read a script they had no intention of using.

George Sidney said Ava is so wonderful in "Show Boat," and she now has the instincts of an actress and will become a great star.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Who was the attractive blonde with Brod Crawford at the Sarnez? I hear her last name is Robinson.

Both Frances and Van Heflin deny in no uncertain terms that they have had any matrimonial trouble whatsoever. I believe them, too, knowing them and how much their two little redhaired girls mean to them both.

Andre Previn, in from Camp Cooke over the weekend, spent both evenings with the little French actress Leslie Caron. What happened to Andre's supposed engagement to Phyllis Kirk?

Betty Charteris, ex-wife of Author Leslie Charteris, and Alan Nixon in a quiet corner at Ciro's.

At a table for two as Sportsmen's Lodge were Gerald Mayer and Monica Lewis.

Nancy Kelly's new heartbeat is handsome Frank Farrell, New York newspaper man. She and Bill Robson, radio producer, are colder than a deep freeze.

Artist Salvadore Dali and his wife have adopted a seven-year-old war orphan. Dali and Anna Magnani have an arrangement to make a series of motion pictures in Spain.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW YORK (INS)

THE PASSING show: The American Can Company, and all the other can companies, for all I know, has come up with one of the most ingenious improvisations since the British made hamburgers out of soybean curd and the Germans created coffee out of Hitler's socks, or some such ersatz.

American is now making tin cans without tin, and feels pretty good about it. As yet it is not using the tinless tin cans to hold food, but that's a prospect. I'd suggest the soybean hamburgers be given the privilege of being first to appear in the tinless tin can, or that the ersatz containers be reserved for a product I recently heard advertised on the air, "genuine mock turtle soup." Either product would make a perfect marriage with the can that is no longer a can.

American has even found a way of substituting plastic cement for the traditional tin-solder that binds the equally traditional tin can. It's all a part of a commendable research program to liberate the company from its traditional dependence on imported tin-plate, and increase war stocks of that vital metal.

Steel is the substitute metal, and, apparently, we'll always have enough of that. To date the only palatable commodity being sold in the new steel tubes is anti-freeze, which makes an acceptable martini if you stay up late enough at night and are fresh out of gin.

I take this opportunity and space to apologize to two native perennials, Sen. Taft and the nickel cigar.

Last month I took the word of a knowing friend who shall be nameless, but not blameless, and reported that Taft partially hand-picked the jury of reporters who grilled him January 7 on that most newsmaking of all programs on the air, "Meet The Press." I bumbled on and said that, for one, he had had top-knotted May Craig removed from his panel of inquisitors.

Tain't so, Co-Producer Larry Spivak tells me. Taft has been on the program 11 times and is bright enough and agile enough to handle any reporter. Spivak says the Senator demurred on another program, but not on any assembly of "Meet The Press." La Craig just happened to be benched that week in question.

As for the nickel cigar, my point went something like this: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar which can be bought for 15 cents." Lynn Farnol, faithful champion of the U. S. cigar industry, informs me that the old nickel cigar now sells for only a dime and is better made, better blended and more uniform than the cheroot for which Vice President Marshall once pined.

Okay, men?

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Keyser To Study Fluoridation Of Water Supplies

Council Will Hold Night Meetings

KEYSER, W. Va.—A resolution submitted by local dentists providing for fluoridation of drinking water, was presented to the Mayor and Council Tuesday and a motion was adopted in which the city promises cooperation.

The resolution was signed by Dr. Bruce O. Snider, Dr. Paul F. Giffin and J. W. Engle.

Council promised it will take up the matter after the new fiscal year begins, when provision may be made for meeting the expense.

According to the city report, the citizens of Keyser used 107,549,000 gallons of water last year. It was estimated the city would be able to provide fluoridation for Keyser water at about $229.40 a year.

The Council voted to hold one meeting at night and the other meeting in the afternoon to accommodate citizens who find it impossible to attend night meetings. The second meeting in each month will be held at 7 p. m., while the first meeting will be held at the customary 1 p. m. time.

Due to the recent rain and thaws streets have been dirty, with an accumulation on all streets, especially in the business area. Council discussed means of getting relief. The hose formerly used by the street department for flushing streets has deteriorated and the city is without funds to purchase new hose. The fire department reported it has only one good hose used to combat fires, and as street use is more wearing than fire operation, that was ruled out.

Councilmen believed they might be able to borrow several length of hose for cleaning the streets, and, if this is possible the street department will begin cleaning within the next day or two.

Mrs. R. L. Fisher, Sr., South Church Street, reported that truck operators are using her sidewalk, threatening to break the walk. Council promised to make a survey of the conditions and consider methods to stop trucks using the sidewalks.

Council went on record for starting a movement that will open Lincoln Street from South Mineral to the Frank Snider property and increase the width of the street in that area 10 feet. Improvements will be started as soon as possible to make the street usable.

City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., was asked to go before the Mineral County Court and urge that steps be taken to provide for the appointment of a dog catcher and arrange for enforcement of a dog ordinance.

Complaints have been made that there are too many stray dogs running the streets.

Tri-State Deaths

VICTOR W. FRAZEE

FRIENDSVILLE—Victor William Frazee, 54, died at his home near here yesterday. Born in Garrett county, he was the son of William and Ona Thomas Frazee. He had been ill for about six months.

He was a member of the Friendsville W.O.W. lodge, Deep Creek Baptist Church and had resided in Friendsville all his life.

Surviving besides his parents are his widow, Mrs. Jessie Loudermilk Frazee, a daughter Mrs. Elleen Waite, Pittsburgh, Pa., a brother, Clayton Frazee, Friendsville and a sister, Mrs. Harry Naylor, Guilford, Conn.

A funeral service will be held at the Bolden Funeral Home in Oakland, at 2 p. m. Friday. Interment will be in the Oakland cemetery.

JOSEPH D. HEALEY

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Joseph D. Healey, 82, native of Piedmont, died of a heart ailment Sunday at his home in Washington.

A requiem mass will be celebrated today at 9 a. m. in St. Aloysius' Catholic Church there, and burial will take place in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Healey went to Washington as a young boy. He entered the service of the B. and O. Railroad in 1885, and from 1902 to 1907 he served as station master of the old B. and O. station.

When the new depot opened in 1907, Mr. Healey transferred to the Washington Terminal Company. After 52 years' service, he retired in 1937 as trainmaster at the terminal firm.

Survivors include two daughters, Alice A. Healey and Mrs. Grace H. Cunningham, Washington, and two sons, Bernard W. Healey, Washington, and Joseph D. Healey, division passenger agent on the B. and O. in Cincinnati.

MRS. JOHN BECKNER

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mrs. John Beckner, 68, of Holly Meadows, died Monday in Tucker County Hospital where she had been a patient for a week.

Born at Pifer Mountain, she was the daughter of the late Robert and Katorah (Kifer) Murphy. Mrs. Beckner was a member of Pifer Mountain Methodist Church and the Holly Meadows Farm Woman's Club.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Carl and Dale Barr, Parsons, and Virgil Barr, Lorado; a daughter, Mrs. Marvin Evans, Parsons; three brothers, Clinton and Boyd Murphy, Parsons, and Cecil Murphy, Bridgeport; three half-brothers, Burton Murphy, Washington; Sgt. Robert Murphy, stationed with the Air Force at Arlington, Va., and Dennis Murphy, Parsons; two sisters, Mrs Elizabeth Wilson, Philippi, and Mrs Leslie Retaire, Parsons, and six grandchildren.

The body will remain at the Greenlief Funeral Home, Parsons, where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. today. Rev. Robert L. Reynolds, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Pifer Mountain Cemetery.

ELI TINGLER

PARSONS, W. Va. — A funeral service was conducted yesterday afternoon at the Lohr Funeral Home in Elkins for Eli Tingler, 84 who died at his home in Wymer on Sunday.

Rev. H. L. Koontz, pastor Emeritus of the E. U. B. Church of Elkins officiated and interment was in the Taylor cemetery at Bowden.

He was born at Flanagan Hill, Tucker county, July 16, 1866, a son of the late Jacob and Elizabeth Flanagan Tingler. His wife, the former Hulda J. Carr, whom he married in Tucker county on October 29, 1893, died a few years ago.

Judge Reverses Settlement Of Old Will

See Takes Action In Mineral County

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See, in chancery action in Mineral County Circuit Court, handed down a ruling Monday, reversing the decision of Hal Reynolds, commissioner in the action involving settlement of the will of Jacob E. Miller, deceased. The case was brought in the local court by Audrey Rogers McDonald, et. al. against Charles Rinker, executor, et. al.

The action centered around the children of Mrs. Leona Rogers, who died before the will was made, and the interpretation of the commissioner in settlement. The court ruled on a portion of the conflicting matter several weeks ago. The ruling handed down this week is an opinion, covering in more detail the court's interpretation.

In this final ruling the court said, "The 'living children' applies to the time of death of the testator unless an intention to the contrary appears in the will. x x x No such intention appears in the will. It was probably the intention of the testator to have the will speak as of the time of his death. x x x There is no intention expressed or implied to disinherit any of his children.

"The court is further of the opinion the interpretation of this will by the commissioner of accounts, in 1933, together with the County Court in approving same, is null, void and of no legal effect."

The judge goes on to speak in reference to the children of Leona Rogers having acquiesced in 1933 or 1934, to an adjustment which excluded them from inclusion in settlement of a part of their grandfather's estate, and finds that they are not entitled to distributions made in those years, and added he finds no intention on the part of these children to question that part of the settlement. Their only notice as to action taken concerns actions in December, 1931, January, 1932 and February, 1932.

The court finds, in the final statement of the ruling "there was no act, word or order on the part of the plaintiff that would stop them from asserting their right to claim their share of the testator's estate, except as stated."

Engagement Is Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Crowe, South Water Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith E. Crowe, to Victor D. Rosso, son of Nicholas and the late Mrs. Rosso, Princeton, N. J.

Miss Crowe is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College where she was a member of the Phi Omicron Delta Sorority, and received her Masters Degree from the University of Maryland. At present she is a teacher at the Woodlin Elementary School in Silver Spring.

Mr. Rosso attended Parks College of St. Louis and is now a senior in the College of Business Administration at the University of Maryland. He served in the Air Force during World War II and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

Street Repair Needs Stressed

WESTERNPORT — Two complaints were received at the meeting of Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night Feb. 19, relative to streets needing repairs.

Fred Imhoff, Greene Street, and Mrs. Glenn Clark, McKinley Street, also in OakView, complained. Mrs. Clark said if the town will furnish the shale her husband will haul it in his truck.

Mayor Kight informed the complainants that the town would do something about it and that it has been an unusual bad winter and many streets need some repairs.

The rate for garbage collections effective April 1, will be increased. For homes the price was raised from 75 cents to $1 for three months, business firms from $1.50 to $2, and super markets from $6 to $9.

Some of the traffic problems were discussed and it was decided that a survey of the town be made before any action will be taken.

Pythian Sister To Make Visit

MIDLAND—Mrs. Viola McGann, district deputy grand chief, will make her official visitation at a meeting of Myrtle Temple No. 2, Pythian Sisters, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Red Men's Hall on Main Street.

Guests from Morning Star, Lonaconing; Calanthe, Frostburg; Manhattan, Cumberland, and Garrett, Oakland, are expected to attend.

Among the visitors also will be grand temple officers of the State, past supreme representatives, past grand chiefs, grand trustees and grand press correspondents. A program will be followed by refreshments.

Bedford Farmers Supply Milk

Dairy farmers in the Bedford (Pa.) area received $1,441,644 in 1950 for milk shipped to Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company, Philadelphia.

Total payments to 320 farmers for 1950 were disclosed by the company as it announced that 65 farmers from this area would be honored at a meeting of Supplee producers to be held at 7:45 p. m. on Wednesday, February 28, at Bedford High School Auditorium.

The dairymen to be honored at Supplee's third annual achievement award meetings have been cited for doing "the topflight job of consistently producing high quality milk on a level month-to-month basis in this area", said John R. Edwards, Supplee assistant vice-president in charge of milk procurement.

Rec Board Plans Training Course

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Keyser Recreation Board met recently and decided to again sponsor a three-day leadership training institute in Keyser in April.

The institute will be for playlot leaders and supervisors under the direction of John G. Scherlacher, state recreation consultant, West Virginia University. The institute will be held in the Keyser Fire Hall.

The formation of a Little Baseball League was discussed with no decision reached. Albert Thomas represented the group interested in forming the league.

The board will hold a special meeting, open to the public, at the Court House February 27 at 7 p. m. for all those interested in a playlot on Armstrong Street Extended. A lot has been loaned to the city by W. B. Woolf.

Tri-Towns Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Chevy Chase, visited Mayor and Mrs. Harold Fredlock, Jones Street Piedmont.

The Tri-Towns District Scouters will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Odd Fellow's Hall, Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, district chairman, states.

The No. 1 side of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will hold a covered dish supper for members and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Johnson, 14 West Hampshire Street, Thursday 6 p. m. Feb 22.

The Alumni Association of St. Peter's High School will hold a public card party Wednesday February twenty-eighth, at 8:30 p. m. at Jake's Place, Bridge, 500, setback and canasta will be played.

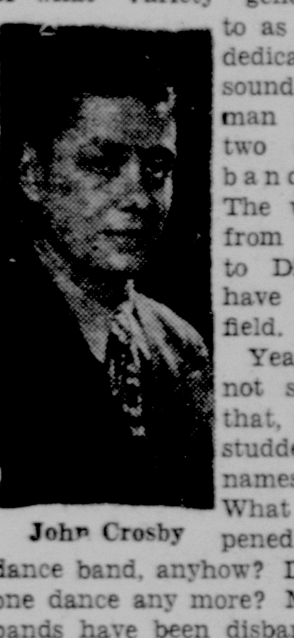
ATTEST SECRETARY CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Decline Of The Name Band

THIS is a highly vocal age and I don't pretend to understand why. If you prowl through "Variety's" list of top selling records, you'll find that 21 or 23 of what "Variety" generally refers to as platters are dedicated to the sound of the human voice. Only two are strictly band numbers. The vocalists, from Patti Page to Dinah Shore, have swept the field.



John Crosby

Years ago, and not so many at that, the list was studded with the names of bands. What has happened to the dance band, anyhow? Doesn't anyone dance any more? Many of the bands have been disbanded or are pulled together only occasionally—a loose collection of instrumentalists rather than a band—to make records. Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, Tommy Dorsey, Bob Crosby, to name only a few, could all attract a sizable crowd who came to listen, conceivably to dance, to the band. The singing was incidental. Where are they now? Benny Goodman has a quintet in Las Vegas. Bob Crosby long ago gave up the band and concentrated on singing where the money lies.

• — • — •

The big dance craze now is for Latin music—the samba, the momba and the rest of them. With all respect to our neighbors of the south, these are old men's dances. A fellow spends 20 years amassing a tall bundle of pelf during which he is too busy to dance. Suddenly, he feels life is slipping by and, in a burst of belated youth, he goes to Arthur Murray's where he learns to wiggle his hips in a stately fashion, a method of exercise suited to his aging bones.

The dances of the '20s and the '30s, the Charleston, Black Bottom, the jitterbug, the Big Apple, were anything but old men's dances. They were terribly strenuous and designed especially for the ebullient young, a method of expression of their own delight in their youth, their health, their gay spirits.

• — • — •

With the arrival of Mr. Frank Sinatra and his host of successors of both sexes, the dance band ceased to have much importance except as an accompanist. The kids stopped dancing, which is a form of participation, and fell to simple listening, a rather alarming form of passivity for our young. When I was a boy, the records were identified by the name of the band—Paul Whiteman, let us say—and by a single word, vocal, reminded you that there would be some singing on it. Today, it is the band that is anonymous, the Dinah Shores and Billy Eckstines get the billing.

In the '30s, Benny Goodman's band played on the Camel Caravan, depended almost entirely on band music and was very successful. The Camel Caravan has long since disappeared. The Hit Parade, originally a band program, has had to be hypoed by name singers to preserve its popularity. The only bands on television these days—apart from the Fred Waring type of thing which is essentially a big production number—are Cavalcade of Bands, which has run so short of bands that it has to repeat some of them like Xavier Cugat four or five times. Skitch Henderson "and his band" have appeared a couple of times, too. Actually, Skitch hasn't had a band in years. He simply recruits musicians for each performance.

In the fall of 1949, Victor records tried to arouse a little interest in bands again and issued a series of band albums which featured the music usually of one composer—Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers. These earned some $600,000, which is considered only so-so. This year they went back to the vocalists—Perry Como, for example, singing a selection of Billy Rose's old songs—and they expect to earn at least one-third more with them.

There are still some good bands in existence—Jimmy Dorsey, Woody Herman, Harry James—but not a single one has made a record which can compete, for heaven's sake, with Mel Blanc singing "I Taw a Puddy Tat," which is tenth on "Variety's" list.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q W S B E Q W I X B V F R W P. H J W K J S R Z G K P S X C J E X B R W M C Q H E P S X— E H Q F C.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NAY, THEN, LET THE DEVIL WEAR BLACK, FOR I'LL HAVE A SUIT OF SABLES—SHAKESPEARE.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our wife and mother, C. Elizabeth Rizer, who died Feb. 21, 1946.

Your gentle face and gentle smile,
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
Sadly missed by her husband,
Charles G. Rizer and Daughters

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha M. Norris, who died thirteen years ago, February 21, 1938.

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Her loving children

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you be "truly in love" at fifteen?

Answer: You can feel as strongly at fifteen as at twice that age that one other person is the only thing in life that matters. But if "true love" mean love based upon a realistic mental picture of what being married to the loved one would mean, the emotions of fifteen will seldom answer this description. Love at fifteen generally represents a sort of magical solution of life's problems, either at home or outside, which the child feels he or she cannot solve by more natural methods. The truth is, however, that you must adjust yourself to life as a whole before you are capable of loving truly.

Is "demand feeding" hard on mothers?

Answer: It is pretty difficult for some of them, reports Dr. Hanna Colm in the Quarterly Journal of Child Behavior. Whatever we may feel are the ideal conditions for a baby, we must not forget that his mother has feelings also and that if we ask her to do more than she is capable of doing, the resulting tension and resentment will affect the baby in turn. The physician must take the mother's fear of being overworked or "tied down" into account and help her work out a feeding schedule that will involve the least possible strain on her.

Is patience a virtue?

Answer: It is a most valuable trait but it is not a virtue in the sense of being best achieved through effort and will-power. The psychiatrist has what may seem to an outsider to be "infinite patience" because he knows so well that emotional re-education cannot be hurried and that trying to put pressure on a patient only undoes any progress that he has made. Similarly, it is lack of understanding of their children and forgetfulness of their own childhood that makes parents expect youngsters to remember everything they are told the first time that they hear it.

Highway Accident Truckers Pay Fines

Two truckers involved in an accident January 28 at the intersection of Routes 45 and 50, about one mile east of Augusta, W. Va., recently were convicted in Romney on state motor charges.

Authorities said John D. Parsons, Winchester, Va., paid $50 and costs for reckless driving and had his license revoked until he acquires satisfactory liability insurance. Damage resulting from the mishap was estimated at more than $20,000.

Langford F. Leach, also of Winchester, was fined $25 and costs for hazardous driving. Both are employed by the Allegany Freight Lines.

Mayor Fredlock Talks About Radio

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Mayor Harold Fredlock reported to City Council Monday afternoon concerning discussions he previously had with mayors of Keyser, Westernport and Luke concerning the operation of the Keyser police radio station.

A device to keep the station on its beam, costing $290, is needed. The station has been getting off its beam and if the condition is not corrected the Federal Communications Commission will not permit continuance of the station, which connects police departments of Piedmont, Keyser, Westernport and Luke.

Automobile Purchase Authorized By Board

Members of the Allegany Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized an advertisement for a new medium price four-door sedan in the medium weight range.

The car will be used by the Allegany County Roads Department. The bid must include the offered price for a 1950 sedan to be traded in on the new car.

Bids on the new car will be opened by the board at its meeting Tuesday, March 13, at 10:30 a. m.

Keyser Sorority Plans For Convention

KEYSER, W. Va.—Iota Pi Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda Sorority of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, met Monday evening at the home of Loretta Keener. reading the letter because my mind wanders to the secret purpose of doing an "M" the hard way when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstrike. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky of the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is what is expected in penmanship. And the teacher rapped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

made up her mind to cure herself. She did such a good job that she went into the business of stutter-eradication, and is now a much beloved woman among those she has cured.

She estimates that there are a million stutterers in the U. S. today, all of them losing ground in school, business and social life because of the public's cruel hostility to the failing. Every one is different, she believes, and can be cured if properly and individually trained.

The year's most distinguished awards, those of Freedoms Foundation, will be announced this week on the birthdate of George Washington. Not enough has been written about this fine non-profit, nonsectarian and non-political organization.

Under its charter, Freedoms Foundation exists "to create and build an understanding of the spirit and philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights and of our 'bundle' of indivisible political and economic freedoms inherent in them . . . To inspire love of freedom and to support the spiritual unity born of the belief that man is a dignified human being, created in the image of his maker, and by that fact possessor of certain inalienable rights."

The awards total $100,000 in cash, 300 honor medals and 200 certificates of merit, and will be given for every American creative effort ranging from advertising campaigns to union publications.

Rally In Final Hour Brings Market Out Of Sharp Slump

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP) — A terrific recovery drive in the final hour of trading today brought the stock market out of a sharp slump.

After trading ended, the stock exchange reported an increase in the short interest as of Feb. 15 at 2,575,909 shares as compared with 2,499,970 shares Jan. 15. It was the largest short interest since May 19, 1932.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended unchanged at $95.00 with the industrial component off 30 cents, rails unchanged, and utilities up 10 cents.

The volume of trading came to 2,010,000 shares, an increase from Monday's total of 1,910,000 shares, but not too high as compared with recent markets.

The number of issues traded—1,184—was about average. There were 355 advancing and 582 declining only 16 new highs for 1950-51 were established, and one new low was reached. It was Standard Oil of California when issued.

Despite the wide difference between gainers and losers in the entire list, the 16 most active issues were well balanced with seven up, six down, and three unchanged.

The most active issue was Packard Motors up ¼ at 5⅞. The next four were New York Central up ¼ at 23, General Public Service up ¼ at 3½, Canadian Pacific up ⅝ at 27, and Baltimore & Ohio off ¼ at 21⅝.

The performance on the upside by Goodyear was outstanding, up three at 73⅛. Goodyear reported the highest sales on record and near record earnings for 1950.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

REFUSE TO ASSIST HIM

FOR SOME abstruse reason, there are bridge devotees who play their cards with the keenest acumen, but who seem never to get the hang of bidding with shrewdness. By the same token, some are splendid at using their canniness during the auction and then seem to be entirely different persons when the playing stage arrives. Just take one phase—refusal to help the opponents with information useful to them which would be of slight or no value to their own side. Some of these fellows are great at keeping their weapons concealed during one department of the game, but advertise them, thus aiding the enemy, in the other phase.

North: ♠ K 8 6 4 2 ♥ Q 8 7 3 ♦ A 8 ♣ 10 4
West: ♠ 10 3 ♥ None ♦ Q J 9 7 3 ♣ Q 8 6 5 3 2
East: ♠ Q J 7 5 ♥ K 6 ♦ K 10 5 2 ♣ A 9 7
South: ♠ A 9 ♥ A J 10 9 5 4 2 ♦ 6 4 ♣ K J

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

South 3-Spades, after North's jump fixed hearts as the declaration, was a cue-bid showing first-round control and asking North to show any of the same, which he did. South preferred that to Blackwooding, since one ace for North would not justify a slam if it was in clubs and left the diamonds unguarded, hereas the diamond A was what he sought.

Note, however, the way East kept his mouth shut, though not vulnerable. Many in his position, seeing a vulnerable game, perhaps slam, on the way, would have doubled or something to prepare their partners for a possible sacrifice. But he felt the chance of his opponents getting too high and then not playing him for all that strength was fine. He was right, but then he wasted all that caginess during the play.

South won the diamond Q lead with dummy's A and led the heart Q. East covered with the K and made it a cinch for South to play the A and then clear trumps with the J. Came next the spade A and K, a spade ruff, the heart 2 to the 8, a second spade ruff, heart 5 to the 7, the established spade 8 to discard the diamond 8, then the club 10. East came in with the A, assuring the contract. If East had played low, South said he would have guessed wrong, playing the J. The Q and A then would have set him. If East had not covered the heart Q, South said he would have played the A. So the same kind of tactical error was committed twice by that unfortunate defender.

South: ♠ A 7 3 ♥ K Q 3 ♦ A K 5 ♣ Q J 9 2

Why is the spade K a much better lead than the fourth-best 6 by West against South's 3-No Trumps?

Violence Near Non-Union Mines Reported Ended

Railroad Property Damaged By Vandals

Law enforcement authorities in Garrett County and in Preston County, W. Va., are keeping on the alert for roving bands of pickets who have been causing a virtual "reign of terror" in the vicinity of some non-union coal mines the past four weeks but the authorities reported last night that there has been no violence in the area since last Thursday.

Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Edward J. Frantz said deputies from the sheriff's office and State Police had toured the western section of Garrett county five different mornings in the past two weeks looking for the roving pickets.

He stressed that the only incident in Garrett County occurred last Thursday morning when between 20 and 30 cars loaded with men drove past a non-union mine at Crellin but did not stop. There was no difficulty, he added.

Frantz also reported that virtually all of the Garrett County mines are non-union and nearly all of them are continuing to operate.

Property Is Damaged

Property belonging to two railroads was damaged last week in the Preston County area in and around Kingwood, according to Capt. Harry D. Schmidt of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad police here.

Capt. Schmidt said the only damage to B&O property occurred last Thursday morning when the pockets under two drop-bottom coal hoppers were opened at Manown, two miles west of Kingwood, dumping the coal of the ground. These hoppers were on a siding near a non-union mine, he stated. Only a couple of tons of coal were lost.

More serious damage was done to property of the West Virginia Northern Railroad at Kingwood, Capt. Schmidt said. Two cars were run off a tipple at a non-union mine and a Diesel motor belonging to that railroad was damaged by sand. All of this vandalism occurred last week.

25 Arrests Made

It is understood that the normal complement of three West Virginia State Police at Kingwood was increased last Thursday to six men. This may be one of the reasons why acts of terrorism have stopped since then.

FBI Agents also reportedly were called into the case after the railroad cars were derailed.

Some 25 persons in Preston County have been arrested on various charges since the pickets began to roam. This is reported to be only a small percentage of the pickets involved.

The number has been estimated at about 300 men, still far from a majority of the estimated 2,000 men who work in non-union mines in the two counties.

Local VFW Favors Bonus

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars is on record favoring legislation with a referendum on a state bonus for World War I and World War II veterans, according to Commander Raymond Whitehair.

At last night's post meeting it was pointed out that all posts in District No. 3, which includes Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties are in favor of the bonus legislation.

Whitehair recalled that several days ago, a press release from Maryland Department VFW headquarters indicated a majority of the posts in Maryland had gone on record opposing immediate action on the bonus. He explained that this story was based on only a partial report of posts in the state and did not include this district. In fact, he outlined, it included only about 40 per cent of Maryland VFW posts.

The local post also ordered telegrams sent to the Secretary of Defense urging the selection of Cumberland as the site for a new Army Quartermaster Depot.

Charles Bujac was named civil defense officer for the post, Whitehair announced.

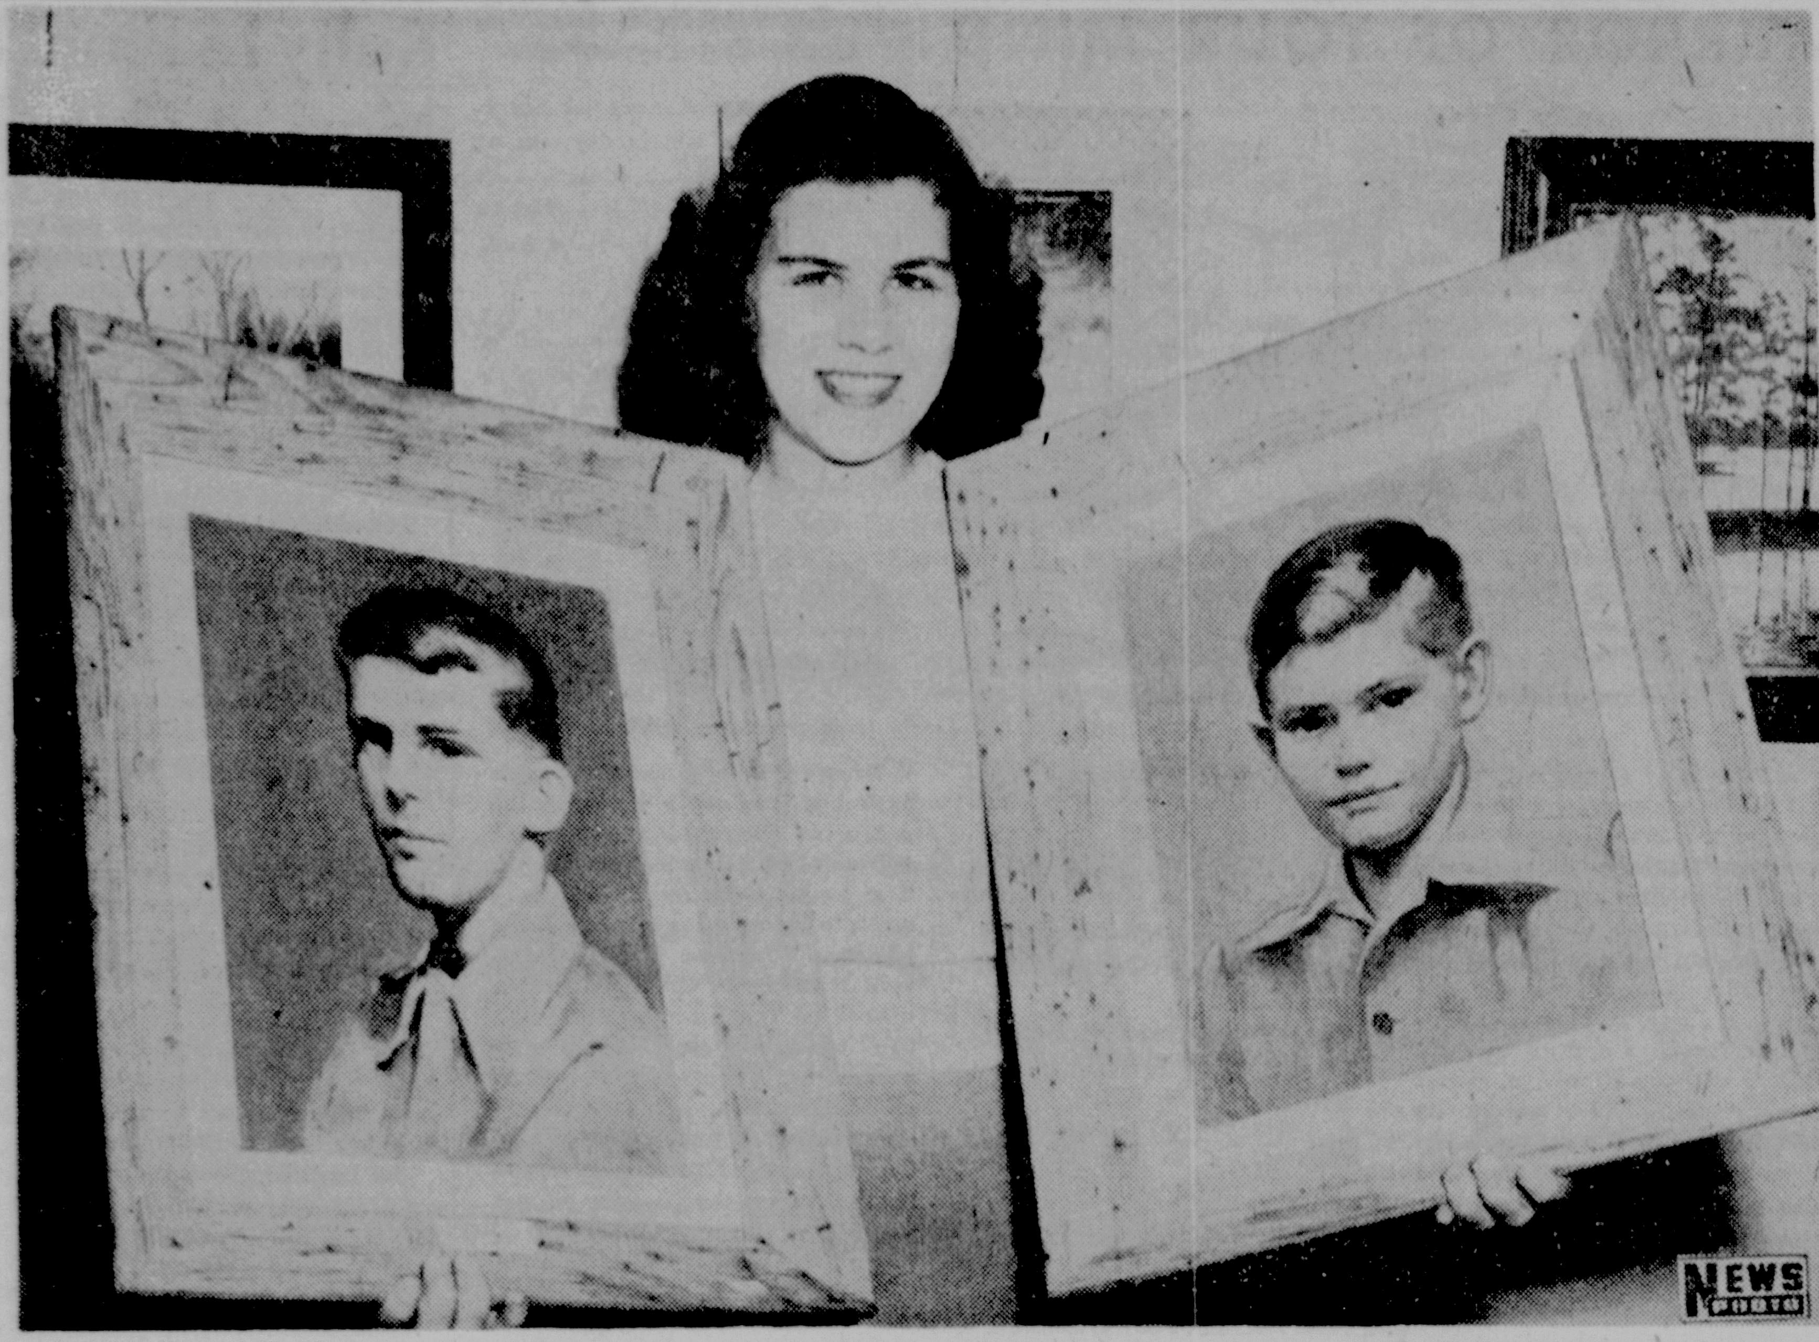
Court House To Close

Because tomorrow is the 219th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the Allegany County Court House will be closed all day.



Touch Of The Old Masters

The two portraits held by Miss Jeaneen Ruth Hartley, an assistant at the Cumberland Free Public Library, are featured in the current Tri-State Art Exhibit at the library. These portraits were done by Miss Ann D. Schuler, an instructor at the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. The subjects are her two nephews, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The painting at the left is a portrait of 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and at the right is the portrait of 13-year-old Schuler Briggs. The oil paintings were done by Miss Schuler through use of what she calls the "Maroger Medium." This medium attempts to reproduce the process which was introduced by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, founders of the Flemish school.

Conlon Reports $1,245 Received In Heart Drive

Theatre Collections Planned This Week

The Cumberland division of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund-raising drive has raised $1,245.26, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The contributions have largely been received from business and professional men, clubs and organizations and other groups who had been sent letters of appeal from the heart association.

In addition to the letter appeals tag day was held and collections were taken up at local basketball games.

Conlon reported the group is planning theatre collections with speakers to give short talks from the stages of each of the five local movie houses.

Robert Doty will appear at the Embassy Theatre at 8 p. m., at the Garden at 8:50 and at the Maryland at 9 o'clock tonight while Paul Weisenmiller is scheduled to speak at the same theatres at the identical times tomorrow night.

Mrs. Betty Kirk, visiting home nurse of the heart organization, is scheduled to make and appeal to audiences at the Liberty Theatre at 8:30 p. m. and at the Strand at 9 o'clock Friday. Another speaker not yet selected will appear at the Strand and Liberty theatres tomorrow night, Conlon said.

Members of the local Girl Scouts organization will take up the collections in the theatres under the direction of the Tag Day committee, Miss Effie Vogel, Mrs. Rachel James, and Mrs. Heyl Walker.

In breaking down contributions so far received by the Association Conlon reported $185 was received from clubs and organizations; $300 from Mayor and City Council; $250 from Allegany County Commissioners; $58.93 from basketball collections; $61.33 from Tag Day sale; $351 from business and professional organizations; and $39 from other sources.

Hitchcock Says School Children Were Smog Victims

The Senate Finance committee was told yesterday that a sudden illness of 2,304 Cumberland school children may have been due to smog.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer for this city, testified the children probably were felled on October 15, 1945, by an attack on their upper respiratory tracts from air pollution.

Hitchcock was among those who urged adoption of a bill to appropriate $100,000 a year for control and study of air pollution.

A report by a commission named to study air pollution in Maryland said Baltimore City and Cumberland were the worst smog areas, but that pollution of air was present over all of Maryland.

Get Beauty Franchise

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Miss Maryland contest, to pick the state's entry in the 1951 Miss America beauty pageant, will be held here at the Lyric Theater June 16.

The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event, announced the date today.

Weather

The weatherman promises continued mild temperatures today. Cloudy skies with occasional rain are forecast during the day. The high yesterday was 53 and the low 36 as recorded by the Constitution Park weather station. Precipitation was .01.

Mt. Savage Will Ballot On Tax Area Leaders

An election of members for the Committeee for Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area will be held April 2, with all bonafide resident property owners eligible to vote, according to Colin Bowers, chairman.

Five members must be chosen, the three highest to serve two years and the two lowest, two years.

A public meeting has been set for March 20 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. At that time a financial report is to be submitted and nominations for the coming election will be made.

Plans for the meeting and election were outlined February 12 at a meeting of the Special Taxing Area Committee.

Fire Chiefs To Formulate Plans For Mutual Aid

Further plans for mutual aid for civil defense needs will be made at a meeting of fire fighting officials of this county tonight.

A committee of the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association will confer tonight at 8 o'clock in the Public Safety Building with Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid, of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Prime targets will be set up and definite plans formulated for meeting such emergencies and at the same time giving adequate protection for the rest of the county.

Chief Reid said, for example, that if a disastrous fire broke out at the Celanese plant, the Cresaptown, Bowling Green and LaVale Volunteer Fire Departments and West Side Fire Company here would be dispatched to aid the plant's fire company.

At the same time, other departments would be alerted to step in immediately if another fire broke out in the territory normally protected by the companies sent to the industrial plant.

By having definite plans worked out, all companies would know their definite duties both on active fire fighting and on stand-by duty.

Volunteer companies which have already entered the civil defense fire set up are the Ellerslie, Corriganville, LaVale, Cresaptown, Bowling Green, District 16, Baltimore Pike, Bedford Road and Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Departments in Maryland, and the Ridgeley and Wiley Ford companies in nearby West Virginia.

Public Affairs Group To Study Legislation

The Public Affairs committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Chamber offices to review legislation which has been introduced at Annapolis.

The committee, headed by Douglas, R. Bowie, will present its report to the Board of Directors for action.

Tests Slated Today

Thirteen persons are eligible to take a Civil Service Commission examination today for the position of warehouse clerk and water department clerk. The test will be conducted at 7 p. m. in City Hall.

Paintings Exhibited Here Rediscover Van Eyck Process

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Two Christmas presents are giving visitors to the annual Tri-State Art Exhibit at the Cumberland Free Public Library an idea of the paintings of the old Flemish masters.

The presents are the oil painting portraits of two teen-age sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg. The boys are 17-year-old Charles H. Briggs and 13-year old Schuler Briggs. They were done by their aunt, Miss Ann Didusch Schuler, an instructor at Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. She is Mrs. Briggs' sister. Dr. Briggs is European history professor at Frostburg Teachers College.

Miss Schuler gave the portraits to the boys as gifts last Christmas.

The process which the Baltimore artist used in these paintings is called the "Maroger Medium." Miss Schuler learned the medium from its discoverer, Jacques Maroger, also an instructor at Maryland Institute. As a matter of fact Miss Schuler is his assistant.

Long Experiment

Maroger believes his medium has rediscovered the process first developed by Hubert and Jan Van Eyck, Flemish brothers considered the founders of the famous Flemish school of painting. For some 10 years Maroger experimented with his process, which he finally perfected about three years ago, according to Mrs. Briggs.

Hubert Van Eyck was born in 1366 and died in 1426. His younger brother, Jan, was born in 1385 and died in 1441. They are noted for working out a successful medium for oil painting. Their joint masterpiece is the renowned altar-piece in the Church of St. Bavon at Ghent. It is entitled "The Adoration of The Lamb," and is an elaborate triptych with many panels.

The "Maroger Medium" is not just oil, Mrs. Briggs explained in discussing her sister's fine paintings. The oil has an additional substance which makes it decidedly luminous.

However, the main advantage of the "Maroger Medium", is that the artist is able to lay one color over another without waiting for the first to dry. This cannot be done with ordinary oil.

Short Time

The chief value of this characteristic, Mrs. Briggs said, is that the portraits can be completed in a relatively short time.

For instance, Miss Schuler did seven portraits as Christmas gifts in a one-week period just before the holiday. One of these was the painting of the older Briggs boy, done from a photograph. The younger boy sat for his portrait last summer.

Mrs. Briggs entered her sister's paintings in the art exhibit because she thought art lovers in this area would like to examine this medium.

Street Workers Are Stymied By MuddyConditions

Urgent Requests Receive Priority

The recent thaw, which turned many of this city's unpaved streets and alleys into seas of mud, has brought more problems than the Street Department can handle.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said the department has put all available manpower on the task but so far has been unable to meet all requests.

Recent rains only ruined work which has been in progress in many sections of the city.

For the past week, the department has been able to meet only the most urgent requests, such as providing passable roads where there is sickness, where coal deliveries and garbage collections could not be made and to keep bus routes open.

In a number of cases, Mrs. Roeder said, both street and alley routes to homes have been blocked by mud.

She assured citizens that their complaints are not being ignored since all available men are working on the problems.

In many cases, she added, complaints must be acted upon in the degree of their urgency, since immediate help is necessary in some cases.

In most cases, the only relief possible is to fill in wet spots with cinders, a temporary measure, but the only course possible in the present big thaw.

Where the use of power graders is practical, they are being used.

Mrs. Roeder said employes of some Baltimore Streets merchants are still sweeping dirt into the streets and catch basins.

In the future, she added, names of violators will be referred to the Police Department.

Zion Church To Hold Third Lenten Service

The third in a series of midweek Lenten services will be held tonight at 7:30. p. m. in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street.

The third motion picture in the Life of St. Paul, "The Years of Apprenticeship", will be shown. Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr., pastor, will speak on the theme "If Any Man Be In Christ, He Is A New Creature." The church choir will sing and the public is invited.

Chemical Workers Local Meets Today

The International Chemical Workers Union, Local 261, will hold its regular meeting tonight at the Cresaptown Fire Hall at 8 p. m., Richard Swartzwelder, recording secretary, announced yesterday.

Lynn Walker, president of the Western Maryland safety council will be the speaker and a movie, "No Life In Darkness," will be shown.

The public is invited to attend the meeting after 9 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

Moose Sends 50,000 Cards To Cerebral Palsy Group

The Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 271 shipped approximately 50,000 Christmas cards Monday to the United Cerebral Palsy organization in New York City.

Lonnie Jackson, governor of the local group, said last night the cards were shipped by a local trucking company and weighed about two tons.

The huge collection was in response to an appeal made by the Moose lodge earlier in the year for the cards to help in therapy work with cerebral palsied children. The response was immediate and overwhelming, Jackson related, and although the organization planned only to carry on the work about two weeks it actually took members over a month to prepare the cards which were sent to the lodge.

Individuals, civic organizations and high school groups aided in the collection of the cards and members of the lodge sorted and packed them for shipment, Jackson said.

Karl K. VanMeter, executive director of the New York organization reported this week that more than 25,000,000 cards had been received by United Cerebray Palsy, relating that more than 50 per cent of all mail handled at Radio City sub station, headquarters for the group, is for United Cerebral Palsy.

Bus Official Airs Crowded Conditions

Says Public Service Group Be Contacted

A. J. Hutton, manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines said last night that the matter of overcrowding school children into company buses is of concern to the Public Service Commission.

He said that operators have been given instructions to prohibit overcrowding and that the agreement was that a schoolboy patrolman would be on each bus to keep order and report any cases of overloading.

According to Hutton the Cumberland Transit vehicles are built in a manner to handle an extra heavy load. Reinforced brakes assure quick stoppage. As compared to County School busses he said that more safety precautions are involved in the city busses.

Twenty-six seats are available for passengers and any number of standees can ride the bus for the short distances within the city. Hutton said the present policy which has resulted in overcrowding is a matter of "economics." He said that the five-cent fare of 60 children does not even pay the operators two hour salary.

Nothing can be done under present conditions, Hutton said. Various details enter into the transportation problem such as weather, number of students dismissed from school at certain times and number of passengers on the bus prior to picking up school children.

Charging that the Cumberland Transit Lines has failed to comply with proposals to mitigate the overcrowding of school busses, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long indicated yesterday he will request City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey to prepare an ordinance to "control this unsafe condition."

In a letter to Guy M. Davis, co-owner of the firm, he stated:

"A few weeks ago we had several meetings with you, relative to the overcrowding of school buses. At that time, you proposed: (1) The painting of white warning lines in the buses to keep the passengers away from the bus driver; and (2) That we check the buses periodically for violations of this accident prevention rule."

Commissioner Long attached a report by Officer James W. Brown and said it "is evidence that the condition continues to exist and the only alternative I have is to request ordinance that will control this unsafe condition before we experience a serious accident involving local persons."

Final Arguments Slated Today In Sewer Suit

Westernport Ends Its Defense

Closing arguments from rival attorneys and instructions to the jurors from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris today will wind up the lengthy trial in Allegany County Circuit Court of a $5,000 sewer damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport. The trial started Monday.

Defense Attorneys H. P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper yesterday sent 15 witnesses, most of them present or former Westernport officials, to the stand yesterday, before resting their case at 4:08 p. m.

Thomas Lohr Richards and H. G. Shores, Mrs. Droege's attorneys, then called William O. Droege, the plaintiff's husband to the stand as a rebuttal witness, but his testimony was cut short when the court ruled that his remarks were simply repetition of his earlier testimony and not in the nature of rebuttal. The plaintiff's attorney then rested their case at 4:10 p. m., after which Judge Harris excused the jurors until 9:15 a. m. today.

Two of the defense witnesses yesterday afternoon, Dr. Lewis F. Engle, Westernport dentist, and John Matthews, former town commissioner, both testified that rains in Westernport on July 12, 1949, the day the sewer broke under Mrs. Droege's house, were severe. Matthews said they were the worst he could recall in his 57 years.

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland civil engineer, who was the final defense witness, said he believed the Westernport sewer was constructed properly. He examined the sewer last Friday.

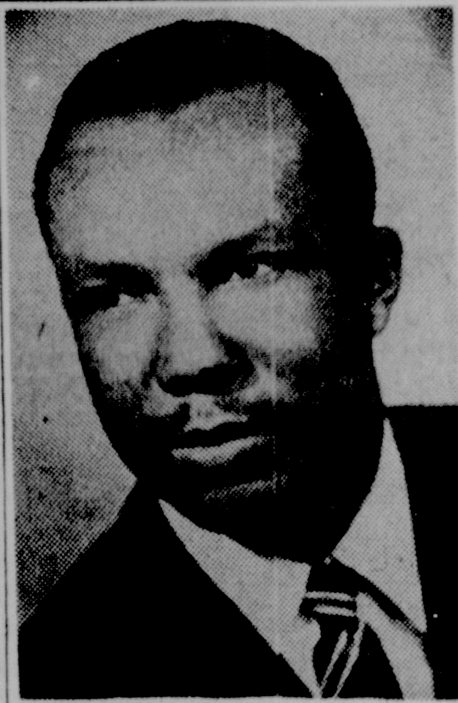
Church To Observe Week Of Dedication

Week of Dedication will be observed in the Ellerslie Methodist Church by different church organizations which will use "We Have An Altar," as their theme.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the choir will meet using the subject, "We lay our talents on the altar for a deeper consecration."

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the Woman's Society of Christian Service will discuss "A greater zeal for missions at home and abroad," while Friday at the same time the church school will meet on the theme, "More emphasis on decisions for Christ."

Layman's Day will be observed at Corriganville at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. Earl Miller will be the speaker. Miller will also speak at services at 11 a. m. at Cooks Mill. Rev. C. S. Patterson will be the speaker at 11 a. m. services at Ellerslie.



JOSEPH LIPSCOMB

Pittsburgh Tenor Has Opera Lead

Joseph Lipscomb To Portray Moses

Joseph Lipscomb, Pittsburgh tenor who has gained national attention, will sing the role of Moses in the National Negro Opera Company, Inc., Biblical story opera, "The Ordering of Moses," at Allegany High School auditorium, Sunday, February 25, at 8:30 p. m.

The opera which has a cast of over 100 singers and dancers from Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York, is under the direction of Mary Cardwell Dawson, founder of the group.

The text of the opera is based on Scripture and folklore with the song, "Go Down Moses," as the main theme. Colorful scenery and costumes are part of the feature attraction of the show.

The opera was written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett who also wrote the music, and is presented in four acts. Incidental dances and solos are presented by the opera ballet.

The National Negro Opera Company has been highly praised for its presentation of "Ordering of Moses," which has had successful showings in Chicago and New York.

William F. Jones and John E. Trimble are in charge of the local presentation and tickets are available at the Cumberland Music Shop, Baltimore Street.

Mayors Attend Meeting On Rubbish Disposal

Plan Would Avert Water Pollution

A proposal to eliminate pollution of the Potomac River by garbage disposal was discussed at a meeting held in the Keyser W. Va., Council Chamber last night.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Harold Fredlock, Piedmont, W. Va., Mayor Charles Dayton, Luke, Mayor John C. Freeland, Keyser and Police Commissioner R. A. Mulledy who represented Mayor George Kight Westernport. J. B. Dowling Md. State Sanitarian also attended.

The meeting was called by William Waller, senior sanitarian of District 5 of the W. Va., State Health Department to tell mayors of the Tri-Towns and Keyser just how the plan could be put in operation.

The proposal calls for the burying of garbage and other rubbish in trenches measuring twenty by one hundred feet in length and at a depth just above the water line. Disposal of garbage would be accomplished by dumping the rubbish in the trench and at the end of each day cover it over with a bulldozer and Clam Scoop. This measure averts flies, mosquitoes, vermin and other unsanitary conditions.

The plan proposed by the State Health Department has been successful in Baltimore and other eastern cities. Elkins is the nearest location where such a method of disposal is carried on.

The present proposal is being sponsored by Maryland and West Virginia in cooperation with the U. S. Government.

Another such meeting will be held in the near future at which time council members, representative of civic organizations and Chambers of Commerce will be present. A representative from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke will also attend. A movie explaining the new disposal method will be shown with explanations by state authorities.

TWUA To Act On Plan To Elect Delegates

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will vote tonight at 7:30 o'clock on an executive board recommendation concerning the election of delegates to the 1952 TWUA convention.

Melvin Harris, business agent, said the plan would call for the election of convention delegates in conjunction with the annual election of officers.

McKeldin Turns Thumbs Down On Education Bills

Says Magic Wand Won't Raise Funds

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 20 (AP) — Governor McKeldin minced no words today in announcing his "firm opposition" to proposals by the State Department of Education for teachers' raises and other expenditures totalling $10,000,000 a year.

"Such vast sums cannot be come by waving a magic wand," the governor declared.

"In view of present conditions and prospects for the near future, the need, as I have said, is to hold the line," he reiterated in a statement.

"The people, including the teachers, will applaud such a decision."

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, and other officials of the system, submitted four bills to the governor last night.

They would increase teachers' salaries $500 each at a cost of $7,300,000 to the state, add $1,775,000 a year to the incentive fund for school buildings, and increase state aid to libraries by $800,000 annually.

In addition, the department wants a $35,000,000 bond issue to help the subdivisions build new schools.

The measures, contrary to expectations, were not introduced at today's session of the general assembly, but probably will be submitted tomorrow.

"The legislature and the people of this state should realize the meaning of these bills in terms of money," the governor said.

"Approximately $10,000,000 is being added to the budget—not as an appropriation for a single year merely, but annually from now on, indefinitely.

"Ten million dollars additional each year is not a trifle that this state can assume lightly.

Would Boost Debt

"This is in addition to the $35,000,000 in bonds which will have to be paid off with interest. This issue would raise the state debt by about a third of its present aggregate, which is the highest in the history of Maryland.

"These proposals spell taxes — heavy taxes—additional taxes, at once and indefinitely into the future."

The governor explained that his budget bill includes appropriations to provide automatic pay increases due teachers under the law.

His budget, he said, is "properly balanced with anticipated revenues and surplus resulting from the current year's operations."

It calls for expenditure of a record $160,000,000 during the year starting July 1.

The Board of Revenue estimates now predicts state revenues during the next fiscal year will be about $3,450,000 more than was figured on when the budget was drawn up.

That extra cash, the governor said, is "needed to pay the salary increases for underpaid state employes, an act of justice which everyone recognizes."

He said it is not the teachers themselves "who are pressing this enormous and back-breaking tax burden upon the people."

The governor indicated he felt that it was the "desire of certain officials and organizational leaders to bring fresh victories" that led to the Pullen proposal.

Would Boost Taxes

He said the teachers "will appreciate why I must at this time say 'no', and as good citizens they will approve my action."

One proposal advanced to finance teacher pay hikes of at least half of what Dr. Pullen suggested would put an additional $4,000,000 or so into the state treasury during the year by moving forward the due dates of corporation and some other taxes.

McKeldin turned thumbs down on it.

"This seemingly helps us, but only once," he explained. "Next year we will be unable to turn the trick again, and our levels of expenditure will have been increased by millions, thus compelling a huge tax raise next year.

First reaction from individual members of the General Assembly was almost wholly in agreement with the governor that the state cannot afford blanket $500 raises for teachers now.

However, several expressed the hope that some method can be worked out to give them about $200 additional to help meet the rising cost-of-living.

When he first suggested his $500-per-teacher plan a few weeks ago, Dr. Pullen said the raise would be necessary to keep them from leaving the classroom for better paid jobs in business and industry.

A $200 raise would not come close to meeting their needs he argued.

Pair Gets Suspended Sentences In Court

Robert William Herrell, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Blondell Cannon, city, each received suspended sentences yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Herrell pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons on February 16 and was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. Sentence was suspended and Herrell was paroled for two years.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti sentenced Cannon to 30 days in the county jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to stealing a pipe wrench and pipe cutter valued at $12 from Edward Schaidt. The sentence was suspended and the defendant paroled for one year.
